BIG GAINS SEEN IN INDIANA, OHIO FOR DEMOCRATS

Minority Leaders Claim 30 Seats Now Held by Republicans.

M'NARY AND HAWLEY FACE TROUBLE, CLAIM

Colorado Situation Held Unpromising to Party in Control.

MISSOURI TURNOVER MAY BE SURPRISING

Robsion Defeat Hoped For by Opposition in Blue Grass State.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 15.—By applying the usual instruments known to the trade at this great heart center one comes to a general diagnosis that the Republicans are experiencing scattered tummy pains out in the agricultural expanse and major intestinal disorders in Ohio and Indiana.

Those two States seem to be the Democrats' best chances of making appreciable net gains in the House, that is, gains over and above recovery of the seats which they lost in 1929. There are some 30 of these which the Democrats say are rightfully theirs, but all of which the Republicans are not conceding by a long shot.

Indeed, they have high hopes of retaining some, if for no other reason than to offset the admitted losses of normally Republican seats.

Tariff Authors in Trouble.

One hears that way out West, Senator McNary and Chairman Hawley, co-author of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, are in trouble. It is rather ironical that Mr. Hawley, condemned by the Democrats the whole country over as the author of a tariff monstrosity, is being attacked in his home bailiwick because he did not get enough for Oregon.

Mr. Hawley, in spite of his place of vantage in the tariff bartering, does seem to have been outbartered at that. His State wanted something on shingles and lumber. He couldn't get anything on shingles and only a tidbit on lumber, which Mr. McNary really had more to do with getting than Mr. Hawley had.

However, the gentleman has enjoyed such large majorities heretofore that it is not believed he will be defeated now, and this applies to any trouble Mr. McNary is having.

Situation in Colorado.

Looking out that way hurriedly the Republicans seem about to lose the senatorship in Colorado because of factional strife, and the Democrats are hopeful of unseating Representative Eaton in the First District. Mr. Eaton has figured in the so-called new oil expose but the man is pretty deeply intrenched and it is doubtful if he will be beaten.

In Montana, if the Republican senatorial candidate, Alfred P. Galen, should defeat Senator Tom Walsh the Republicans might in addition pick up Representative Evans' scalp in the First District. One gathers here, however, that at this time Walsh has the edge.

In the Third South Dakota, Representative Williamson, Republican, is in trouble but he always is and usually wins. In an effort to recapture the governorship in that State, with its attendant patronage, the Republicans seem to have gotten fairly solidly behind Senator McMaster, causing that gentleman's chances of reelection to perk up right smartly when a few weeks ago betting was even that the Democratic wit, Gov. Bulow, would defeat him.

Simmons Safe in Nebraska.

Now zigzagging down to Nebraska, Representative Simmons, in the Sixth, seems to be the only Republican that is safe. He is so safe that he is here in charge of the congressional speaking bureau. It looks as though the Democrats will recover the Fourth and Fifth districts in that State and they may make a net gain in the Omaha district. The Republican incumbent, Representative Sears, was defeated by a wet in the primary, Malcolm Baldridge, so a wet will be elected anyway as the Democratic nominee is also wet.

Senator Norris is expected to win, of course, with Democratic votes, while the Democratic senatorial candidate, Gilbert M. Hitchcock is seeking Republican votes.

The Republicans, through factional troubles, threw away what they had considered an excellent opportunity of defeating Democratic Senator Bratton in New Mexico. Now the outlook is not only for his re-election but that the Democrats will recover the one congressional seat.

Other Campaign Rumors.

Minnesota is still shouting wolf, trying to make observers believe that it has an upset up its sleeve, but the

Says: We have in this country a certain type of office holder, fortunately not large, who are always out with square and compass seeking to find out what the political effect will be of every action they take. They do not need to make such elaborate investigations. Any one with a little experience can tell them in advance that the effect of action based on such motives will always be bad. All the predominant political opinion of the Nation which is worth cultivating is never impressed by decisions made for effect. Those who compose that body want responsible office holders to try to find out what is best for the welfare of the people and do that. They are moved by sincerity and integrity of purpose. Pretense does not appeal to them.

That is the reason why those who seek popularity so seldom find it, while those who follow an informed conscience so often are astonished by a wide public approval. The people know a sham even when they seem to be trying to fool themselves and they can not help having wholesome respect for a reality. The best political effect usually comes to those who disregard it.

CRIME COMMISSION READY TO ADJOURN

TASK HELD TREMENDOUS

(Associated Press.)

Hope for an announcement on prohibition before the election was abandoned yesterday by the Law Enforcement Commission as it found its task "tremendous" even after digesting the reports of investigators.

After yesterday's session, which three members were unable to attend, Chairman Wickersham said an adjournment would be taken on Friday until November 5, the day after the election. At that time, in response to a demand by a group of commission members, prohibition will become the order of business.

While some of the special committee which gathered the facts for the prohibition report are prepared to submit some very definite conclusions, it was agreed that after two meetings yesterday that the preliminary work of assembling the data would forestall an immediate decision by the commission on prohibition.

Nevertheless, commission members reported "progress" last night in their work and there was a general expression from them that everything was moving ahead harmoniously. There has been no effort so far to line up any group within the commission behind any proposal.

It is unlikely that the three unable to attend yesterday, Newton D. Baker, of Ohio; Federal Circuit Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, and Frank J. Loesch, of Chicago, will be able to get here before the adjournment this week and for that reason no decisions of importance are expected before then.

Marshal Slain by Thugs; Girl Shot in Chase Later

North Manchester, Ind., Oct. 15 (A. P.).—Presta Vickery, 40 years old, night marshal, was shot and killed early this morning when he attempted to arrest two men who were robbing a men's furnishing store. The men escaped.

A short time after the robbery an officer at Silver Lake, a short distance north of here, fired on a car that failed to obey his command to halt. One of his shots wounded slightly Miss Anna Harper, of Mansfield, Ohio, in the leg. The party with which Miss Harper was traveling was en route to Michigan. The driver of the car said he did not hear the command of the officer.

FIREMAN IS INJURED IN APARATUS CRASH

Man's Knee Hurt as Engine Hits Truck; A. P. Thom's Garage Burned.

$10,000 DAMAGE IS DONE

A fireman was injured last night when No. 28 engine and No. 14 truck collided on Van Ness street, just behind the Bureau of Standards, while going to a fire that badly damaged the garage of Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the American Railway Executives Association, at Pembroke.

The accident occurred on a dangerous curve in the street when the driver of the engine, unaware of the approach of the truck, began backing to a fire plug. Virtually all of the firemen on the latter were thrown off when the truck stopped suddenly in trying to avoid a collision, and Charles Shaw was struck by a piece of apparatus. Upon being rushed to Emergency Hospital, he was found to have an injured knee. It was said not to be serious.

Hose had to be stretched about 800 feet to the garage, and the flames, which originated near an oil heater, had enveloped the structure before the firemen could turn on the water. Damage was estimated by Mr. Thom to be approximately $10,000.

The garage, which was also used for servant quarters, was unoccupied when the fire broke out about 8 o'clock, the first small flame being noticed by Emma Weber, daughter of the gardener, who, with her father, E. G. Weber, spread the alarm to the three residences that compose Pembroke.

Three automobiles in the garage were driven to safety by Frank Robinson, colored chauffeur, but the furnishings in the second floor bed chambers weer ruined by fire and water.

The building was salf of a one-time famous roadhouse, at that time on the outskirts of the Capital. About 60 years ago it was known as the Warmley Inn and was operated by a then noted colored restauranteur. Some time later it was divided into two parts, one of which now is used as the gardener's home.

Nearby residents along Van Ness street, as well as Mr. Thom, pointed to the fire truck accident as an instance of the danger of the crooked thoroughfare, a condition they said they have several times called to the attention of iDstrict authorities. Mr. Thom said he had even offered to donate the necessary land if the street were straightened.

The Devonshire Downs Citizens Association recently adopted a resolution urging the District Commissioners to remedy the evil.

BURNED SMITH COMPANY FILES, WITNESS SAYS

HENRY, ANADALE AND PITTS ARE ACCUSED

FARQUHAR EXPLAINS FORMER AFFIDAVIT

Was Called as Defense Aid; Attorneys Raise Issue of Perjury.

Sensational charges that three former officials of the F. H. Smith Co. authorized the burning of the records in the Hamilton Hotel Corporation case and the embezzlement case against Smith company officials was offered yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The testimony was given by John Farquhar, former secretary of G. Bryan Pitts; former president of the Smith company. Farquhar now lives in Indianapolis, Ind., and stated when called to the stand that he had to return to that city immediately.

Justice William Hitz, who is presiding at the hearing on pleas in abatement to an indictment in which four former officials of the company are charged with embezzling more than $5,000,000 immediately ordered that the jury be excused and that Farquhar's testimony be taken out of his presence. Justice Hitz immediately departed. This disposition, it was stated, was by stipulation of attorneys.

Called as Defense Witness.

Farquhar was called as a witness on behalf of Pitts, Samuel J. Henry, former president of the company, and G. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., former vice presidents, who are named jointly in the indictment. Efforts to force him to admit that he had committed perjury were repeatedly injected by Frank G. Raichle, who conducted the examination, and while the witness declared that he had signed an affidavit that he had not burned the records he did not believe that he was committing perjury since he had signed a paper given to him by Pitts and which he knew he had to sign if he was to keep his position.

All the time he was testifying Farquhar fingered the Bible on which he had taken the oath "to tell the truth and nothing but the truth."

The witness declared that he had been ordered by Henry and Anadale to destroy the records. He stated that in pursuance of that instruction he had gone to the Jefferson apartments, where he had met Pitts in the lobby.

Pitts, he stated, had given him similar instructions.

Tells of Burning Files.

"Then," said the witness, "I went upstairs and was told to go down to the basement and get certain records which I would find there." Farquhar declared that he made the trip, found the records and took them to the Smith Co. building on Fifteenth street northwest near H street, where he, the superintendent of the building, and Joe Howard, former Negro janitor of the building, destroyed them.

Asked if he thought Pitts was "crooked," the witness replied in the affirmative. In regard to a similar question referring to Henry, he said: "I have never known him to do a dishonest act."

Questioned as to Anadale, he stated that he had signed the checks by which the Government alleges Pitts' bank account at Seat Pleasant, Md., was augmented, and which Tuesday resulted in the reindictment of Pitts on a charge of embezzlement of more than $1,200,000 of the company's funds.

Farquhar declared on close questioning by Mr. Raichle, which was

FEDERATION ADOPTS EMPLOYMENT PLAN

Cooperation of Public and Private Groups Asked by Labor Meeting.

NAVY YARD PAY CUT HIT

Boston, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—A comprehensive plan of unemployment relief action, which embraced provisions for the cooperative participation of public and private groups to be headed by President Hoover, was adopted here today by the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

The convention referred to the federation executive council the entire unemployment insurance problem as embodied in a group of resolutions dealing with the subject. The resolutions committee, which recommended such action, clearly indicated its objection to existing methods of alleviating unemployment distress in this manner.

The unemployment relief program provided for the appointment of committees by President Hoover, governors of all States, mayors, and other similar officers of cities and towns, and by the State and local labor bodies. These committees, working with the assistance of Federal and State government departments, would initiate recommendations in their respective localities to provide means of minimizing unemployment. The procedure would be carried to the territories of Alaska, Hawaii, and Porto Rico and Canada by the unions.

The executive council was instructed to start the Federal movement as far as President Hoover was concerned and State and municipal campaigns would be initiated by local and State labor organizations.

The plan, by its provisions, would be set before the officials of the Nation by the respective divisional heads immediately after adjournment of the convention this week. Stress was laid upon the need of immediate action to assist in relief of predicted hard times during the coming winter months and that it was the first work to be performed.

It was definitely set forth in the plan that its provisions should be

Mrs. Ernst Booked at Station House After 13th and F Melee.

An attractive young radio singer, who refused to be arrested, stood off a half-dozen or more policemen for 30 minutes last night, and nearly created a riot at Thirteenth and F streets northwest. She gave her name as Mrs. Shirley Ernst, of Devonshire place, near Connecticut avenue, and said that she was an entertainer for station WOL, where she was going to keep an engagement when Traffic Policeman L. D. Johnson accosted her for double parking.

Mrs. Ernst, who describes herself as "the girl with the golden voice," said that the policeman refused to give her a ticket, and insisted that she accompany him to the First Precinct Station. When she is said to have refused to leave her car, the policeman shoved it over to the curb and the row began.

Declaring that she was "no murderess and would not go to jail," Mrs. Ernst ran up the windows of the machine, took her slipper in her hand and announced her intention of staying where she was until her husband arrived in response to a phone call.

As she and the policeman argued the matter for more than 20 minutes, a crowd that all but blocked traffic on Thirteenth street gathered, and other policemen hastened to the scene. Policeman C. Langdon, who attempted to run down the car's window, was bitten on the hand, and Policeman Johnson was pummeled

CHRISTIAN CHURCH PULPIT DEDICATED

Campaign for $8,000,000 Pension Fund Inaugurated by Disciples.

NOTED SPEAKERS HEARD

Dedication of the pulpit in the new National City Christian Church, at Thomas Circle, and the inauguration of a campaign to subscribe an $8,000,000 pension fund featured yesterday's session of the International Convention of the Disciples of Christ, which is expected to bring more than 15,000 delegates here for gatherings scheduled to close October 23. More than a dozen group meetings, luncheons and executive sessions of allied organizations were held in various halls and churches yesterday.

Last night the delegates gathered at the Washington Auditorium and at Constitution Hall for inspiration services and discussions of "Christian Unity After a Century" and "The Pentecost a Climax and Beginning."

Dr. Edgar De Witt Jones, of Detroit, and Dr. Jesse M. Bader, of Indianapolis, spoke on the subjects at the auditorium, while the gathering in Constitution Hall was addressed by the evangelist, Charles Reign Scoville, and H. C. Armstrong. Hymns and brief scripture readings closed both meetings.

Simple ceremonies marked the pulpit's dedication at 12:45 o'clock, at one of a series of gatherings which will culminate with a sunrise service

Dr. Hamilton Says Two Shots Were Drilled Into Dead Bodq.

CRIME IMPOSSIBLE IN AUTO, HE INSISTS

Theory of Strangulation Also Scouted by Microanalyst.

DEATH CAUSE LAID TO BULLET IN NECK

Father of Victim Opposes Exhumation and Plan Is Abandoned.

Mary Baker was not slain in her automobile, is the conclusion reached by Dr. Albert H. Hamilton, retained by counsel for Herbert M. Campbell to scrutinize the Government evidence against the prisoner.

This revelation, it was learned by The Washington Post, came last night after the microanalyst had microscopically examined the clothing worn by the slain girl and found no powder marks on the garments which would have been visible, he said, if the death shots had been fired at close range.

Dr. Hamilton's report to Attorney Charles Henry Smith, counsel for Campbell, caused the latter to communicate with Dr. Thomas Baker, father of the girl, for permission to examine the automobile which is now in his possession.

Exhumation Plan Abandoned.

Sympathy for the family of the girl prompted Mr. Smith to abandon his plans for the exhumation of the body to secure a missing bullet, which Dr. Hamilton deemed essential to the case.

Informed of this turn in the case by The Post, Dr. Baker said that he was greatly relieved, as he did not want his daughter's remains disturbed. Dr. Baker also expressed his willingness to permit the experts to examine the death car.

After a brief examination of other Government exhibits today, Dr. Hamilton and his son, Robert, will go to Oak Grove, Va., to view the automobile to seek additional substantiation to their belief that the killing occurred outside of the machine.

Autopsy Finding Disputed.

The expert's report said that two shots were fired into the body after death had occurred. He also differed with the autopsy report that death was caused by strangulation. Death, in his belief, was caused by the bullet which passed through her neck.

The shot, he said, was fired before death occurred. Another was fired into her side and one in her back after life became extinct, he declared.

His deductions are based on these observations. The bullet which entered the left side of her neck was fired when the pistol was held above the level of her neck. It coursed downward. There were no evidences of powder marks or burns.

Bullets' Course Traced.

"This shows that the pistol was held at least 18 inches from her body. The type of powder used in the mortal bullets would burn fabric at a distance of 18 inches, making it impossible for the killing to have been committed in the car.

"Bullet No. 2 entered her side and coursed downward. Where this shot entered there are no marks or singes on the dress. The only evidence is a small bullet hole. There are no signs of blood near this point of entry showing that death had occurred and the blood had coagulated.

"Bullet No. 3 entered her back. This is the missing evidence. This shot was fired while the girl was prostrate on the ground. It evidently was fired perpendicularly into her body. The body laid in this position for a long while. Bullet No. 3 also was fired after death.

"On an inner garment where this wound was found there was a circle

Cuban Envoy Files Protest On Film Shown in Capital

Dr. Jose T. Baron Asks U. S. Officials Take Steps to Strike All References to His Country From Talkie, "Her Man;" Picture Called "Libel."

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Jose T. Baron, Cuban charge d'affaires, yesterday asked officials of this Government to take necessary steps to have all reference to Cuba stricken from the current film entitled "Her Man," and purporting to be a dramatic picture of life in Havana's underworld.

Dr. Baron said he had made his request to the proper authorities in the hope that "this distorted version" of life as well as scenery in Havana would not be allowed to continue its delusion of the American public.

At the same time, O. R. Strackbein, former assistant American Trade Commissioner in Havana, told C. J. North, chief of the Motion Picture Division of the Department of Commerce, that the picture constituted a libel against one of the cleanest and best policed cities in the Western Hemisphere.

Specifying his objections to the film, Dr. Baron said no such underworld as that depicted in it existed in Havana. He said the squalid buildings shown for atmosphere were "fakes" destined to mislead the American public regarding Havana. He added the film "ridiculed" Havana police in the presentation of various street scenes and brawls.

Strackbein told North that in his estimation the picture would injure an industry which is already finding it difficult to overcome a natural Latin aversion to the American talkie.

"The film belittles Havana and the Cuban people in virtually all of its scenes," he said. "Naturally, it will arouse resentment among Cubans and other Latin Americans against North Americans and their film industry. The picture it presents of one American, sailor cowing whole groups of Cubans, of American gangmen and brothel keepers defying Cuban law and Cuban police, is simply a confirmation of the ever-present Latin

Reichstag and Prussia Diet In Chaos; 126,000 Men Strike

Fascists Begin Obstructive Tactics After Election of Loebe; Metal Workers Walk Out, Refusing to Accept Government-Ordered Wage Cuts.

Berlin, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Confusion was added to an already muddled political situation today when the German Reichstag and the Prussian Diet held stormy sessions and the Metal Workers Union successfully called 126,000 workers from their jobs.

Paul Loebe was reelected president by the Reichstag, but verbal clashes on the floor preceded and followed the balloting. Hardly had he resumed his chair when the Fascists began obstructive tactics which, if continued in the weeks to come, will make parliamentary procedure impossible. President Loebe, who has served nine years in that office, polled a final vote of 269 against 260 for Dr. Ernst Scholz, German Peoples party candidate.

Other candidates were eliminated under the constitution from receiving ballots in the second vote taken, when the original poll had failed to show a majority for any candidate.

Election of Franz Stoehr, National Socialist, as first vice president, was the single feature of the Reichstag election which the Fascists could claim as a gain for their party.

The Diet session was tumultuous. The Fascists and Communists engaged in sharp altercations and blocked any real work. Even the proposed vote of nonconfidence against the government had to go over until tomorrow when the delegates became hopelessly entangled in a squabble over the government's refusal to lift prohibition of the wearing of Communist and Fascist uniforms.

The strike of the metal workers was linked with the political situation in its economic significance.

The walkout grew out of the refusal of the workmen to accept wage cuts ordered by the government as a of blood. Each point in the circumference of this circle had the same radius from the bullet hole. If the victim had been in a position other than prostrate this blood mark would have been irregular.

No Traces of Powder.

"Since there were no traces of powder or singes on the girl's dress or other clothing the shots must have been fired from a point at least 18 inches distant from her body which would have been almost impossible in a small car of the Ford A type. My understanding is that a man and woman were in the front seat of a car of this type when the first assault was said to have occurred.

Dr. Hamilton also amplified his earlier report that the pistol turned over to police by Campbell is not the death gun. Ten test shots which he fired from Campbell gun have been examined by him.

Each of these slugs, he said, is wholly dissimilar from the others. The reason for this, he said, is that the workamanship in the rifling of the Campbell gun is so poor that various types of ammunition fired through receive different impressions. Cremation plans came after he had received positive assurance from Dr. Hamilton that Campbell's pistol is not the death gun.

Instead of asking for the missing bullet, he will pass the burden of production of this evidence to As-

Measurements Are Different.

Measurements of Campbell's ammunition and that of the death bullets are wholly dissimilar, he said, in addition to being of different manufacture and fired by different types of powder.

"If the murderer in this case is ever caught," he said, "it will be found that the crime was committed by a .32-caliber pistol manufactured by the Iver Johnson Arms Co., of Pittsfield, Mass., or the Harrington and Richardson Arms Co., of Worcester, Mass."

Impressions on the death bullets, he pointed out, are very similar to those made by the distinctive rifilngs of barrels in guns manufactured by these concerns.

Penetration by Bullets.

He also pointed out that Campbell's ammunition did not have the power to penetrate a body to the depth that the mortal ammunition did. In tests fired into packed cotton, he said, which has the approximate resistance of a human body, Campbell's ammunition did not penetrate more than half of the distance of the mortal bullets.

By tracing the Campbell pistol, he reported, he discovered that it had been imported to this country from Spain by J. L. Califf, an importer with offices on Chambers street near Broadway, New York City.

Campbell's pistol, he said, has the low serial number 92 and the low factory number 568, indicating that it was manufactured many years ago. The factory number is written on the inside of the handle. He does not consider it important to trace it further. The death pistol, he said, was of American manufacture.

New Thurst at Prosecution.

Dr. Hamilton, in his report, believes that the girl was thrown to the ground causing a bruise on her thigh which was found at the autopsy. Then he believes she was assaulted, choked, shot once in the neck, dragged to the car, carried to the culvert and two additional shots were fired in her body.

The loosened teeth, he said, were probably caused during the assault in the Ellipse.

In all probability, he said, there must have been a great deal of blood in the car, because the wound in her neck probably struck the jugular vein, causing complete evacuation of the jugular vein, causing complete evacuation of the circulatory system.

Dr. Hamilton's new report is a second thrust the Government case. Witnesses for the prosecution says that they saw a man beating Mary Baker in her parked car and that as the automobile sped away they heard shots.

Burden on Government.

Mr. Smith's decision to abandon exsistant United States Attorney William H. Collins. He is responsible for presentation of all evidence to the jury, he said.

When Mr. Smith received information from Mr. Hamilton that there was no quesiton that a mistake had been made by Government experts in their identification, he said:

"If there had been any question or doubt regarding the Campbell weapon," he said, "I would have been compelled to see the other bullet This would necessarily delay the trial and I am anxious that my client be given a speedy hearing."

I am a native of the county where Mary Baker's family lives. I have too much respect for their feelings to cause them any anguish. Therefore, I intend to make every effort to eliminate such a hideous performance as unearthing her corpse.

Ready to Go to Trial.

When this case goes to trial the burden of producing the Government evidence is upon Mr. Collins. Mr. Hamilton has suggested that this bullet be obtained, deeming it important to the case; but I will make every effort to proceed without the third bullet. I am willing to go to trial as the case stands."

Mr. Collins said yesterday that the Government would not attempt to get the third bullet. It is believed that the defense will make capital of the absence of the third bullet when the case gets under way.

It is not known whether the third bullet was fired by a revolver or an automatic; nor is it known that the bullet in the body is similar to the other two bullets found.

Extra Campbell Counsel.

Negotiations are under way between Mr. Smith and Lucien H. Vendoren, former assistant United States attorney, to have the latter assist in the Dr. Wilmer Souder, of the Buear of Standards; Lieut. John Fowler, of the Washington police, and Samuel Hardy, a Department of Justice agent, were present for the Government when the examinations were made yesterday.

West Virginia Sheriffs Seek Four Fugitives

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Central West Virginia sheriffs were called upon today by Randolph authorities to aid in a search for four prisoners who broke out of the Randolph County Jail at Elkins late yesterday. The escaped men, who got out by cutting bars with a pipe cutter, are: A. E. EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

HIGHWAY TRAFFIC LIGHT TO BE ASKED

Arlington County Officials Want Signal Placed Near Four Mile Run.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Declaring the approach from the Washington-Richmond Highway leading into Alexandria from the county line at Four Mile Run one of the most dangerous in the State, with no lights, the county board of supervisors, upon a motion made by Chairman Edward Duncan, instructed Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth to immediately write State Highway Commissioner H. G. Shirley and ask that lights be installed.

Chairman Duncan stated that the State widened the road to a width of 32 feet and stopped at the county line as it is not permitted to build roads within the corporate limits of any town. At the point under discussion, which is in the City of Alexandria, the highway narrows suddenly to 18 feet as it crosses a bridge.

Continuing its policy to give people water as fast as the applications are filed and sufficient funds are made available by the property owners, the board yesterday approved applications calling for 7,586 feet of pipe line, which will cost $13,003.60.

With approximately $30,000 now due the water department from users for water used and for installments on the frontage, it was pointed out by the board that it was not fair to those who are paying their bills to have to carry the burden, and Engineer Kinnier was instructed to make every effort to collect money now due for water.

"We can not continue to make extensions unless the people will pay their bills and, to make it possible to continue the work I am loaning the water department $25,000 from the Jefferson District funds," said Chairman Duncan.

Engineer Kinnier was authorized to advertise for bids for the construction of a storm sewer for the Town of Ballston, also for the grading and gravel surfacing of Washington avenue from Virginia avenue to Hatfield, bids on both projects to be received and opened at the board meeting to be held October 30 at 12 o'clock. The storm sewer will be constructed along Railroad avenue from Lubber Run to Clements avenue.

A letter was read from the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association asking that gasoline be furnished the departments within the county, but no action was taken by the board.

Hugh Lee Kirby, representing the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, leaves today for Virginia Beach, Va., where tomorrow he will open his State-wide tour in the interest of the George Washington Memorial Parkway in an address to be delivered before the meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Kirby will be accompanied by two members of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. They will carry with them literature of all kinds and with photographs and plans showing Virginia's shore of the Potomac as it is today and as it will appear when the development as provided in the Capper-Cramton act take place.

To give to the people of Virginia an opportunity to aid in carrying out the plans that will beautify the shores of the Potomac, Mr. Kirby has prepared two forms of pledges, one for financial support and the other for personal influence for use when he starts his State-wide speaking tour which is planned to be under way the early part of next week.

The first pledge calls for donations of either money or land toward a fund for the purpose of providing Virginia participation in the purchase and development of the parkway.

The second pledge provides that the signers shall agree to use their influence by making personal requests to all local chambers of commerce and other governing bodies to pass resolutions approving the ratifying of the Capper-Cramton act and that their officers be authorized to join in a united request to Gov. John Garland Pollard in which they ask him to call an extra session of the General Assembly to ratify the act.

Judge Harry R. Thomas, in police court yesterday, assessed a fine of $14.25, including costs, against Fred Brooks, colored, driver of the East Arlington fire truck, on a charge of reckless driving, and ruled that no fire apparatus could pass a red traffic light when not going to a fire.

It was shown by the testimony presented that Brooks had proceeded against the red light at the intersection of Mount Vernon avenue and Columbia pike several days ago, and in so doing collided with an automobile operated by Robert N. Kilby. Both machines were badly damaged.

Judge Thomas held that fire apparatus might proceed through a red light when going to a fire provided the proper warning is given to approaching traffic.

CHAMBER APPEALS TO POLLARD FOR AID

SCHOOL ROSTER LARGER

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting held in the auditorium of the Clifton High School adopted a resolution addressed to Gov. Pollard urging him to take action to raise the necessary money to meet requirements of the Federal road aid money which amounts approximately to $2,500,000 now available. This sum would be spent for road improvements on the lateral and auxiliary roads throughout the State as a means of relieving the present depression among the farmers, occasioned by the drought and unemployment conditions. It is contended that if this money is expended on auxiliary roads instead of on the trunk roads, it would give greater employment to farmers of various communities throughout the State.

Vice President E. C. Gibbs, of Mount Vernon, called the attention of the chamber to the growing importance of United States route No. 50 which is better known in Fairfax County as the Little River pike of the Lee-Jackson highway, as a much better route to the West than either the National Old Trails road or the Lincoln highway. The improvement of the Leesburg pike in the vicinity of Dranesville was also discussed by the chamber. It was stated that by further grading this road it would eliminate several undesirable conditions. The secretary was instructed to send such a request to Culpeper District Highway Engineer Albright.

Leon L. Freeman, of Vienna, delegate from Fairfax County to the State Leigalature and chairman of the chamber's fire prevention committee, spoke of the large increase in farm fires this year attributed to the continued drought, and a number of other causes which could be remedied. He stated that the increase this year amounted to approximately 25 per cent. He declared that beyond a doubt the fire insurance on such property would be raised in the near future, which would add another burden to the stricken farmer. A suggestion was made that the agricultural committee of the chamber give this question serious consideration and urge farmers to use the greatest precautions to eliminate fire hazards.

County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr reported that reduced freight rates on hay and feed had saved farmers of the county over $25,000.

The special committee recently appointed to arrange for a banquet and meeting to hear Hugh L. Kirby, of the Arlington County Chamber, speak on the advantages of the Crampton bill was continued. Final plans of this committee will be announced later. Edward C. Gibbs, of Mount Vernon, who presided over the meeting in the absence of President Edmund H. Allen, appointed another special committee to argue advantages and disadvantages of the Crampton bill inasmuch as it would affect development of Fairfax County. Members of this committee are Capt. Thurlow White, of Baileys Cross Roads; John Rooney, of Dranesville, and Martin T. Webb and William Cleveland, of Annandale.

Herbert Williams, trustee from Providence District and member of the chamber's educational committee, reported that the schools of the county had opened this year with a larger enrollment than last year at this time. He stressed the fact that during the past five years the county had been at a standstill in regard to school improvement. He stated that during the last fiscal year the capital outlay of the school board for new buildings had only amounted to $3,024, which, if continued at the same rate, would take Fairfax County 100 years to equal the yearly expenditures of one of the neighboring counties for school improvements. The present method of rating grades on the school children in regard to their daily work and tests was referred to the education committee for investigation and report.

The November meeting of the chamber will be held in the auditorium of the Annandale School, at the junction of the Columbia pike and the Lee-Jackson highway.

E. M. Butler, of Charlottesville, was arrested by County Policeman Lewis L. Fink for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, reckless driving and resisting arrest on the Washington-Richmond highway near Groveton. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Arthur Kirby at Groveton, where he was held for action of the grand jury at the November term of court on the driving drunk charge and was fined $25 and costs on the other charges. Charles Irby, of Alexandria, was also held for action of the grand jury for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Garfield Stickley, Pat Brauner and Howard Kemp, all of Langley Field, Va., are in Georgetown Hospital as a result of injuries suffered in a collision on the Lee highway, between the car in which they were riding and a truck operated by E. H. Garber, of Dayton, Va. The accident was investigated by Capt. Haywood J. Durrer, of the county police, who reported that Garber stated that he had been blinded by the bright lights on the other car and was on the wrong side of the road when struck.

Members of the volunteer fire department at Herndon have completed plans for the fall carnival, to be held this evening, tomororw evening and Saturday evening in Railroad Park, on Main street. A large stand has been erected for the bingo party and a larger and more complete selection of prizes stocked. Many new and popular carnival features will be presented to the patrons for the first time. Contest features include a pie eating contest, apple eating contest, husband calling contest, nail driving contest and other such attractions. Special music nightly will be one of the free features.

The proceeds of this carnival will be used to make up payment of the note due on the fire engine in December. The following committee will have charge of all arrangements: Howard M. Armfield (chairman), Edgar Reed, Walter A. Farr, J. L. Nachman, John Hurst and George Chappell. The woman's auxiliary will sell refreshments.

Radio is a popular entertainment feature in most homes at the present time, but Fairfax County Policeman Arthur W. Mills sometimes uses it in his work. Yesterday morning before reporting for duty he listened to police reports broadcast from Baltimore. On his way to Fairfax along the Washington-Richmond highway, near Groveton, to report for duty, he sighted a youth that answered a description he had just heard, so he stopped and questioned the boy, who confessed to being Albert Lewis, 13, of Baltimore. The lad had run away from his home at 1707 North Patterson Park Avenue, and his parents and the police were searching for him. He is being held in the Fairfax Jail for the Baltimore authorities.

Unknown Prisoner Tries to End Life

Annapolis Police Unable to Identify Man With $500 in His Pockets.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 15.—Physicians of Annapolis Emergency Hospital and police officials of Annapolis are baffled over the identity of a man apparently about 60 years old, who, late last night, attempted to commit suicide by slashing his wrists with a piece of milk bottle while confined in police headquarters.

The stranger has been unable to talk and nothing was found in his clothing that would give the slightest trace as to his identity. He had over $500 in his pocket, $400 of which was made up of $20 bills.

The man is of medium build, dark complexion and wore a dark worsted suit. He was first observed about 7 o'clock last night by Police Patrolman James E. Lowman, who accosted him on the brink of the bulkhead of the city dock. He had taken off his coat and shoes and Lowman believes that he was about to throw himself into the dock. A set of false teeth was found in one of the man's shoes. Unable to get any response from the stranger when several questions were put to him, Lowman conveyed him to police headquarters for the night.

DROUGHT CUTS RAIN DOWN 13 PER CENT

LITTLE RELIEF IN SIGHT

(Associated Press.)

The most prolonged and widespread drought in the history of the Nation's weather records was credited yesterday by J. B. Kincer, Agricultural Department meteorologist, with having reduced the average rainfall of the country to 87 per cent of normal between January and September.

Prompted by the continued severity of the drought in Middle and North Atlantic and New England States, the meteorologist computed the average rainfall to date this year and for the growing seasons.

During the growing season from March to August, average rainfall amounted to 81 per cent of normal, and during the important crop months of July and August, 70 per cent.

Water Situation Serious.

While conditions in the drought areas between the Rocky and the Appalachian Mountains continued to improve generally, Mr. Kincer reported that in the Middle Atlantic area, especially in the Virginias and Maryland, "the drought continues unabated, with springs and streams showing further decline and the water situation serious in many localities."

Drenchnig rains skirted the Atlantic Coast Tuesday night from New Jersey to Massachusetts, to bring many areas the first good precipitation in the past month. However, they did not extend nito equally dry areas inland.

During the past two weeks, Mr. Kincer said, "there hasn't been enough rain to measure anywhere in the area from Virginia and eastern West Virginia northeastward to Maine."

Seven States Badly Hit.

Reports of serious water shortages have come from many sections of this area.

From January to September seven States had the least rainfall of record, they were Kentucky, 63 per cent of normal; Maryland and Delaware, 58 per cent; Virginia, 56; West Virginia, 59; Tennessee, 79 and Pennsylvania, 73.

Ten States had the least precipitation on record from March to August—Kentucky, 47 per cent; Maryland and Delaware, 55 per cent; Virginia, 56; Missouri, 57; Illinois and Indiana, 58; West Virginia, 59; Ohio, 60 and Pennsylvania, 71.

During July and August nine States had the least rainfall of record—Kentucky, 45 per cent; Maryland and Delaware, 31; Virginia and Missouri, 39; West Virginia, 48; Arkansas, 44; Pennsylvania, 43 and Florida, 62 per cent.

Virginia Tobacco Sales Are Listed

Average Price of $9.24 Per Hundred Pounds Is Reported.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Producers' sales of leaf tobacco for September amounted to 615,321 pounds, valued at $56,850, with an average of $9.24 per hundred pounds, according to warehouse reports to the commissioner of agriculture, set forth in the mid-October statement of John A. Hicks, Federal-State agricultural statistician.

Mr. Hicks said the small volume of sales was accounted for by the fact that the warehouses operated only one day during September. During the past two years warehouses did not open until October.

The tobacco offered for sale during September was of an inferior grade, Mr. Hicks' report said. Warehousemen in their estimates said the sales graded 8 per cent good, 24 per cent medium and 68 per cent common.

ZIHLMAN ATTACKS "MACHINE" OF LEE

Political Ring Riding Roughshod, Montgomery Voters Are Told.

VOTE BUYING ALLEGED

Cutting loose with a scathing denunciation of the political machine in Montgomery County, Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican candidate for reelection to Congress last night, startled meetings at Bethesda and Takoma Park with his bitter attacks on rivals.

"To my mind, the most effective blow that can be struck for good government along the right lines will be the voting out of the political ring which is riding roughshod without regard to the rights or wishes of thosee who do not belong to the so-called inner circle," Representative Zihlman said. "It is a significant thing when 5,000 voters rise in protest against existing conditions controlled by E. Brutus Lee.

"I have heard it said hundreds of times that votes are bought openly in the county with the loss counted at naught in a mad attempt on the part of a political and business boss to stem the rising tide of wrath. The elderly Lee is a fine, attractive, cultured Maryland gentleman of great personal charm—entirely different from the son Brutus, who is one of the most arrogant, selfish and ruthless political organizatoins in the State."

F. Barnard Welsh, Republican candidate for State's attorney, declared that 5,000 Democrats are ready to leave the party because of operations of the "ring," pointing to coalition of Republicans and antiorganization Democrats at the fall election.

part of its new economic construction policy. Such obvious opposition was taken in political circles as making the government's situation more precarious. The government now must find some way out or else give up all hope of getting even tacit Socialist support for its continuance.

Apparently nobody today for the moment knew what to do next. The Reichstag's council of elders is attempting to get adjournment of the house for several days, right after the government's declaration is read tomorrow afternoon by Chancellor Bruening. It is hoped by the time the Reichstag reconvenes that the metal strike will be adjusted, at least temporarily.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

CHICAGO—There seems to be a rather general feeling out here among those who study and follow politics that Mrs. McCormick, if she is elected, will never take her seat in the Senate.

As to whether the Nye committee investigation helped or hurt her in her campaign there is a divided opinion. She, herself, seems to have dropped it as an issue and one very good observer who has just returned from a trip around the State says it has been forgotten about altogether.

A RATHER funny thing about the newspapermen who covered the committee's investigation, here—not one of them takes seriously Mrs. McCormick's charge that her telephone wires were tapped and her offices rifled. They exhibit the photograph which Mrs. McCormick's detectives produced of the wire-tapping.

It is a ridiculous thing. The tapping wire is as big as the little finger and extends from Mrs. McCormick's office to an abandoned shack a mile down the road. Mrs. McCormick's detectives claimed that it was in evidence weeks before they found it. Yet the thing is so apparent that it seems that some motorist among the thousands who traversed the road daily would have noticed it.

THE Chicago reporters are indignant, however, over the newspaper lashing which Senator Nye gave them. They contend that it was simply a case of the senator not being a match for the resourceful widow.

For example, after the committee concluded its daily hearings with its nonsensational stuff, Mrs. McCormick's representatives would appear with charges that just naturally and perforce of circumstances took the headlines.

The reporters contend it was not their fault. They were not the ones to pass on the merits of Mrs. McCormick's charges. If it was her knack to grab the headlines, as it certainly was, the reporters insist it was not within their province to prevent it.

* * * * *

THE truth of it all, they say, is that the resourceful widow was just too smart for the committee and they resent the committee's blaming them.

As to whether Mrs. McCormick really thinks her wires were tapped the reporters out here are divided. One of them is convinced that she is because she expressed to him a determination not only to go to the Senate, but to never rest content until she had run Senator Nye out of public life. If this is true, ill times are in store for the senator, because the widow is most resouceful, as he must know by now.

True Bill Returned In Movie Shooting

Parker Bowie Indicted on Two Counts Following Theater Affray.

Charges of assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon are contained in an indictment returned yesterday by the District grand jury against Parker Bowie, 46 years old, of Croissant place southeast near Seventh street, who, on September 22, is said to have shot Sylvester Fornwalt, his wife's alleged affinity, in the Earle Theater.

Police alleged that Bowie told them that he followed his wife and Fornwalt to the theater and shot Fornwalt when the other man failed to heed his order to come outside and made a suspicious movement as if to draw a gun. The shooting was staged in a crowded theater and came after Bowie was said to have walked up and down the aisle seeking to locate his wife and the other man.

Bowie declared that he had warned Fornwalt to keep away from Mrs. Bowie, police quoted him as saying. Fornwalt was shot three times with a .22-caliber pistol and recently was released from the hospital.

Woman Is Sentenced On Charge of Stabbing

Pearl Gibson, 25 years old and colored, living on Thirty-third street near K street northwest, was sentenced to 240 days in jail when she was charged before Judge John P. McMahon of stabbing Ruth Able, of the same address, with a butcher knife.

She testified in court that she did not "agree with Ruth's methods of selling liquor" and that in the quarrel a lighted lamp was thrown at her, narrowly missing her face. She cut the girl, she said, to save her own life.

Waters Candidacy Upheld by Court

Challenged Ballots Were Properly Considered, Is Ruling.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 15.—For the second time, Col. Henry J. Waters, candidate backed by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, has been declared the Democratic nominee for State senator from Somerset County. The Court of Appeals in a majority opinion prepared by Chief Judge C. Carroll Bond and handed down today held that the board of election supervisors had properly considered a large number of challenged ballots on a recount and it was found Col. Waters was victorious over Lorie C. Quinn, jr., anti-organization candidate.

Following the primary election on September 8, it was announced that Mr. Quinn was the victor. Col. Waters protested the count, claiming that in Smiths District No. 30, the clerks, instead of judges, had initialed the ballots while in District 7, of Crisfield, that a young man, not an election official but the son of one of the judges, attempting to act for his father, initialed the ballots.

The board of election supervisors sat in the protest and threw out enough ballots to defeat Mr. Quinn. Mr. Quinn immediately filed a protest in the Somerset County Circuit Court, and, when ruled against, took the case to the Court of Appeals.

BRAZIL GIVEN RIGHT TO BUY ARMS IN U.S.

CRUISER ORDERED SOUTH

The government of Brazil has a "perfect right" to buy arms and ammunition in the United States, Secretary of State Stimson said yesterday. On the question of allowing the Brazilian rebels to buy arms and ammunition in this country, Secretary Stimson was silent; but it may be said that if the rebels do try to make such purchases, the result will be an American embargo to restrain them.

While Secretary Stimson was enunciating this country's munitions policy, the U. S. S. Pensacola was ordered to proceed from Guantanamo, Cuba, to Trinidad, and there remain ready to dash to Brazil and take on Americans in the event their lives are endangered by the revolution.

The Brazilian government already has started negotiations in this country for the purchase of war supplies. It is particularly anxious to obtain seaplanes for scouting and bombing expeditions against the insurrectionists on the seacoast, and it has placed orders for 15 of them, five scout planes and ten bombers.

Stimson Makes Statement.

The position of the United States with regard to the sales of arms to the Brazilian government was made known by Secretary Stimson in the following statement:

"Nothing has come to the notice of the department in the news from Brazil which changes the attitude of this Government from exercising the same friendly offices toward the government of Brazil which we would exercise toward any government with which we are in friendly relations. Under those circumstances, the government of Brazil has a perfect right to buy munitions in this country."

In its present attitude toward the situation in Brazil, the United States is being guided by the rules of international law.

So far, this Government does not yet recognize "belligerency" in Brazil. The standard illustration of what constitutes belligerency is our own Civil War.

When the American Civil War broke out, the Confederate forces promptly took possession of the entire territory embraced by the seceding States, formed their own Government with Jefferson Davis as President and established a capital at Richmond.

The countries of Europe recognized the belligerency between the seceding States and the Federal Government. In other words, they took the position that the war was equivalent to a struggle between two distinct and separate nations, and it was largely because of this Europen view that the South was able to hold out as long as it did.

Will Meet Embargo.

Thus far, as has been said, the United States has not recognized the belligerency in Brazil, and, from present indications, it is not likely to. So long as that is the situation, the Brazilian government will be able to obtain all the arms and munitions it wants to purchase in this country, while the rebels will be in a position where, if they try to obtain American-made arms they will run into an embargo.

If the rebels should make such headway that the United States felt obliged to recognize the belligerency in Brazil, it is probable that this country then would take a position of neutrality as between the warring factions.

Aside from the orders for seaplanes, there is no information here as to just what the Brazilian government seeks to buy in the way of war supplies. The five scout planes it has ordered from the Chance-Vought Co. and the ten bombers from the Curtiss-Wright Export Corporation.

If it comes to a question of these companies supplying planes to the American Navy or turning them over immediately to Brazil, this Government undoubtedly will give Brazil priority.

West Virginia Baumes Law Is 70 Years Old

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 15.—This State has a law which goes the Baumes law of New York—which has become well known because of the automatically severer penalties for repeaters on law violations—two better.

The law, cited today by Judge D. H. Rodgers, provides that two felony convictions in this State result automatically in the offender being sent to prison for life on a third conviction. In New York under the Baumes law three prior convictions are necessary before a life term.

The West Virginia law has been on the statute book for 70 years and he thinks it has been largely forgotten. It was inherited from Virginia's code at the time of the separation of this State from Virginia and in the West Virginia code is labeled "1860—Virginia Code." How much further back in Virginia's code it goes the judge did not know.

It has not been invoked here.

MONEY PLANS CLAIM BRAZIL'S ATTENTION

LITTLE NEWS OF BATTLE

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—With rebels being driven back on three fronts and mobilization of federal resources continuing, the Brazilian government today left the rebellion to the soldiers while it studied a plan to keep the country's finances in hand pending the outcome of the revolution.

A bill which would do this was presented before the chamber of deputies. It provides that at the end of the present enforced banking holiday, which expires October 21, only the Bank of Brazil will be permitted to make any exchange transactions. The government also would be given power to restrict the outflow of capital.

There was little news of actual fighting from the war sectors today. The government asserted it was steadily pushing the revolutionaries back in three areas—the Sao Paulo-Parana front, which extends for 200 miles; in almost the entire State of Minas Geraes, and in the region around the north of Rio de Janeiro state.

More than a dozen towns each are claimed in the Sao Paulo-Parana and Minas Gereas regions, with the rebels falling back and worried by lack of supplies. At the same time the federals feel that by their operations north of Rio de Janeiro they have removed the menace to the federal capital, as have the successful engagements below the city of Sao Paulo.

Child Burned as Doll Catches Fire at Store

Special to The Washington Post.

Sleepy Creek, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Irene Rockwell, young child of Mr. and Mrs. John Rockwell, was severely burned about the upper part of the body yesterday when a celluloid doll, with which she was playing, caught fire from a nearby oil stove, and set fire to her clothing.

Her mother smothered the flames. Since the accident the child has contracted scarlet fever.

BRAZIL GOVERNMENT IS APPARENTLY AHEAD

NEW BATTLE REPORTED

(Associated Press.)

After eleven days of struggle the Brazilian federal government appears from the late dispatches to have begun to get the upper hand in its military campaign against the insurgent movement of Getulio Vargas, liberal leader.

Counter claims of victory have been issued by both sides, but the early federal announcements of success in the rebel state of Mina Geraes seem to be substantiated by subsequent reports, and on the Sao Paulo-Parana front the rebel attack has yet to produce a decisive encounter.

The federal government asserts that the rebels are being driven back north of Rio de Janeiro and in the State of Minas Geraes, and to the west and south of Sao Paulo. Having mobilized its soldiers, it is occupied now in mobilizing its finances.

The rebels, whose troops had a long journey from their southern stronghold to the Sao Paulo front, make the blanket assertion that they have been victorious in every encounter with the federals thus far.

Rivera, Uruguay, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—An official bulletin issued by the Brazilian insurgents tonight said that the vanguard of the rebel army in Sao Paulo had defeated 1,000 federals at Itangua, a railway station about 180 miles from Sao Paulo. It said that fourteen prisoners and much war material had been captured. The defeated federals were members of the Sao Paulo State police.

The bulletin also said the northern insurgent army, commanded by Capt. Juarez Tavora, had crossed the State of Sergipe and invaded the great State of Bahia. The army was marching against the City of Bahia, held by a federal army under Gen. Santa Cruz.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Brazilian revolutionary headquarters here tonight claimed the capture of Itaperuna, a city far to the north of the State of Rio de Janeiro. The rebel representatives also stated revolutionary soldiers had defeated the government troops.

The capture of Itaperuna would indicate that rebels are crossing the border from Minas Gerais and are planning a drive on the federal capital, which lies about 400 miles to the south. Dispatches from federal sources indicate, however, that a number of cities have been captured in the middle of the state, with the rebels driven back into Minas. This would hinder a drive from the north.

The information was contained in a telegram sent to Lindolfo Collor, revolutionary representative here, by Dr. Osvaldo Aranha, who is acting President of the State of Rio Grande do Sul during the absence at the front of Dr. Getulio Vargas.

The statement that the rebels have won all battles thus far is widely at variance with federal dispatches reaching here. These dispatches state that the revolting troops are being driven back consistently on three fronts.

Dr. Aranha's telegram added that the revolutionists were purchasing military equipment in both Europe and the United States.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 15.—The directors of the Danville Community Chest have voted to abandon a concerted appeal for funds to sustain charities this year. Instead, each participating organization will make its own campaign.

Depressed conditions were the prime cause of giving up the community chest appeal. Last year the goal set was $64,000, with $50,000 secured through pledges.

Cambridge Mill Wrecked by Fire

Engine Backfire Starts $100,000 Blaze Within Green Valley Plant.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cambridge, Md., Oct. 15.—The Green Valley Mills at Cambridge were burned at 7 o'clock this morning, causing the owners, Joseph and Benjamin Robbins, a loss of $100,000, partly covered by insurance.

The blaze was caused by an engine backfiring when James A. Hastings, engineer, attempted to start it. Oil spattered near is said to have been ignited.

Hastings' clothings caught, causing burns on his back and both legs. His life was saved by Joseph Robbins, who beat out the flames. While the firemen confined the flames to the mill property, five hours were required to extinguish them.

WOUND ENDS CAREER OF MODERN BAD MAN

Jake Fleagle, Shot Aboard Train in Ozark Town, Dies of Injury.

OTHERS OF GANG SOUGHT

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The wolf of the West, Jake Fleagle, is dead.

This modern bad man, the leader of a pack of ruthless robbers and killers who shot their way through bank and postoffice holdups in the West and Middle West, died at 9:55 a. m. today in a hospital here. The abdominal wound inflicted Tuesday when Fleagle was shot as he was surprised by Federal and other authorities as he boarded a train at Branson, Mo., little Ozark mountain town, caused his death.

With his passing Federal officers continued the hunt for other members of the gang and two alleged Fleagle associates were arrested—Joe Miller at Las Vegas, Nev., and Dr. George O. De Moss, at Streator, Ill. The latter is an alleged participant with Fleagle in the Tracey, Calif., postoffice robbery.

It also was revealed today that Fleagle had been hiding in the Ozark for about a year. He leased a cabin near Branson and fitted it as an arsenal and hideaway. Residents in the section were convinced now that many visitors were probably members of his gang.

Any doubt that the man was Fleagle was dispelled late today when instructions were received from the Fleagle family at Garden City, Kans., to send the body there, and fingerprints taken by Federal officers checked unquestionably.

Wilde Fired Shot.

Another disclosure today was that Detectives Harry N. Wilde and Chester A. Lloyd, of the Los Angeles police department, were the officers who actually caught Fleagle and that Wilde was the man who shot him.

Five other officers from Colorado, Kansas City and Federal postal inspectors were in the coach ahead of the one Fleagle boarded and in which were Wilde, Lloyd and Postal Inspector E. H. Kline, of Los Angeles.

Pounces on Bandit.

Wilde pounced upon the bandit, forcing him down into a seat, and said: "Put up your hands, Fleagle." The outlaw snarled defiance instead and said, "I won't do it," and pulled a gun from a holster on his hip, pressing the muzzle against Wilde's body. Inspector Kline intervened and struck the gun aside. Wilde fired, the bullet going through Fleagle's body.

The two detectives took up the hunt for Fleagle, along with other authorities, after his band of outlaws held up and looted the Bank of Lamar, Colo., in May, 1928, of $219,000, shooting to death four men, one the president of the bank and another his son.

Still another feature today was that the various authorities trailed Fleagle to Missouri through letters to women friends. He used great care in writing most letters, but mailed many to sweethearts without his customary caution.

One Divorce to Every 49 Capital Weddings

Special to The Washington Post.

The District of Columbia is well nigh the Utopia of marriage if the figures on weddings and divorces, issued yesterday by the Census Bureau, are accepted as a basis for such a conclusion.

For every divorce granted last year in Washington, 49 couples were wed. The proportion was greater than in any State in the Union.

The ratio of divorces to each 1,000 persons was .24, while there was a total of 5,634 marriages or an increase of 6.3 per cent over 1928. The ratio of marriages per 1,000 was 11.7.

At that the divorces in the Capital numbered 115 and represented an increase of 13.9 per cent over 1928. There were also 27 annulments compared to 21 in the previous year.

POLICE QUIZ DEFIED BY "LEGS" DIAMOND

Mulrooney Tries, in Vain, to Make Gun Victim Talk; Gangster Sinking.

MONEY FEUD IS BLAMED

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Jack "Legs" Diamond, the gangster, rallied sufficiently today from the wounds that were expected to kill him to fling the traditional underworld defiance at authorities in search of his assailants.

District Attorney Crain visited him in the Polyclinic Hospital, where physicians said Diamond was on his deathbed, and asked the racketeer if he knew the men who shot him down in a West Side hotel room Sunday morning.

In a voice of healthy timber which seemed to belie the physicians' death sentence Diamond replied:

"Judge, I don't know, and if I did I wouldn't tell you. They were all strangers to me. They came to my room in the Hotel Monticello and shot me."

A hospital bulletin this afternoon said the gangster was "sinking" and a lung had collapsed. A surgeon said privately the gangster's wounds were three in number, not five, as at first reported, and that only one was responsible for his grave condition. This bullet, lodged in a tubercular lung, was causing internal bleeding and that was almost certain to prove fatal, he said.

After scrutinizing every scrap of information unearthed by detectives in the 72 hours since the gunmen "got" Diamond, Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced he had become convinced the shooting resulted from an argument over money.

Mulrooney said Diamond was in financial straits.

John M. Ginsberg, manager of the Hotel Monticello, was subjected to further questioning today. The authorities also examined "Dutch" Shultz, reputed Bronx beer runner, who police said had openly threatened to kill Diamond.

Deputy, Prisoner Are Shot to Death

Sheriff Also Wounded as Bank Robber Starts Gun Fight.

Fort Scott, Kans., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—George Magness, convicted bank robber, shot and killed Undersheriff Melvin C. Hamilton, of Lebette County, injured Sheriff Alfred C. Coad and then was shot to death himself by Sheriff Coad five miles south of here today.

Coad, Hamilton and Roy McClain, a special deputy sheriff, were taking Magness and Alvin Payton in a motor car from Oswego to the State penitentiary at Lansing.

Magness drew a gun and fired point blank at Hamilton, the driver. He then shot Sheriff Coad through the head, the bullet passing out through the jaw. Sheriff Coad turned in the front seat and fired three shots through the robber's body. McClain, riding in the rear seat with the prisoners, was not injured.

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. Clark Howell to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Howell appears on this page.

Sultan of Jahore Weds Scotch Lass

Whirlwind Courtship Gives Mrs. Helen Wilson Untold Wealth.

London, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—A whirlwind courtship of almost fairytale romance reached a climax at noon today in the marriage at the registry office of the powerful Sultan of Jahore, reputedly one of the richest rulers of the East, and Mrs. Helen Wilson, an auburn-haired Scottish beauty.

Mrs. Wilson, daughter of a business man, thus becomes queen of one of the world's great rulers, with power, palaces and untold wealth at her disposal.

Mrs. Wilson and the sultan first met several years ago in Jahore, where she went as the bride of young Dr. William Wilson. The Wilson's domestic affairs did not prosper. Their marriage was dissolved and she returned to England. The sultan, who had admired her from a distance for many years, is reported to have determined suddenly to woo her. He dashed forthwith to England, arrived the other day and popped the question. He was accepted and asked for a quick wedding.

Officers of Shipping Board Craft Arrested

New Orleans, La., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Customs officials here today arrested five officers of the United States Shipping Board steamship West Cobalt and held them under bond of $1,000 each on charges of conspiring to violate the national prohibition act and the tariff act after twelve quarts of liquor were confiscated on the ship.

Those arrested were C. E. McLain, captain of the ship; George Gregersen, second officer; Silas Gaskill, chief engineer; Glenn Wilson, first assistant engineer, and James J. Kerby, steward. Government agents said the ship's officers admitted knowledge of the liquor on board, but said it was a part of a supply that they had intended to use before entering United States waters. The ship plies between London and New Orleans.

190 Are Arrested By BombayRaiders

National Congress Movement Given Blow by Action of Authorities.

Bombay, India, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Its position strengthened by recent vice regal ordinances forbidding unlawful assemblies, the Bombay government today struck at the heart of national congress movements in this city by arresting 190 persons in a series of raids. It was indicated that today's campaign was but part of the government's new plan, with raids planned in other cities soon.

Those arrested included President Magindas, of the Bombay war council, and the 190 caught in the raids were in a few hours given sentences of three and four months rigorous imprisonment.

The Nationalists immediately chose Usman Sobhani as new president of the war council. He announced that the depleted ranks would be replenished from Moslem elements and said he would open an office in the Mandvi quarter tomorrow for that CAMPAIGN STRATEGY.

The political campaigns have now entered that twilight zone in which everything takes on a rosy tint and the outlook appears delightful for everybody. Party chieftains have been cautious in their predictions prior to this week. In fact, they deliberately made modest claims at the beginning of the campaign so that they could gather momentum as they went, and call attention of the public to the avalanche of public opinion that was headed in their direction. But the time for prudent statements has passed, and the leaders are trying to outdo each other in extravagant forecasts.

Of course, the Democrats take greater delight in forecasting their postelection strength than do the Republicans. At the beginning of the campaigns the incumbent party conceded that the Democrats would make some gains. The opposition party almost invariably increases its representation in Congress when there is no presidential contest, and this year nature seems to have favored the Democrats with the best issue they have had for years, negative and fallacious as it is. Most of the predicting, therefore, is coming from the Democratic strongholds.

A few writers, with strong political convictions, make bold to say that President Hoover will not control the Seventy-second Congress. Some estimate that the Democrats will gain 60 seats in the House, which is seven more than necessary to give them a majority. They do not foresee a clear Democratic majority in the Senate, but rely upon the return of sufficient Republican progressives to make up a majority for sabotage purposes. It is unnecessary to say that these estimates are inspired more by autogenetic enthusiasm than by careful analysis. Recalling the wild predictions that brought the campaign of 1928 to a close, one can safely discount the extravagant claims that will be put out during the next three weeks.

Shrewd Democrats do not want a majority in the Senate, and they would no doubt be best pleased by something short of a majority in the House. If the Democratic party takes control of Congress, it must shoulder the responsibility for leading the country out of the economic depression. It has no program for that purpose, and if it did have the chances of enacting it into legislation would be slight. The most optimistic forecasters do not expect a substantial Democratic majority in the House, and even if it were possible to force Democratic measures through Congress, many of them would meet defeat at the White House. Under such conditions the party would take the responsibilities of leadership, fail to live up to them, and thereby preclude all possibility of sending a Democrat to the White House in 1932.

The minority has a much more subtle plan. It hopes to block legislation in the Senate through the insurgent-Democratic coalition, and then blame everything on the Republican party. To have a Democratic Senate would be a calamity to the Democratic party. Its best minds are not averse to electing a majority to the House, but behind their boastful claims there lurks the real hope of forming a coalition with the insurgents to match the alliance in the Senate. With these obstructive aggregations in operation the Democrats would be prepared to block Republican measures until after the presidential campaigns of 1932. If the shrewder Democrats really expected the overwhelming victories they are talking about they would probably put their campaign machinery in reverse to make sure that the responsibilities for directing the Nation during the coming two years would be left in the hands of their opponents.

BUREAUCRACY IN WASHINGTON.

With Congress legislating for the District, the Budget Bureau having the final voice in matters of finance, and the Bureau of Efficiency supervising all the activities of District officials, self-government in Washington does not exist. The Commissioners have little opportunity to act on their own initiative, but they "hold the bag" whenever anything goes wrong. The Budget Bureau has the power to approve or disapprove the anticipated Federal contribution upon which the budget is based. It tackles the District budget under rules it has laid down for the financial conduct of Government departments, although the problems of municipal finance differ radically from the problems of departmental administration. It holds exhaustive hearings on all items contained in the District budget, in which the Commissioners and department chiefs are called upon to defend their requests for funds, and later during hearings in congressional committees the same field has to be gone over again.

Whether or not the authority of the Commissioners is seriously encroached upon, resulting in a conflict of authority and a division of responsibility and control by placing the local budget under the jurisdiction of a Federal agency, is a question that is under inquiry by the Board of Trade.

The trade body's inquiry should be broadened to include a study of the effect of having the entire District government under the direct supervision of the Bureau of Efficiency. Originally constituted to establish and administer the system of efficiency ratings whereby promotions, demotions and dismissals from the service are made, the bureau was directed to "investigate and report as to the administrative needs of the service relating to personnel in the several executive departments and independent establishments." The law further specified that "all officers and employes of the executive departments and other establishments shall furnish the bureau with all information that it may require for the performance of the duties imposed upon it by law and shall give the bureau access to all records and papers that may be needed for that purpose." Under this grant of authority the bureau frequently meddles with the purely routine administration of divisions of the local government.

What is the use of preserving the semblance of a municipal government if it is to have no power or authority? The real government of this District is the Bureau of the Budget and the Bureau of Efficiency. District officials, from the Commissioners down, are servants of these Federal agencies. Let the Board of Trade thrash out all the questions suggested by this sorry situation.

SECRETARY WILBUR REMAINS.

Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur will remain a member of the Cabinet indefinitely, in spite of the desire of the faculty and students of Leland Stanford University to have him resume his duties as president of that institution. Dr. Wilbur's leave from the university expired in August, but the work he has undertaken as head of the Interior Department is far from completion, and he is not ready to return to scholastic life.

Secretary Wilbur probably would not resign under any circumstances at present, in view of the charges of Ralph S. Kelley, suspended chief of the Denver field division of the Land Office, that valuable oil lands have been allowed to pass illegally into the hands of private companies. But that is not the underlying reason for Secretary Wilbur's decision. Under his direction the Interior Department has become one of the most active administrative divisions. New movements have been launched in various fields, and Dr. Wilbur has not yet had time to bring them to fruition. It would be unfortunate if President Hoover were to lose his services and counsel before these projects have taken definite shape.

Among the problems intrusted to Secretary Wilbur are: Revision of the Indian policy so that the aborigines will be weaned away from Government reservations and assimilated into the economic life of the country; conservation of the public domain, which may involve turning surface rights to Federal lands over to the States; construction of Hoover (formerly Boulder) Dam; conservation of Government oil reserves and the promotion of the unit operation plan in the development of all American oil fields, and investigation of how the Government can function most effectively in the field of education. Almost every major policy of the department is being overhauled. The Hoover administration probably has initiated more new ideas in the Interior Department than in all other departments combined.

Secretary Wilbur was chosen to direct this work because of his special qualifications. It is to be hoped that he will remain in the Cabinet long enough to complete his work.

FARM EXPORTS.

Agricultural exports for the last fiscal year declined 19 per cent in value, the total amounting to $1,495,000,000. This figure is slightly below the average for the five-year period from 1910 to 1914. Smaller shipments of cotton at reduced prices were the principal factor in bringing about the decline, although there were reductions in the exportation of grains, fruits, animal oils, dairy products, &c. Meats, tobacco and some other products registered gains.

Lower prices and increased competition from larger world crops, according to the Department of Agriculture, are the chief contributing factors to this decline. The losses for the year would appear considerably smaller had the comparison been based on volume instead of price, because of the steady decline of food prices. The depression seems to have affected agriculture much the same as it has industry.

This does not mean, of course, that the farmer has had less opportunity to dispose of his produce. The tariff act of 1930 gives the farmer greater protection than he has ever had before. While conditions in the world markets have been unfavorable, a greater portion of the domestic market has been reserved for the farmer. So far as the tariff is concerned, the farmer is in a better position that he has ever been in before.

The benefits of the agricultural tariff was elucidated in the address of Secretary Hyde at Mount Vernon, Ohio. Nearly 40 per cent of the average farmer's purchases are articles that are on the free list; 48 per cent are articles produced on farms, and only about 12 per cent are dutiable articles that are not agricultural in character. "The farmer therefore pays," says Mr. Hyde, "the increased tariff rates, to the extent they are effective, on $140 worth of purchases. He collects the tariff rates, to the extent they are effective, on 100 per cent of his sales. The plain fact is that for agriculture the tariff act is a distinct gain."

The Government has no control over foreign markets, but it can reserve the American market for domestic producers. The American farmer, whose standard of living is higher than that of agricultural peoples abroad, can compete in the world market only through superior methods of operation and greater efficiency. No doubt there will be a gradual tendency to reduce production to a point where the agricultural tariff rates will become effective. This will mean further declines in the exportation of some crops, but not a reduction in the farmer's income.

JOHN LANSING

By GEORGE GORDON BATTLE,
In a Letter to the New York World.

Mr. Tuttle in his recent campaign speeches stated, according to the press, that the disappearance of Mr. Justice Crater is without precedent in the history of the State. It so happens, however, that there is in our State annals a curious episode in which a distinguished jurist, without explanation, dropped out of sight and was never afterward heard of.

In 1799 there was no more prominent citizen in the State than John Lansing, of Albany. He had been during the Revolution military secretary to Gen. Philip Schuyler; he had been speaker in the Assembly; he had been Mayor of Albany; he had been chief justice of the Supreme Court of New York and chancellor of the State. Perhaps his most conspicuous public service was as one of the three New York delegates to the national constitutional convention in Philadelphia in 1787, his colleagues being Alexander Hamilton and Robert Yates. Chancellor Lansing and Mr. Yates were violently opposed to the proposed Constitution and insisted that the Bill of Rights be inserted in the original instrument. When their views did not prevail they left the convention in resentment and returned to New York before the final vote. For this reason the charter of our Government is signed on behalf of the Empire State only by Alexander Hamilton.

In December, 1829, the former chancellor was living in Albany. He came down to New York on the morning of Saturday, December 12, 1829, and put up at the City Hotel, on Broadway near Trinity Church. He attended business in the morning, had his midday dinner at the hotel and spent the afternoon in writing letters. A little later he left the hotel, having an engagement for tea with Mr. Robert Ray at 29 Marketfield street, near the Battery. The weather was stormy. He wore an overcoat and carried an umbrella. From that moment, so far as the public knows, he was never seen nor heard of again. Naturally there was great interest over his disappearance. A reward of $100 was offered by Jacob Sutherland and Edward Livingston. There were the same theories of flight, of murder and of self-destruction advanced to explain his disappearance that have been expressed in the case of Mr. Justice Crater, but the mystery remained unsolved.

About 40 years ago there was a strange recrudescence of this old affair. Mr. Thurlow Weed Barnes, a grandson of the old-time statesman, Thurlow Weed, published the life of the grandfather in which Mr. Barnes stated that his grandfather had received from an entirely reliable source certain papers that explained the disappearance of the chancellor, stating that he had been murdered, giving facts and the names of the guilty parties. Mr. Barnes said that his grandfather was instructed by his informant not to divulge this information until all the persons concerned should have passed away. Before the death of Thurlow Weed these conditions had been fulfilled, but Mr. Weed was still unwilling to publish the facts because it would bring grief and distress upon the descendants of those who were involved. He consulted two of his friends, Mr. R. M. Blatchford and Mr. Hugh A. Maxwell, who advised that he should not publish. Accordingly, upon the death of Mr. Weed in 1882, all likelihood of solving the Lansing problem came to an end.

It will be seen, therefore, that there was a Lansing mystery before there was a Crater mystery, confirming the old belief that there is nothing new under the sun. The story of the Lansing case is told most interestingly in a recent book published by Mr. Edward Pearson, of the New York Public Library, entitled "Instigation of the Devil." The book takes its name from the language of the old indictments, which stated that the defendant committed the crime charged against him "not having the fear of God before his eyes but being moved and seduced by the instigation of the devil." Mr. Pearson's book contains a number of very interesting studies of crimes and quasi-crimes. It is very fascinating to those who, like myself, are addicted to this kind of literature.

WORTH ATTENTION.

No American who likes to trust that all is for the best in this best of all possible republics should ever read the writings of Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, according to the Aurora Beacon News. For Mr. Pack has a way of being disconcertingly blunt and outspoken.

In his latest broadcast Mr. Pack makes the following discouraging statement:

"In the forests lies our economic salvation. With the passing of our forests, whose products keep the wheels of industry turning, would come the passing of our entire economic scheme. There is no article of commerce into which cost of forest products does not enter.

"We have heard a great deal about a trade expansion program. Any such program means an increased call upon our forest resources. Let us take stock. We are cutting our forests about 4½ times faster than we are renewing them."

This is not reassuring, but it is worth listening to. Mr. Pack's reiteration of unpleasant truths finally awakens us to the seriousness of our forest problem he will have done the country a great service.

JUST FOLKS

THE WINNER.

The man who wins has aches and pains
And sometimes loss to bear.
Before the victory he gains
Of grief he gets his share.
Hard luck is something that he knows
And likewise fear and doubt,
For he has suffered all the woes
The quitters whine about.

The man who wins fatigue has known,
And sometimes failure, too;
On him the bitter winds have blown,
But he has braved them through.
He knows the hardships, one by one,
Along the battle line,
But he has won by keeping on
When quitters stopped to whine.

The man who wins succeeds in spite
Of hopes that go astray,
Against the odds he's had to fight
And trudge his up-hill way.
To gain the prize that victory brings,
With strength and courage stout,
He's had to overcome the things
The quitters whine about.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE ingratitude of republics is due to the fact that everybody's business is nobody's business.

Citizens worthy the name may be eager to grant the disabled soldier the full measure of compensation to which he is entitled, but they have no voice in the matter. Congress determines how much of the taxpayer's money shall be allotted to broken veterans, and appointed officials whose one desire is to hold their jobs determine whether the applicant for a pension is worthy and fix the rate of his compensation.

These officials differ from one another, as judges do, and as judges temper the law with mercy or make it brutal, according to their temperament and their prejudices, so these officials grant pensions or deny them according to the measure of their charity.

To be sure, there are regulations of infinite detail to serve as guides. This or that affliction must have developed within three months or three years, and the compensation may range from $10 to $100 a month, depending on the nature and degree of the disability. If blindness entitles the veteran to $100 a month, the examiners may decide that his degree of blindness is 20 per cent and award him $20 a month.

That is not the schedule, but that is the idea. And as you can readily see, the actual compensation awarded any disabled veteran depends almost wholly upon the nature of those who pass judgment on his case.

The veteran who would receive much in one State receives nothing in another. Men who deserve nothing are awarded enough to pay their board, and men who are helpless and destitute are denied anything at all.

I know one man, shot through five times and now dying of tuberculosis, who has been unable to obtain more than $40 a month; another, discharged with tuberculosis, who can get nothing at all; another, whose discharge records the bladder trouble that makes him a hopeless invalid, who hasn't been able to get a dollar.

Their name is legion; and to add insult to injury, they are browbeaten as though they were mere private soldiers still when they appear before some examiners to claim their due.

The ax is ground now, and the former hero is a mere bum out of a job.

But isn't it possible to have these disabled men examined by competent specialists whose chief concern is to grant them every cent to which they are entitled?

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Abuse of the Frank.

Minneapolis Journal.

Thomas D. Schall, the senatorial franking expert, has developed a technique in the art of making Uncle Sam pay his campaign expenses that must cause his clumsier colleagues of the Senate to be consumed with envy.

His latest exploit is a short synthetic letter to voters, every sentence of which is deftly plucked from the midst of a radio speech which he had expanded to 25,000 words and which he then had Senator Borah insert for him in the Congressional Record.

These carefully collated sentences, dragged from their contexts and hitched together, were printed on Senator Schall's letterheads and signed with a facsimile of his signature. The result looked like a personal letter to the favored recipient, brought to him without postage cost by the Government. Impressive, eh? And thrifty, too.

Cutting Down the Navy.

Indianapolis News.

A definite announcement by Admiral William V. Platt, chief of naval operations, of the Navy reduction schedule will end a season of speculation about the extent of the cut and leave some of the critics of the policy wondering why they were so conservative in their estimates. The immediate purpose of the move is reported to be a saving of $29,000,000 a year in the cost of the naval establishment. There is, of course, general sympathy with the administration's desire to reduce expenses. The debatable point is whether the wholesale decommissioning of vessels and reduction of personnel in one sweeping order is in keeping with the country's view about reasonable consideration for the morale of its Navy. If the people were convinced that the Navy Bureau of Construction had positive knowledge of what it can build under the London treaty, and the necessary appropriation could be anticipated with reasonable certainty, the situation would be more cheering. There is no desire to counsel retention of obsolete vessels, or to overman ships and stations, but the move seems contrary to American principles of self-reliance. Not since the United States scrapped 300,000 tons of new naval construction under the terms of the Washington conference has there been such a trimming of the Navy.

Dwight Morrow's Speech.

Baltimore Sun.

Mr. Morrow at the moment is, after all, a Republican running for office, and not a political scientist leading the populace toward the clear and unadulterated light.

At that, his opening campaign endeavor is a mighty relief in comparison with the vast majority of similar endeavors. He indulges himself and his audience in a great deal of honest and capable political discussion, and lets some fresh air into a very stale atmosphere. If he keeps it up, he will perform a valiant service in renovating American political life.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mrs. Mary Church Terrell Recalls Service of Women on Board of Education.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the article on the Board of Education in The Sunday Post, October 12, it is stated, "About this time the world was slowly reaching the realization that woman was more than an adornment, and in 1895 Congress authorized the District Commissioners to appoint two women as members of the school board of trustees." But the names of these two women are omitted. Since I was one of the first two women appointed by the District Commissioners I should like to "tell the world" that I enjoy that distinction. In The Post of Wednesday, April 10, 1895, the pictures of Mrs. Stowell and myself appear as the first two women ever to participate officially in the deliberations of a school board in the District of Columbia. After serving a little more than five years I resigned of my own free will and accord.

In 1906 the Board of Education then serving was disbanded. The power of appointing the members was transferred from the District Commissioners to the judges of the District Supreme Court. They decided that they would appoint no one on the board which they would name who had served in that capacity in the District of Columbia before. They appointed me on the new board, however, and then I served nearly six years. Since I was one of the first two women appointed on a Board of Education in the District of Columbia by the Commissioners and the only member appointed by the judges of the District Supreme Court who had ever served here before, I think for the sake of accuracy The Post would be interested in these facts.

MARY CHURCH TERRELL.

Eye Hazards in Industry—Protective Devices Should Be Universally Used.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the National Safety Council published a report entitled "Eyes Saved in Industry," in which it was told how more than 10,000 eyes and at least $46,000,000 were saved in two years among 583 plants that employed a total of 500,000 workmen.

These two organizations dealt only with cases of workmen's eyes saved from serious injury or destruction through the use of headmasks or goggles. The figures apply only to the corporations with definite records, hence the actual number of eyes saved through protective methods must far exceed 10,000 in all industries in America.

It was considered that any object hitting a goggle lens with enough force to pierce or shatter it would have resulted in serious if not fatal damage to the eye but for the protecting piece of glass. Also lenses that were spattered with molten metal, by corrosive or other injurious chemicals, represented an eye saved. In many cases where the lens was spattered with chemicals the glass was often damaged to such an extent that it had to be replaced. If the chemical destroyed the glass, what would it have done to the naked eye?

All employers and employes should be made to realize that it is possible to prevent accidental eye injuries in certain occupations through the use of protective devices.

An eye saved represents an asset to the employer, and it is more than an asset to the individual, as no amount of wealth can buy back lost sight.

ALFRED SANDBOY.

Mr. McCarthy, a Fiend for Figures, Sets Everybody Right on Rainfall.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A news article in The Post of Saturday, October 11, states that during the twelve dry days from September 29, there should have fallen .96 of a cubic inch of rain for every square inch in the 70 square miles of the District of Columbia and this amount of rain which did not fall would weigh 489,694,238½ tons, and that this would be billions of gallons.

The World's Almanac for 1930 states that a cubic foot of fresh water weighs 62½ pounds, which would make a cubic inch of water weigh .036169 of a pound, nearly. With this data upon which to work and reckoning 231 cubic inches to the gallon, I can only make the amount of water in this little rain puddle that did not puddle, to be 4,878,722½ tons, containing 1,167,851,520 gallons.

Carrier Pigeon Found; Identifying Figures on Leg Bands.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Last Saturday afternoon, October 11, I was walking near Ninth and G streets northwest when I witnessed the misfortune of a carrier pigeon. It was knocked down by an auto and was left lying at the mercy of all the vehicular traffic.

I picked it up and examined it, then took it along to a friend's house, where it died. On its legs were a ring and a little band with the following numbers: I. F. B. 9079 on one leg and on the other leg 4342.

I wondered whether any one might be interested to learn of its fate.

BILLIONS FOR ROADS.

The Federal Government estimates that we will spend upon the highways of our country this year a total of $1,750,000,000, says the Tracy Headlight Herald. This is an immense sum and represents almost twice the total cost of running the Federal Government twenty years ago. But a nation with an annual income of some 80 billions should be able to spend this sum for permanent road improvement. Large sums spent on highways now go for permanent improvements of road bed which should last for many years, if the surface is taken care of. Fifteen years ago many of our highways were little better than cow trails and were poorly located from the travel standpoint. They have now been put on permanent locations, eliminating needless turns and railroad crossings and a permanent bed has been established. Much of this work has already been done, so that our road investment will pay dividends far into the future. The modern highway and automobile has been the dawning of a new age and all of us have become a travel loving people. This has gotten many of us away from our provincialism of past years.

HOOVER KEEPS TAB ON SHORT SELLING

President Talks With Heads of New York Exchange on Fluctuations.

DISCIPLINE NOT POSSIBLE

(Associated Press.)

The White House conference of Sunday night between rPesident Hoover and officers of the New York Stock Exchange was attributed here yesterday to interest of the administration in reports of short selling operations on the market, but there was no sign last night that an investigation was under way.

t was emphasized at the White House that Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, and Allen Lindley, vice president, called on Mr. Hoover at their request. Their visit coincided with reports in financial circles that the President was closely scrutinizing the market fluctuations.

Whie House officials said yesterday they had discussed with the President particularly the question of short selling on the stock market, which has forced prices down.

The came to the Capital, it was said, en route from Chicago to New York, to give the President first hand picture and to outline to him the attitude of the stock market toward short selling and efforts made to combat it.

It was emphasized yesterday in Government circles that there is virtually nothing the Government can do in the way of regulating or disciplining stock market traders.

It was also said at the Department of Justice and at the Federal Reserve Board that no investigation of the stock exchange is pending.

Meanwhile, interest is centering in the Senate investigation of financial conditions which is to be made by a committee under the direction of Senator Glass, of Virginia, Secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson Cabinet.

The committee has authority to inquire into use of Federal Reserve funds on the market.

Woman Explains Legion Criticism

Drunkenness Charges Were for Boston's Benefit Dry Leader Says.

Boston, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of the Massachusetts woman's committee for law enforcement, addressing a Congregational Church audience here tonight, amplified remarks made in a previous address, in which she criticized liquor conditions in Boston attending the recent national convention of the American Legion.

The dry leader said her previous remarks had been misconstrued in that published reports of the address did not contain her expressions of admiration and honor for the legion, which deserves, in the main, all the honor we can pay."

"My brief statement regarding the drunkenness on our streets was intended for the benefit primarily of the city which allowed open violations of the law, State and national, rather than a reflection on the few men who disgraced their uniforms and who did not, I believe, represent a legion of honor."

Pick-Up in Industry Aiding Unemployed

Increase in Certain Areas Offset Elsewhere, Says Report.

(Associated Press.)

Seasonal increases in industrial operations were credited yesterday by the Federal Employment Service for a gain in the number of workers employed during September.

This advance was noted in certain sections of the country, the employment service said, offsetting to some degree a slackness in labor demand attributed to slower pace of building operations and the reduced rate of operations in the automobile and accessory industries.

An increase in coal mining, rather steady work in boots and shoes, certain improvement in textiles, and a "somewhat brighter aspect" in the steel industry was described as existing at the beginning of October. Ship building yards had speeded up and taken on more hands, while the fall harvest demand for agricultural labor was said to be general.

FEDERATION ACTS ON UNEMPLOYMENT

carried out without awaiting the action of either Congress or State Legislatures.

M. J. Colleran, of the resolutions committee, in urging adoption of the recommendation, criticized the present administration for "side-tracking the so-called Wagner bills" and declared that despite Government appropriation for new buildings two or three years ago, such as a new postoffice in Chicago, little actual employment had been provided.

He pointed out that President Harding advocated a similar plan nine years ago.

The federation today instructed President Green to protest personally to President Hoover against alleged reduction of wages in United States Navy yards.

This action followed an attack from the convention floor upon Secretary of Navy Charles F. Adams, who was accused of attempting to lower wages through reclassification of employes.

G. M. Bugniazet, a vice president of the federation, declared that Secretary Adams was carrying out the policies of outsiders whose interests were opposed to labor, instead of the policies of President Hoover, who, he said, had declared for maintenance of a high wage scale.

Roy Horn, general president of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, drop forgers and helpers, told the convention that 50 per cent of the employes of the Philadelphia Navy Yard had been reduced to second class rates, and that some had been reduced to third class.

He said he believed President Hoover was sincere when he told the federation last week that he wanted to maintain a high standard of living, and Horn felt that the situation should be called to President Hoover's attention.

A resolution, protesting against the award by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III, director of public buildings and public parks, of the contract for redecorating the White House to a non-union concern, was passed without debate. The resolution also asked that in the future bidders on government contracts base their wage estimates on prevailing union wage scales.

NAVAL WAGE CUTS DENIED BY ADAMS

Cabinet Member, Replying to Federation, Tells of Declassifications.

EXPLAINS RATES OF PAY

(Associated Press.)

Prompt assertions that the Navy Department had made no attempt to reduce the wages of navy yard employes came yesterday from Secretary Adams and Assistant Secretary Jahncke in response to charges made by speakers before the American Federation of Labor convention in Boston.

Secretary Adams said a reclassification had been made by the wag board, which had a representative of labor on it, but he joined Mr. Jahncke in asserting there had been no effort to lower the pay of navy yard workers.

A little later a letter was made public which Secretary Adams had sent the various naval and marine groups on August 19 last, saying there was work which might properly be done by employes in the intermediate and minimum rates of pay.

The letter referred to laborers, helpers and mechanical forces of all naval and Marine Corps stations and called attention to regulations governing employment of civil personnel under the naval service.

Three rates of pay were set forth—the maximum, intermediate and minimum. The letter said that in some employe ratings the intermediate and minimum pay was "little used," and suggested there was work which could "properly be performed" by employes in those classifications."

The letter pointed out that one of the sections of the regulations showed the intent of pay ratings and employe classifications was to preserve "a balanced shop organization."

In view of the above, and the necessity to conserve the appropriation," it concluded, "it is desired that steps be taken, gradually, to secure more nearly balanced forces."

CHRIST DISCIPLES DEDICATE PULPIT

Sunday, when the new church will be dedicated in its entirety, Dr. Edgar De Witt Jones, of Detroit, Mich., delivered the dedicatory sermon, taking as his subject "The Emancipation Proclamation." W. Palmer Clarkson, of St. Louis, presided, and Dr. Earle Wilfley, pastor of the new church, gave the invocation and benediction.

The $1,750,000 church stands where less than 60 years ago the frame structure that housed Washington's first Christian Church services was sold under the hammer for $129. In dedicating the pulpit Dr. Jones said, "This pulpit is dedicated to the proclamation of a liberating gospel, a gospel that is able to set free prisoners of every kind of bondage—political, theological, social, personal; a gospel that includes the idea of redemption and the ministry of rescue, that recognizes the presence of sin in the world and shows the way out."

H. R. Ford presided at yesterday morning's business session in the Washington Auditorium, when church leaders from many sections of the United States and several foreign countries discussed the necessity for securing adequate pensions for ministers and missionaries. Dr. Daniel Poling, of New York, delivered an inspirational address, and A. E. Cory, of Indianapolis, explained how the campaign would be conducted. The goals sought in the drive, he said, are 100,000 workers, 250,000 pledgers, and a total fund of $8,000,000.

In urging the adoption of "Pensions for Preachers of Salvation" as a slogan for the campaign, Dr. Poling said that the new pension plan was designed to replace old methods of haphazard provision for indigent missionaries, ministers, and their dependents by benefits systematically given.

At this morning's session the convention is expected to consider a report asserting that an intensive campaign has been waged during the last year "to create the conviction in the public mind that prohibition is a failure." The board of temperance of the organization, which prepared the report, recommended that "prohibition stand under fire for another five years." The report added that the last year "has witnessed an intensification of the warfare to break down and nullify the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act."

with the lady's shoe and fists when he attempted to pull her from the car. The crowd became larger and larger and the struggle went on, and was not dispersed until the police patrol from the First Precinct arrived with reinforcements, about the same time her husband reached the scene.

By this time Mrs. Ernst was bordering on hysteria, and her husband upbraided the officers for "persecuting a girl like that." Mrs. Ernst finally agreed to go to the First Precinct Station, accompanied by her husband and Policeman Johnson, who would not get into her machine until her husband had assured him that he would not be assaulted.

Released on Bond.

She was charged with double parking, and was released under $5 collateral.

Policeman Johnson refused to give his side of the argument, but intimated that he would have given Mrs. Ernst a ticket and permitted her to leave had she not abused him.

"I had parked double just a minute to make a purchase in a music store on Thirteenth near F street," she explained, "and when I came out this officer walked up and started an argument over double parking. I told him that I had a radio engagement, and to give me a ticket, or wait until I had finished singing before taking me to the station. He refused, and I told him that if I went to jail I would have to be carried."

Mrs. Ernst's greatest regret appeared to be her failure to be at the studio on time. "I was to introduce 'Happy Go Lucky Me' tonight," she said.

AUTO STROP MERGES WITH GILLETTE FIRM

Combine Halts Litigation Over Patents Between Two Companies.

NEW STOCK IS CREATED

Boston, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—A merger of the Gillette Safety Razor Co. and the Autostrop Safety Razor Co. was announced today, after an all-day meeting of the board of directors of the Gillette company. The combine, by which the Gillette company acquires the assets of Autostrop, also ends patent litigation between the two companies.

By the agreement the Autostroy company will be given a new issue of 310 shares of $5 preferred stock, equivalent to a share-for-share basis on both the A and B stocks of Autostrop, which totals 310 shares.

The new preferred stock has been created by converting a block of outstanding Gillette shares purchased for this purpose, with the result that the outstanding common shares of Gillette will be reduced from 2,205,000 to 2,018,769.

The funds borrowed for this purpose will be paid off by $20,000,000 ten-year 5 per cent notes, which will be unwerwritten and then offered to the public by a syndicate headed by Lee, Higginson & Co. The notes are convertible into common stock on the basis of 10 shares of Gillette for each $1,000 note.

Burglar Hunt Vain At Stimson's Home

Police Rush to Scene on Hearing Prowler Tried to Enter Bedroom.

Three automobile loads of police from the Fourteenth Precinct last night rushed to the home of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, 3000 Cathedral avenue northwest, following a report from Mr. Stimson that a prowler was attempting to enter his second floor bedroom through a window.

Led by Lieut. McGill Grove, the policemen investigated thoroughly, but could find no trace of the intruder or evidence that any attempt had been made to enter the window. A thorough search of the estate also was made and surrounding streets patroled for suspicious characters, but none was found.

Unable to find any trace of the reported burglar, police departed without leaving a guard. In addition to Lieut. Grove, Acting Sergeant J. Mills and Policemen T. A. Brown, J. W. Peters and George Weaver participated in the search of the grounds.

SCHOOL TREE BEARS FIRST LADY'S NAME

Mrs. Hoover Is Honor Guest as Ben W. Murch Pupils Stage Ceremony.

MRS. WRIGHT IN CHARGE

A tree bearing the name "Lou Henry Hoover" now adorns the playground at the Ben W. Murch School, the first of a series to be planted there, following ceremonies yesterday at which Mrs. Herbert Hoover was the guest of honor. Mrs. Hoover threw the first spadeful of earth around the freshly planted tree.

The First Lady was accompanied by her secretary, Miss Ruth Fessler, and Lieut. Emmett Forrestel, one of the naval aids to the President. Escorted to a place near the tree by Mrs. Leslie Wright, through a lane of honor formed by Boy and Girl Scouts, Mrs. Hoover was then presented with a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums by Miss Patricia Griffith, 4200 Harrison street, a pupil at the school.

After a few words by Mrs. Hoover, Miss Jean Cromelin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cromelin, recited Joyce Kilmer's "Trees." The spade with which Mrs. Hoover covered the roots of the tree will be preserved at the school in memory of the planting.

Music was furnished by the Western High School Band, while Boy and Girl Scouts from the E. V. Brown and Janney public schools were in attendance. Dr. F. W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, was among the guests.

Miss Leslie Wright is in charge of tree planting at the Murch School, while others on the committee include Mrs. John Zelinski, Miss Helen Gantley, Mrs. Leila B. King and Mrs. D. R. Smith.

ENGLAND SENDS ENTRIES

English orchids will compete with exhibits from a dozen States for the $10,000 in gold and silver medals and trophies at the fall exhibition of the American Orchid Society which will open at the Willard Hotel this afternoon.

Rivaling the entries, valued at more than $1,000,000, from the United States will be a collection of 50 rare hybrid orchids in full bloom, brought to this country on the Mauretania this week by Albert C. Burrage, of Boston, former president of the society and owner of the largest collection of orchids in this country, valued at more than $15,000,000.

The judges, headed by Prof. David Lumsden, of the Department of Agriculture, will announce the winners at 2 o'clock after which Mrs. Herbert Hoover will attend the formal opening of the exhibition with members of the Cabinet families and Diplomatic Corps and 2,500 guests to witness a preview before the exhibition is opened to the general public at 5 o'clock.

The presidents of 27 garden and horticultural clubs of the National Capital and suburbs will constitute a reception committee.

TWO MEN ARE HELD FOR JIBING HURLEY

Riot Charges Face Pair Who Jumped on Secretary's Auto in Oklahoma.

200 FOLLOW TO JAIL

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Following an alleged Communistic demonstration against Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, riot charges were filed against two men here late today.

The accused are J. I. Whitten and R. T. Pierce, admitted Communists. They were arrested by police as they boarded an automobile in which Secretary Hurley rode, hurling jibes and insults at the Cabinet member from Oklahoma.

A crowd of more than 200 followed the pair to the city jail, but made no effort to stage a further demonstration.

The charges were brought by Harlan T. Dupre, assistant county attorney, under a statute providing a penalty on conviction of from two to ten years in the State penitentiary.

Allegations are that Whitten, a former Denver, Colo., labor agitator, and Pierce "forcibly climbed onto the car occupied by Secretary of War Hurley, assaulting him, cursing and threatening him, bemeaning him personally and as the Secretary of War of the United States." The charges were signed by policemen who made the arrests.

The demonstration came as the Secretary's motor car was leaving the Chamber of Commerce where he addressed a luncheon gathering. Hurley proceeded to the airport and took off for Fort Worth, Tex., to participate in ceremonies incident to the inauguration of the Atlanta-Los Angeles air mail service.

He planned to return here for a banquet tonight. To cope with any further attempts to annoy the Secretary, Clarence Hurt, assistant chief of police, ordered all policemen in the city on duty tonight. Riot equipment would be available in case of any trouble he said.

A heavy rain aided in dispersing the crowd that assembled in the vicinity of the jail after the arrest of Whitten and Pierce.

McAdoo Tests Use Of Business Plane

Reaches Capital on Speed Hop Across Country in 16 Hours.

(Associated Press.)

William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, arrived here early last night on a transcontinental flight from California to New York, to determine the speed with which the average business man could cross the country in comfort and safety.

Mr. McAdoo said he would spend the night here and leave early today for New York. His pilot, Harry A. Ashe, said they had been in the air 16 hours and 25 minutes since leaving California.

The Lockheed plane, powered by a Wasp motor, made the 325-mile trip from Columbus to Washington in slightly more than two hours. Mr. McAdoo came through the Capital because the shorter route to the north was considered dangerous because of bad weather.

HULL IS QUESTIONED BY NYE COMMITTEE

Tennessee Candidate for Senate Says He Did Not Spend Over $10,000.

LEA RAISES OBJECTIONS

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Representative Cordell Hull, nominated for United States senator in the Democratic primary of August 7, told the Senate campaign funds investigating committee today that his campaign expenditures did not exceed $10,000, the limit fixed by State law. Mr. Hull was the first witness to take the stand when the committee opened ihs hearings into the Tennessee senatorial primary.

Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, took exception to a question asked him by Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee. Senator Nye had inquired about "a story" that Col. Lea had been offered $10,000 for his influence in Shelby County (Memphis) in favor of an unsuccessful candidate for the Senate.

"The use of the word 'story' is very apt," the witness replied. "I resent that question. I think no such story was going around. It was manufactured, but I don't believe, however, that it was manufactured by the committee."

Senator Nye said that he had asked the question to give Col. Lea an opportunity to deny it. He said that he felt it his duty to ask the question.

After adjournment of the hearing until tomorrow afternoon, Col. Lea shook hands with Senator Nye and again took up the subject of the rumors.

"I dare any man to make me such an offer," he said. He told the senator that his investigators had only associated with the "dregs of the city."

One-Inch Rain Breaks Talbot County Drought

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Oct. 15.—The Talbot County drought was broken by a splendid rain last night. Nearly an inch was recorded, the greatest quantity to fall at any one time since July 22 last. It was the first shower of the month of any quantity.

Farmers who have planted wheat reported that while the grain sprouted and came through the ground, it died off for want of moisture. Most of the growers, however, were waiting for rain before planting.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM BIG ELECTION GAINS

SENATE BATTLES CLOSE

prospects are that its motley array in Washington will be retained.

One hears a most weird refrain from Oklahoma. The Progressive Senator Pine is campaigning on the fact that he most always votes with the Democrats and is attacking the Democratic nominee, former Senator Gore, for alleged Democratic irregularity.

Observers see Mr. Gore's election as well as Democratic recovery of the First and Fifth Congressional Districts.

In Missouri, Democrats expect to recover the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Sixteenth Districts, as well as to capture the Fourth, now held by Representative Hopkins. Republicans believe Mr. Hopkins is safe, and, furthermore, do not concede all of the six former Democratic districts.

It is believed, however, that the Democrats are certain of at least three of them—for example, the Sixth, Thirteenth, and Fourteenth. Missouri is in that West-Central belt that was hard hit by the drought, moreover, which favors additional Democratic successes.

Robsion Is Threatened.

In Kentucky Democrats will get back the five seats they lost in 1928. In fact, they already have gotten back one, and they will be the most surprised persons in the world if they do not defeat Senator Robsion.

There is a slight chance, however, that the Republicans, by taking advantage of local Democratic factional trouble, may be able to hold onto the Sixth.

Now the main thing is that this broad outlook is not in itself a gloomy one for the Republicans. Insofar as the House is concerned they can stand these losses, virtually all simply Democratic recoveries, without their equanimity being so greatly disturbed. It is the outlook in Indiana and Ohio that is disturbing.

Fight Is Loom in Indiana.

They are barometer States. A full sized revolt is loose in both. Indiana has felt a revolt coming on for sometime. Every Republican Congressional seat is under heavy attack but the fight is for even greater spoils. It is for control of the legislature. Indiana loses two seats under reapportionment and the State must be redistricted.

If the Democrats should capture the legislature, which they are seriously threatening to do, it is assumed they would so jerrymander the State as to make it hard for the Republicans to get back in.

Just now the Republicans, by sending their heavy artillery into the State—they've had Vice President Curtis and Everett Sanders working and other big guns are being rushed up—are hopeful that they have, to some extent, checked the revolt.

Vestal in Jeopardy.

At present the only ones who can be called safe from the Republican side, are Representatives Will Wood, Purnell and Elliott. The three Democratic incumbents seem to be assured of reelection. Everybody else is having trouble, even Representative Vestal, whose troubles are heightened by local factional differences.

If the Republicans come through in this State with only two losses they will shout with joy. There are many predictions that the Democrats will get the majority of the delegation.

About Ohio, we will run over there and see.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-covered tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

MONTGOMERY HEARS BALTIMORE'S MAYOR

Broening Opens Campaign in County for Governor With Addresses.

OTHER SPEAKERS TALK

Decrying the evils of one-man control of the State, Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore, Republican candidate for Governor of Maryland, yesterday spoke at several meetings in Montgomery County as part of his tour of the county with other Republican candidates.

The mayor and other candidates were guests of the Republican State central committee at a luncheon held in the afternoon at the Indian Spring Golf Club. Paul Sleman, county chairman, presided and introduced the speakers. The party then proceeded to Rockville to view the fourth annual field day of the third division, Knights Templar of Maryland, held on Welsh Athletic Field, and to speak at a meeting in the Rockville High School.

The group then proceeded to the home of Galen L. Tait, State chairman of the Republican State central committee of Maryland, for dinner. Two county-wide meetings in the evening at Bethesda and Takoma Park topped off a busy day for the mayor and his running mates.

Accompanying Mayor Broening were David A. Robb, candidate for attorney general; W. Newton Jackson, candidate for comptroller; Charles S. Warner, candidate for clerk of the court of appeals; Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, candidate for reelection, and Arthur D. Willard, candidate for judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, which includes Montgomery County.

Mayor Broening's Speech.

The loved ones in the family circle are the ones who bear most of the brunt of suffering following campaign attacks on the character of candidates, Mayor Broening declared in his afternoon talk and because of this he is opposed to indulging in personalities, he said.

Innuendos from the other side, however, have made it necessary for him to defend his record as a public servant.

"The chief issue of this campaign is the fourth term, long continuance in office by the executive," he said, and charged that long continuance in office results in autocracy and in dishonesty. Mayor Broening declared that George Washington and Thomas Jefferson both had declared against long terms and cited the Maryland bill of rights as opposed to such practice and favoring rotation in office.

Answering alleged attacks by Gov. Ritchie, whom he said has called him a hypocrite and lacking in the executive ability to assume the gubernatorial office, Mayor Broening "pointed with pride" to his record in office from his first election as a city councilman, his subsequent elections to the State Legislature and as State's attorney and his two terms as mayor of Baltimore to his nomination as Republican candidate for Governor of Maryland. He declared that throughout his service, not one cent of dishonesty had been charged to his administration.

"We must have a governor who is responsive to the people in order that a government of the people, by the people and for the people can survive," he declared in closing, "and to do that we must do away with one-man government."

Addresses at Night.

The mayor charged at the night meetings that Gov. Ritchie has accumulated an overconcentration of power through his domination of boards and commissions made up of Democrats without a minority representation. He said that legislation passed in the governor's administration had done away with the former requirement for a minority representation.

"Absence of minority representation is obviously detrimental to the interests of the people," Mayor Broening said. "It opens up opportunities for violations of public trusts. It allows affairs of supreme importance to the public welfare to be dealt with in a secret fashion, free from the scrutiny of a member of the political party opposite in faith to the majority members. The minority member of a public board, although he may be outvoted, can act as a watchman for the public and call a halt on the improper secret workings of the majority members. This constitutes a restraint which operates for good government and is able to very frequently prevent serious wrongs."

The mayor charged that the people are not satisfied with the present situation and declared that the wise course for the party in power is to voluntarily grant minority representation as a symbol of good faith. "Instead of this it has been the policy of the present governor within the last ten years to monopolize all of the powers of the State, and one of his methods has been through one-party boards," he alleged. Mayor Broening pledged himself to maintain minority representation on all public boards in the event of his election.

Galen L. Tait's Talk.

The same keynote of attack on one-man power was the theme of the address by Galen L. Tait, State Republican chairman, who alleged that "a petty feudal chieftain has set up a political principality in our midst and compels attornment to him as the lord of the manor," in discussing Montgomery County conditions.

After elaborating on his allegation that one-man rule exists in Montgomery County and the State of Maryland, Mr. Tait said: "In short, shall the people of Montgomery County, at one and the same time, upset the domination of Brooke Lee of this great community and of Albert C. Ritchie in the State of Maryland?"

He declared that the Republican party is harmonious throughout the State but that victory depended upon work, and then still more work. He pointed out the Republican platform as an example of forward looking, liberal and constructive thought, tinged with the progressive spirit of Theodore Roosevelt.

David A. Robb Heard.

David A. Robb called upon those "people who stood shoulder to shoulder in electing Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough and Herbert Hoover" to join hands once more to break down the political machine he alleged had been built up by Governor Ritchie.

Representative Frederick N. Zihlman declared that while Mr. Ritchie wears his thrice won honors lightly his lieutenants, whom he termed "princelings," are arrogant and lauded the "new militant spirit of Republicans in Montgomery County, which I believe will free this county and this State of one of the most arrogant political rings existent."

Mr. Jackson, Mr. Warner, Mr. Willard and Thomas L. Dawson, of Rockville, prominent Republican county leader, also addressed the meetings.

William Tyler Page, reading clerk of the House of Representatives, presided at the Takoma Park meeting which was held in the firehouse and Walter R. Tuckerman presided at the Bethesda meeting, which was held in the State Theater.

POLLARD RECOUNTS STATE DROUGHT AID

Virginia Governor's Statement Apparently Is Answer to Federal Quiz.

ROAD WORK DESCRIBED

Richmond, Va., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Gov. John Garland Pollard tonight recounted Virginia's efforts toward self-help in the drought situation in a statement which apparently was in answer to an inquiry from a Federal source.

The inquiry, sent by Dr. C. W. Warburton, secretary of the National Drought Relief Commission, was telegraphed to Harry Flood Byrd, Virginia drought relief chairman and former governor, and made public in Washington last night. It was part of a reply to Byrd's request for "definite information" on drought relief plans.

Without referring to Dr. Warburton's telegram, but answering directly his question as to what Virginia had done to take advantage of Federal funds to relieve unemployment, Gov. Pollard said road construction in Virginia "is going on more rapidly than ever before in the history of the State."

The governor disagreed with Dr. Warburton's statement that "we have as yet had no call" from Virginia to take advantage of 1931 Federal road funds amounting to $2,379,788 already made available to the State, "and would, of course, be glad to know what progress is being made in this most important arm of relief."

Explaining that all programs on which such money is to be spent, must first be approved by the Federal Government, Gov. Pollard said two projects were placed before the Federal Bureau of Public Roads on October 9 and 10, and are now awaiting approval. One of these asked $57,465 on a road from Alexanders Corner to Bowers Hill in Norfolk County, and the other $36,318.10 to aid in building 4 miles of macadam road on the Valley pike between Mount Jackson and Woodstock. On receipt of Federal approval for the projects the governor added, "the Virginia Highway Commission will immediately proceed."

Funeral Service Held For Prominent Mason

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 15.—Funeral services were held this afternoon for J. Edward Harrison, 64, merchant tailor, Virginia avenue. The Rev. Edward M. Heinze, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, officiated. Masonic rites were observed at the grave in Rose Hill Cemetery. Mr. Harrison was a past worshipful master of Potomac Lodge, No. 100, which had Knights Templar escort. Mr Harrison was also a member of Ali Ghan Temple of the Mystic Shrine.

Mr. Harrison was a native of Hedgesville, W. Va., from which place he went to Keyser, W. Va., coming to Cumberland 34 years ago. He is survived by his wife, one son, Frederick, at home, and one brother, Stewart Harrison, Hedgesville, W. Va. Mr. Harrison was prominent in the Knights of Pythias.

Cattle Disease Appears In Martinsburg Area

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 15.—"Blackquarter" or "blackleg," a much-feared infectious disease afflicting most frequently cattle under 3 years of age and usually fatal, has been identified as the cause of the death of two heifers at the Robert McDonald farm, along the border between this and Jefferson County. The disease, according to veterinarians here who were called in the case, is a rare one.

State Veterinarian A. A. Johnson, this city, was advised of the appearance of the disease and issued a warning to cattle growers. The other cattle in the McDonald herd were given serum.

GROUPS TO NAME TICKET IN COUNTY

Independent Organizations to Act on Prince Georges Candidates.

GRAND JURY CONTINUES

Three politically independent organizations will meet together tonight and choose the coalition ticket they will support in the Prince Georges County elections in November. The three, the Taxpayers League, the Municipal Officers Association and the Law Enforcement League, will hold their joint meeting in the old police courtroom in Hyattsville.

Recommendations as to the candidates to be chosen will be made by a committee of nine, which met in closed session Tuesday night. This committee was formed by three delegates from each of the groups, after the municipal officers had failed to select their ticket in open meeting. Varying political affiliations of the members was given as a reason for this failure. The committee of nine was planned to consist of four Republicans, four Democrats and one independent.

Delegates from the taxpayers group were Dr. H. T. Willis, Mayor of Hyattsville; R. Lee Van Horn, former president of the Lanham-Severn Road Association, and E. E. Perkins. The law enforcers sent Gen. E. E. Hatch, Harry T. Jenkins and William Dunford, and the delegation from the municipal officers consisted of John S. Torvestad, E. B. Hilley and Rexford Worley.

No hint of the make-up of the ticket which this group will recommend could be gained yesterday, it even being impossible to learn who served as chairman of the committee meeting. If any forecast is to be made, it can only be said that the Republicans have a slight edge. The general tenor of one of the groups has a distinctly Republican tinge, while another one is pretty evenly divided. The third group is thought by some observers to be faintly Republican in sentiment. However, leaders of neither party seem worried over tonight's gathering, feeling, apparently, that their party will be dealt with gently.

Fifteen more indictments were brought in yesterday by the Prince Georges County grand jury, bringing the total number of indictments to 51. About 60 persons have been slated for trial by the circuit court, now in session. Jurymen refused to say whether or not more indictments would be returned to the court today.

They did say, however, that their report would probably be made to Judge Joseph C. Mattingly today, and this is ordinarily the last action of a grand jury. It is understood, though a complete list of those indicted was not available, that indictments have been made in all the important cases in which the alleged offenders have been arrested.

M. Hampton Magruder yesterday filed a motion for a new trial in the suit Charles J. Penn instituted against the county commissioners. Penn was awarded $3,500 damages for injuries he said he received when his car struck a depression on a county road, a jury holding that the commissioners were responsible.

Magruder defended the commissioners, and his motion for the new trial is based on a claim that the pleading was at variance with the evidence.

Two persons were fined yesterday in police court in Hyattsville on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving. One of them was sent to jail in default of his fine.

John A. Holt, colored, of Washington, was tried as the outcome of an accident early Monday, when two persons were reported injured. Holt's car crashed into a machine belonging to A. W. Middleton, also of Washington on the Baltimore boulevard near Beltsville. Middleton received a gash in the scalp which took eight stitches to close at Garfield Hospital. A colored passenger in Middleton's car was also reported injured.

Holt, on his conviction, was fined $125 for driving while drunk, and $25 for reckless driving. He was arrested by State Policeman C. W. Cubbage.

William Chase, jr., colored, of Washington, was fined $100 for driving while drunk, and $20 more for the reckless part of the charge. He was sent to jail when he told Judge J. Chew Sheriff that he did not have the money to pay the fine.

Hearings in the condemnation suit for right-of-way of the new road between Aquasco and Brandywine have been postponed for a week. The suit was to have been heard yesterday, but was delayed to give the State Roads Commission time to attempt to acquire another route.

The Commission now is trying to work out a plan to run the new road through the Henry Brady property. Previously they had settled on a line running through land belonging to C. L. Turner, the heirs of Fred Connick, and the Demar estate. It is understood that one of these three suggested the alternate route.

William Stanley, a Baltimore attorney acting for the Road Commission, called Sheriff Charles J. Early yesterday morning and asked that the hearing be postponed.

Bandit Suspects Held After Fights

Two Baltimore Policemen Are Wounded as Gun Battles Are Staged.

Baltimore, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Two gun fights in a few hours, following the discovery of a safe robber at work in a downtown office, put two wounded policemen and a bandit suspect in hospitals today, and police expressed the opinion they had halted the activities of a busy band of yeggmen.

Wilson Knott, 23, was shot in the right hand as he fled from officers, and Lieut. Thomas J. Hood was accidentally shot in the right leg. Many shots were fired as a squad of police cornered Knott after surrounding a block of dwellings.

Patrolman Samuel J. Monkhouse was wounded seriously late last night in a gun fight with a safe robber he discovered at work in the office of Henry Bros. & Co. A man caught in a nearby alley, who was said to have admitted he was a lookout, gave the name of Albert Leo Gaffney, 24.

Funeral Services Held For Accident Victims

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 15.—Funeral services were held today for Herman Kenneth Frost, 19 years old, and James D. Taylor, 20 years old, who were killed in a motorcycle accident on the Georges Creek boulevard, near Lonaconing. Frost was riding on the tandem seat and it is thought he was jerked from the seat by a guy wire attached to the pole into which the machine crashed. A blown out tire is believed to have caused the machine to hit the pole.

The Rev. C. B. Beard, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Episcopal Church South conducted the Frost funeral at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Frost, and the Taylor funeral from the church. Taylor was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Taylor.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Edward F. Taylor, a native of Virginia but for 35 years a farmer of the Bunker Hill section of this county, died yesterday at his home as the result of two strokes of paralysis, the second one was suffered Sunday.

He was 70 years old and is survived by his widow, five daughters, two sons and two sisters.

Maryland Shows Greatest Growth

Population Increases More Than Any Other Decade in History.

(Associated Press.)

The final 1930 population bulletin for Maryland, issued yesterday by the Census Bureau, showed the largest numerical growth of any decade in its history with the increase most marked in areas close to Baltimore and Washington.

The total population was 1,631,526, an increase of 181,865 or 12.5 per cent over 1930. Fourteen of the 23 counties displayed growth. Baltimore County increases by 66.1 per cent. Ann Arundel County, also adjoining Baltimore and containing Annapolis, increased by 26.4 per cent. Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, adjoining the District of Columbia, increased by 40.9 and 38.6 per cent, respectively.

Alleghany, Washington, and Wicomico Counties containing respectively the cities of Cumberland, Hagerstown, and Salisbury, also showed marked increases. Five Maryland cities had populations of more than 10,000. Baltimore's population no longer numbers more than half the population of the entire State because of increases in suburban areas. Seventeen Maryland towns were incorporated during the last ten years.

If you're tired at 4 o'clock get something to eat that's Sweet

Nearly every business makes its greatest demands on the worker from mid-afternoon on. Yet that is invariably the "zero hour" so far as vitality is concerned. Refined sugar in any form supplies quick nourishment and overcomes mid-afternoon fatigue.

RECENT scientific investigations have proved that the eating of sweet cakes, a few pieces of candy, a dish of ice cream or the drinking of a sweet beverage—even a glass of water sweetened with sugar—will revive one in an amazing way when mid-afternoon fatigue sets in.

The reason for this lies in the quick digestibility of sugar.

There are few food products which nourish the body so speedily. And when the system is nourished, fatigue is noticeably decreased.

It pays to eat something sweet when you are tired. Foods sweetened with refined sugar always are safe. The Sugar Institute.

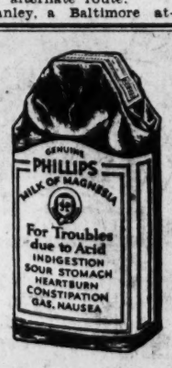
Immediate Relief for INDIGESTION



WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention, it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no harmful after-effects.

Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle. All druggists—25c and 50c.

Miss Glover Ready to Be Ship Sponsor

Sub-Deb Will Officiate at Ceremony on Saturday.

Irving Glover, is busy rehearsing her "lines" for the ceremony which will mark the launching of the merchant marine vessel, Exochorba, at Camden, N. J., on Saturday morning.

Of the coterie of daughters of the "little Cabinet," Miss Glover was picked for the honor for two reasons: First, because her father is chairman of the subcommittee for ocean mail contracts and, secondly, because numbered among her mother's forbears are two of the country's most prominent shipbuilders.

Mrs. Glover's grandfather, the late John Engils, engaged in the building of ships in Buffalo and Green Point, Long Island, and her father, the late John Engils, jr., took over the business after his death.

Mr. Glover will arrive in Washington tomorrow to take his daughter to Camden for the ceremony. He has been in Fort Worth, Tex., for the celebrations attending the inauguration of the Southern transcontinental air mail route.

They will leave tomorrow afternoon for Philadelphia, where Mr. Henry Herbermann, president of the Export Steamship Corporation, has arranged a dinner and theater party in their honor.

The christening will take place at 10:45 o'clock, and a large party from Washington, including officials of the Shipping Board will attend. The Exochorba, sister ship of the Excalibur, christened last summer by Mrs. Hoover, is the second of eight ships in this class to be built.

Calvin Cumming for several weeks. Mrs. Cumming is a niece of Mrs. Kendrick. On her return Mrs. Kendrick will visit her son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. Hubert R. Harmon, at West Point, before she returns to Washington about the middle of November. Mrs. Frank H. Eggleston, of Laramie, Wyo., will accompany Mrs. Kendrick on her journey and will be her house guest at 2400 Sixteenth street until Christmas.

ORCHID EXHIBITS
OCTOBER 16, 17, 18

Diplomatic, Official and Social Groups Are Invited for Preview.

The national exhibition of orchids, which the American Orchid Society holds each year, will be held at the Willard Hotel, October 16, 17 and 18. The exhibition is not commercial, being contributed to by private collections and horticulturists.

Dr. David Lumdsen, scientific horticulturist of the Department of Agriculture, is making arrangements for the exhibit, and invitations have been sent to diplomatic, official and social groups to attend a preview on the opening day.

The Garden Club of America will be in session at the time, and it is expected that delegations from that organization will attend the display. Several States and Panama and India are expected to be among the sections represented by flowers.

F. Eugene Dixon of Elkins Park, Pa., is president of the American Orchid Society.

Numerous prizes will be awarded, including a gold medal offered by the Royal Horticultural Society of London for the most meritorious exhibit in the show, and the American Orchid Society's silver trophy.

—From The Evening Star of Oct. 8th.

THIS new and rare Cottleya orchid exhibited by the American Orchid Society, of which we are a member, will be on display at the Willard Hotel along with a host of specimen blooms, including an exhibit by Gude Bros. By ROBERT D. HEINL

ALTHOUGH still two weeks away, Frederick R. Huber, director of Station WBAL, is preparing to celebrate the station's fifth anniversary, Saturday night, November 1, with the greatest program in its history.

This will be something to look forward to, as the entertainment standards adhered to by Mr. Huber are as high as any in the country. Details of the celebration will be given later.

Sounds a little fishy, but they are going to try escaping from a submarine at New London this afternoon. (WRC, 3 p. m.)

Cancer prevention will be discussed today at a meeting in Philadelphia participated in by Dr. Bowman C. Crowell, Chicago; Dr. Robert B. Greenough, Harvard University; Dr. Burton J. Lee, of Cornell University (Station WCAU, 2 p. m.), and Dr. C. Jeff Miller, New Orleans, president of the American College of Surgeons (Station WIP, 4 p. m.).

"IF you don't vant her, I vant her!"

David Warfield, "The Music Master," will be heard over the WABC net (but apparently not WMAL) at 7 o'clock tonight in Beck's Brevities.

At least that is what Columbia press notices promise, adding that Mr. Warfield will have with him a couple of other actors named Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson.

Considerable ingenuity has been exercised by local concerns sponsoring programs in selecting theme songs.

The Washington Gas Light Co.'s Orchestra plays each Saturday night for its opening number "The Song of the Flame."

The Wilkins Coffee Orchestra appropriately enough introduces itself to its listeners each Friday night with "You're the Cream in My Coffee." Schneider's Monday opener was the work of a local composer, entitled "Dan-Dee Bakers."

THE transatlantic conversation between Senatore Marconi and David Sarnoff will not be heard tonight because of the illness of Marconi.

Arthur Pryor's radio triumphs were nothing new to him. While with Sousa's Band he played over 10,000 trombone solos, in this country and abroad.

Heard over WRC last Saturday night, Marguerite Clark Cromwell, soprano, is the wife of an Army officer. While her husband was stationed in the Philippines Mrs. Cromwell occupied her spare time as the director of a broadcasting station there.

Almost everything an announcer says these days is written out. An exception to this is the explanation Bill Hays gives of the doings of Amos 'n' Andy, which he makes up as he goes along.

Phillips Lord, who plays "Seth Parker" and "Uncle Abe," is 28 years old, and Arthur Allen, David, 38.

FROM London Opinion: "Are there any children in your family, madam?"

"Just my husband and I."

"Do you have a radio?"

"No. And why these questions?"

Jane Corbin INTERPRETS the MODE

Black and white woolen coat smartly trimmed in dark gray astrakhan, with a chic bolero back effect. (Courtesy of Philippe et Gaston, Paris.)

New York, Oct. 15.

SEPARATE skirts never did quite go out of style—just because we wore our blouses on the outside of them and lowered the beltline from its normal position where nature seems to have curved our waist for the express purpose of putting a belt on it, to our hips, we cannot say that separate skirts were ever "demode." They were there all the time but just disguised, that's all!

And why should such an altogether practical phase of wearing apparel go out of style, anyway?

Agree With Our Mothers.

Our mothers called a tailored suit, or a separate skirt and blouse, "neat"—now we call them "chic"—yet we both mean merely that this type of apparel gives a woman an appearance of quiet good taste and efficiency, which is particularly becoming to certain types and particularly appropriate for certain occasions.

This is entirely apart from the practical and economical aspect of this style of garment. This, too, must be considered by some of us—and nowhere can we make a dollar and ninety-five cents go farther than as an accessory for the completion of our skirt and blouse ensemble.

Isn't it simply terrible the way the average nightgown looks on you after you have bought it because it looked so cunning when it was lying on the counter? Well, that's the very thing I set out not to have happen, if you see what I mean, when I designed a certain type of nightgown. And then I had all kinds of trouble pleating and repleating the material in such a way that the gown would hang as it should, and cover the figure as it should, not just hang on the figure like a sack. You won't have any of these troubles when you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet which tells you how to make it, because we worked and worked on it until we got those pleats and those seams just where they should be. And now it's a darling nightgown, and you will love it!

It's interesting to compare a smart coat of today with a coat of three or four years ago. Then it was that a good material and a nice fur trimming told the story. But in today's coat story that is only the first chapter. For there are buttons and lines, pocket details and silhouette, and innumerable little and seemingly trivial things which are really very important parts of the whole effect.

And the Philippe et Gaston black and white woolen coat trimmed in dark gray astrakhan is my idea of a perfect example of this winter's coat with all of its smart details.

And now they have discovered lipsticks, palettes for rouges, and other instruments obviously used for the feminine toilette, in the Nile delta. And these, my darlings, were used in the Stone Age—which only goes to prove—well, a lot of things!

Now for the reminder again: Dare's weekly fashion letter is in The Washington Post each Sunday. You should look for it.

Au Revoir!

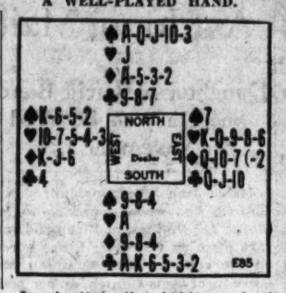
WORK ON BRIDGE

A WELL-PLAYED HAND.



In Auction the bidding of the above hand would be: South one Club, West pass, North one Spade, East two Hearts, South two Spades, West three Hearts, North three Spades. That would end the bidding unless East and West indulged in flag-flying by going on with their Hearts. They would have been able to make only three-odd at Hearts, but it is often better to take a loss of one or two than to let the opponents have a game. It is possible, however, that North and South would have bid as far as five Spades.

At Contract South would bid one Club, and North two Spades—a jump-shift showing strong Spades and commanding South to keep the bidding open. East would not have the strength to bid three Hearts without knowing whether West had support, and South would end the bidding with four Spades. Unless West had made an original Diamond bid (quite unthinkable with his cards), East would have no excuse for leading that suit with a Queen-Ten-x holding; and unless East should lead a Diamond, North and South can make a slam but could not safely bid for it.

In the play with North the Declarer and Spades the trump, East led the King of Hearts which South won and immediately led Spades. The finesse was taken by leading the Nine and playing North's Trey. On the second round a small Spade was led by South and won by North's Ten. By leading a Club, South was put in the lead to finesse again; and finally North's Spade Ace drew West's King.

Next North led a Club and East was allowed to take the trick with the Jack—South ducking. That was the only trick the adversaries could make because, whether East led a Heart or a Diamond, North would win and lead his last Club which South would take. Then South would be left with three good Clubs, North would obtain three Diamond discards, and Declarer would win twelve tricks.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF October 16 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The influences on this date are not of such a nature that anything of great material or scientific value will transpire, but things of the heart will flourish. Social advancement and new ties formed. Very favorable for sports and all kinds of amusements.

Children born on this October 16 will have strong wills, and will soon show their fighting natures. They will have fertile imaginations and rather uncertain and petulant tempers. They will have brusque and fearless manners. They are fitted for research work or scientific studies.

You are not naturally a democratic person or a good mixer, and you do not trot out your best charms, except to your ready-made home circle of friends or intimate associates. Your assumed superiority frightens other people, who would and could become good human assets to you. You do not know how to strike a happy medium, how to adopt a light-hearted, friendly manner, and still maintain plenty of dignity.

You are eaten up with your zeal for your work, or some one particular hobby, but you do not have a diversity of interests. It is very difficult for you to adapt yourself to new conditions and surroundings, and from choice you will never be a traveler. You become easily put out and excited, and your tongue with its hasty words will ever be a trouble maker. Although you soon cool down, your victims do not soon forget your sarcastic thrusts. You do, however, very easily forgive and forget, and you regret your fiery temper.

Yours is not an even temperament, and you are "up" an hour and "down" a week, or the reverse, in your spirits. Your enthusiasms are not long lived, but they are intense during their periods of existence. The best and biggest things in your life will be "pulled off" in a hurry. You can be easily led, but not easily driven, if tact and diplomacy are used. Your assets from life will far exceed your liabilities, and Fate will not be unkind. Your home life spells happiness for you.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

INCLOSED please find the blossom of an old-fashioned rose. All my roses have done well this year except this bush. Please tell me the cause of this particular plant producing few, if any, flowers. G. E.

The single blossom seemed quite healthy. As you have told me nothing about the age or location of the plant I can not, except in a general way, answer your question. All roses should be planted in the sun and in rich soil. The ground about their roots should be cultivated each week, they should be watered every day that it does not rain and they should be given an application of liquid manure or bone meal about once in three weeks. Given such attention, I can not understand why a healthy bush should not produce flowers unles you are pruning it incorrectly or it is so old a plant that it has outlived its usefulness.

Please tell me the name of the shrub of which I am inclosing a few leaves. MRS. E. E. C.

The shrub is likely a wildling. I am sorry, but I am unfamiliar with the variety, so can not name it.

Please tell me when to remove gladiolus bulbs from the ground after they have finished blooming. Also, do you know of any fertilizer that will stimulate the growth of rose cuttings? These cuttings have taken root most splendidly, some in pots, others in the open ground. My father and myself have been very fortunate with purchased rose plants and have also raised chrysanthemums that really vie with those shown in the fall exhibitions. At present we have about 120 plants, all doing well in spite of extremely warm weather.

HENRY J. O. K.

If rooted in sand cuttings require no fertilizer until they are transplanted into soil. If your plants are already transplanted the best way to fertilize them is to use a rather week solution of liquid manure. Frequent applications of a weak solution are better than one application of a stronger solution.

Please tell me what is wrong with my rosebush, of which I am inclosing a few leaves.

Also suggest some reason why it failed to bloom this year.

MRS. H. N. Y.

The leaves showed the presence of some insect. Better spray the plants with the following spray:

Arsenate of Lead Spray.

3 teaspoonfuls of arsenate of lead powder.
1 ounce of any liquid soap.
1 tespoonful of nicotine sulphate.
A gallon of water.

The above spray combines the properties of a stomach poison and a contact insecticide. Lack of water, sun or food will cause any rose to cease blooming. Read answer to G. E. in this column.

Please tell me how to prevent roses from freezing in winter. I have lost many valuable plants through freezing. M. S.

Do not start to protect your bushes until freezing weather really starts. All hybrid teas, teas and most of the hybrid perpetuals need some protection. The best protection is gained by hilling the soil up about the base of the plants to a height of 10 inches. After the earth is drawn up about the plants the surface must be mulched with several inches of manure. This mulch has a twofold purpose. It conserves moisture and adds to the fertility of the soil. To guard against alternate freezing and thawing when growth starts in the spring the plants should in early winter be wrapped with burlap or straw or the beds may be covered with evergreen boughs.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or diectly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Dependent Youth.

Privileged youth of today has at least one problem that does not trouble the boys and girls who must leave school and go to work at the age of 14 or 16.

The children whose parents make possible for them high school, college and professional education must remain in economic dependence upon their elders long after they would normally wish to be on their own feet, taking no help and subjected to no restrictions from anybody.

It is a problem which must be met thoughtfully lest it give rise to emotional conflicts that waste the energy which should be put to constructive use—lest the child become fixed in attitudes either of spineless dependence or of rebellion against those who would do most for him.

The child's attitude toward the money which he receives from his parents therefore isof the utmost importance. He should appreciate it, of course, realize some measure of the effort it cost to produce it and spend it in the light of that appreciation.

On the other hand we do not want him to be so deeply impressed with his parents' generosity that he acepts their money with feeling of mingled guilt and inferiority.

From the very outset we should let him sense and gradually understand that his allowance, his allotment for education and personal expenditures is his by virtue of his position as a member of the family, in due proportion to other items of the family budget.

As he grows older a certain trust is therefore reposed in him to make the best of the money given for his benefit and pleasure.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

CLIMATE AND DISEASE.

THE climate and the weather which are best depend upon the age of the people we have in mind, and also on the disease to be guarded against. When asked what climate or what weather is best the answer is one that begs the question, for instance, "That depends."

The best temperature for children is several degrees lower than the best for adults, and old people do best when the temperature is higher still. The best winter climate for the old is that of Florida or of California. The best winter climate for children is in which the mean temperature in winter is several degrees colder than either of these. If somehow, we could bring school ventilation to the ideal, the best winter climate for children would be one where there was plenty of cold air and also sunshine. To swing the school year around so that the long vacation came in midwinter would make it possible to give a high rating to the winter climate of the Northern States for children.

If it is a matter of protection against pneumonia and influenza a warm climate is better than a cold one. On the other hand, warm climates are productive of diarrheal diseases, especially in children, and of typhoid fever. Dr. L. Arnold has shown how a high atmospheric temperature affects the human body, changes the distribution of blood, particularly in the abdominal organs, and increases the tendency of infection. Sixty degrees is the level above which this tendency begins to operate. A warm climate almost wipes out scarlet fever and lessens the prevalence of measles.

No other disease compares with smallpox in the influence which atmospheric heat and cold exerts. Smallpox in colder regions is frequently a grave disease. The various forms of mild smallpox have come out of mild countries. In a given locality smallpox prevails in cold weather and almost disappears spontaneously when the summer becomes hot.

Climate and weather are factors in determining the severity of a disease. The death rate of a given disease rises when the weather is extremely dry. Pneumonia in the dry air of Mexico City has a higher case fatality rate than it has in the moist air of Vera Cruz.

RHEUMATISM AND IRISH.

W. A. B. writes: Is there any truth in the statement that Irish people suffer more from rheumatism than any other, the reason being they eat more Irish or white potatoes than do others?

2. Is salt fish harmful to one recovering from an attack of acidosis?

REPLY.

1. Finding an answer to the main part of your first question is not easy. Rheumatism is not generally reported and there are no dependable statistics on the question. It is thought that the people of the British Isles, including Ireland, have more than the average prevalence of rheumatism. This is charged against the weather. There is no proof that the Irish eat more Irish potatoes than other people, or that potatoes are Irish other than in the colloquial name, or that eating Irish potatoes causes rheumatism. Otherwise the statement may possibly be right.

2. Salt fish causes an acid ash and for that reason should not be eaten in large amounts by a person subject to acid ash acidosis.

"Although I am only 22 years old I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it, for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family. I will write to any woman about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

IT WAS LOCKED - - By JOHN HAWKS

READ THIS FIRST.

Robin Smith, a young and rising but extremely sensitive poet, is invited to make one of a country house party. He accepts because Lady Gwendolen Winston, with whom he is desperately in love, will also be present; but he is so worked upon by the contrast between his youth, poverty and awkwardness, and the polished, blase manners of the other guests, that after quarreling with the Earl of Winston, Gwendolen's brother, and Donald Flint, her fiance, he locks the door of his bedroom and flees through the window back to his attic room. When Robin does not reappear the house guests start a search for him. The Earl of Winston is also missing. The guests burst open the door to the poet's bedroom. They discover the body of Lord Winston. Gwendolen faints. The police are called and a search for Robin is started. Inspector Deemer, of Scotland Yard, finds the poet and questions him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

At this point, Inspector Deemer proceeded in his curiously deliberate voice:

"He was found murdered, Mr. Smith, in the room you were to have occupied last night at Alston Manor."

It was—at least, so it seemed to Robin—as if the man had suddenly hit him on the head with a sandbag or a jimmy. He looked at his visitor with a dull, uncomprehending stare. He didn't later remember how long this condition lasted. He heard automatically the words:

"No need for alarm, young man, none at all. I want you to go along with me. You'll be wanted as a witness."

"A witness? . . ." repeated Robin, still dazed.

"To be sure. There will be an inquest, of course. Day after tomorrow, probably."

Robin still stared at his visitor stupidly. It was difficult to take in the full portent of this startling news. He kept repeating to himself: "Lord Winston murdered . . . in my room . . . murdered . . . murdered . . ."

"You'd better be getting dressed," kindly advised the inspector. "I'll just take a look around, meanwhile . . ."

"But first let me explain," began Robin desperately, suddenly finding his tongue.

"Better not. Anything you say may be used against you."

"You don't mean you think I did it?" Robin was enough himself again to find his indignation rising.

"I didn't say so," was the laconic reply.

"Then why do you want to search my room? And what do you want with me?" As he spoke, Robin jumped out of his bed and hastily commenced to dress.

"It's my duty to take a look around here and deliver you to my colleague at Alston Manor. That is, unless you prefer going down to Alston village with me, making a statement there, and being locked up until you're due to appear at the inquest. As a favor to Lady Dorothy Alston, you have been granted permission to spend the intervening days at Alston Manor."

So that was it. Robin's eyes narrowed. They thought he had killed Lady Gwendelen's brother. She, too, thought so, probably. The mere possibility of such a thing was unbearable. He felt suddenly that he must return to Alston Manor, that he must explain last night's adventure to Lady Gwendolen and convince her, if no one else, of his entire innocence.

His hectic thoughts were interrupted by the cool voice of his visitor.

"I say, where did all this blood come from?"

Robin turned and saw that the police inspector was holding up the soiled, dilapidated pair of trousers in which he had returned from the country. There was blood on the leg. Of course. Immediately remembered. It was that blasted shin he had skinned on the stairs. The inspector looked as if he had less innocent suspicions about it, so Robin hastened to explain:

"That was from my shin. I fell down the bally dark stairs last night and gave it a nasty scratch. See!" Robin held up the offending leg to the inspector's view.

"There seems to be more blood on your coat sleeve, too. Was that also from the shin?"

Robin caught the note of sarcasm and felt rather than saw the cold glint in those piercing gray eyes which were boring holes in him.

"That—er—that's fr-fr-from my wrist," he heard himself stammering. Why did he always have to stammer just when it would make a bad impression? It had always been so. How often it had happened just as he came to the most difficult passage in reading his own poems aloud.

"Remember," cautioned the cold voice of the inspector, "Anything you say will be used against you."

"I don't give a damn! Do you hear me? I don't give a damn!" Robin shouted irascibly. It was unbearable that that officious fellow should come uninvited into his room before breakfast and torment him so. "I am speaking only the truth. You can believe me or not, as you like," he added sulkily.

"I'm not here to believe or disbelieve," replied the Inspector soothingly. "My only object is to collect evidence. . . ."

"To hang me, I presume."

"You say so yourself, Mr. Smith."

For an instant Robin looked furtively around his room, half-hoping a miraculous avenue of escape would appear before his tortured eyes. But there was only the small window, which was about forty feet above the level of the square, and the door which the inspector was deliberately covering.

A haunted look came into Robin's eyes, which reflected his whole inner mood. He felt like one of those caged animals at the zoo which he never looked at but with a deep sympathy He had even once written a poem about it. But he was not thinking of poems now. He was thinking only of getting away—anywhere!

For a moment he braced himself; and his analytical powers coming to his rescue, he suddenly felt himself ridiculous. Here he was standing in his undergarments while a complete stranger was examining his clothes. It was humiliating! Especially for a sensitive, high-strung nature, such as his. Robin paused, stood there, appeared to be waiting for something. He heard the inspector speak:

"I am afraid, Mr. Smith, I shall have to take this along with me. For evidence. Please put on some other clothes. We must be moving. There's a train to catch."

The inspector was referring to Robin's bloodstained trousers, which he was holding in his hands.

"B-but . . ." stammered Robin. "It's the only pair of trousers I have. I've nothing else!"

The inspector could not resist a smile at this curious predicament.

"All right, Mr. Smith," he said, "put these on. Another pair, I dare say, will be provided for you at Alston Manor. Poetry doesn't pay, eh?"

Robin took the extended trousers, but did not reply. He wasn't going to bandy words with this man-hunter about art. His hands shook as he drew on the garment which might prove fatal to him. At this moment he felt as though he were drawing on his own death-shroud. It was as if he were really guilty. God, why should he feel like this? Only the knowledge that he was innocent came to his rescue and sustained him.

Meanwhile, Inspector Deemer was making a meticulous examination of the tiny room. He thoroughly examined every drawer, most of which were crowded with papers, not clothes, but while he found every indication of poverty, he was able to discover nothing which might have come from the dead man's pockets.

No valuables of any description were visible; only papers, more papers, and about the room only rows of books. There was no furniture except the narrow cot, small dresser, writing table and two plain chairs.

Robin very soon was completely dressed. It was only then that he thought of washing his face and of brushing his hair. The cool water refreshed him, and by the time he finished with his abtutions, he managed to recover some of his composure.

"I am ready," he now said, simply.

"I am sorry," said Inspector Deemer. "I am obliged to go through your pockets first. In the meantime, I'd advise you to have your breakfast. You'll need it."

And, indeed, even as he spoke there was a knock at the door and Mary appeared with the tray containing steaming coffee and his anticipated bacon and eggs which before the inspector's visit he had conjured up as a vision of bliss, but which now he wouldn't dream of touching.

Mary left the tray and, with a curious look at Robin and his strangely early visitor, reluctantly walked out of the room.

"Go to it, man!" advised Inspector Deemer.

"I don't feel like it!" said Robin.

"Have a drop of the coffee anyhow!" urged the inspector not unkindly. "You have a day before you, young man!" And the inspector, taking matters into his own hands, poured out a cup for Robin. "Now, if you don't mind taking your coat off. . . . It'll be easier."

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

Braised Celery.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

As a cooked vegetable, celery offers a pleasant change when the winter variety dwindles to a few standbys. Here is a good way to cook it:

1½ quarts celery cut in pieces.
3 tableespoons drippings and juice from roast meat or fowl.
3 tablespoons flour.
1½ cups cold water.
Salt and pepper.

Put the cut celery into a shallow baking dish. Melt the meat drippings in a skillet, add the flour, stir until well blended and then gradually add the water and continue to stir until smooth. Add salt and pepper to taste and pour this hot gravy over the celery, or use an equal quantity of left-over slightly thickened gravy or meat broth. Cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes, or until the celery is tender. During the last fifteen minutes remove the cover from the dish, so that the gravy cooks down and browns slightly. Serve in the baking dish.

This is an excellent way to use the outer stalks of celery less attractive for serving raw and also to make use of left-over gravy or meat drippings.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A diagonal stripe knitted woolen in smart red coloring makes this simple all-day dress.

And it's so distinctly individual—so thoroughly practical and easily made.

Its smart, straight lines are varied by its intricate detail. The curved seaming of the back in panel styling and hip-band extensions that button at either side of the front, is decidedly slenderizing. The front of the skirt forms a plait at each side, adding graceful fullness without interfering with its alimness.

The neck is particularly becoming.

Style No. 796 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. The medium size requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material.

Sportswomen Wearing Feathered Headgear

Paris, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Robin Hood and Yankee Doodle feathers are the right accessory for autumn sport hats. Paris likes them as jaunty as possible and goes in heavily for frayed effects. A piece of a feather, providing it is wide and windblown, will do as well as a whole feather.

Quills are stuck into hat bands or pierce the felt itself.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

says: "I have tested 33 dentifrices with reference to cleansing qualities . . . Colgate's is greatest."

DR. HARDEE CHAMBLISS, Dean of School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D. C., says: "I have tested and compared thirty-three different dentifrices with reference to their cleansing qualities. I find Colgate's not only cleans the surfaces safely, but also because of its very effective wetting power and low surface tension (penetrating foam) it has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, flooding away decaying food particles. Other dentifrices, because they are sluggish, lack this power.

"Colgate's fulfills the one function of a dentifrice—to cleanse the teeth thoroughly."

Hardee Chambliss

DOESN'T it impress you to know that this noted authority made a scientific analysis of 33 different dentifrices? He exhaustively tested each one for cleansing properties. Studied their action—noted their effect. His opinion is based on his findings.

Colgate's, he discovered, has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, where pasty, sluggish dentifrices do not reach.

He found that Colgate's has the unique power of flooding away decaying particles of food, which, hidden away in these tiny crevices, cause the greatest trouble. Thus leaving hidden, as well as exposed surfaces thoroughly and healthfully clean.

And wouldn't it impress you still more to know that agreeing with Dr. Chambliss are such eminent authorities as Doctors Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health, New York City, and H. H. Bunzell, Ph.D., University of Chicago, and other prominent authorities, who were retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions?

Impressive, too, is the fact that for more than 30 years more people have used Colgate's than any other dentifrice.

This low price is made possible only because more people use Colgate's than any other dentifrice—and have for 30 years.

LEE TILT ENLIVENS ROCKVILLE HEARING

Democratic Leader Objects to Subpena at Time of Robinson Funeral.

COUNSEL IS CRITICIZED

Objecting to tactics of attorney for the plaintiffs in summoning him at the hour he was scheduled to be a pallbearer for the late Attorney General Thomas H. Robinson, Maj. E. Brooke Lee, chairman of the Democratic campaign committee of Maryland, enlivened the first tour of the Kensington grade crossing hearing yesterday at Rockville.

Maj. Lee arrived at the hearing room at 10:30 o'clock and demanded that he be permitted to testify at once as he had been summoned for 10 o'clock. He told the examiner in equity, Kenneth Lyddane, that he would have come to Rockville without summons by a deputy sheriff.

Maj. Lee was summoned yesterday afternoon by a deputy sheriff, accompanied by Miss Vivian V. Simpson, of plaintiff's counsel, at Democratic campaign headquarters in Baltimore.

Excused for Time Being.

The prosecution attorneys, Harold C. Smith, John E. Oxley and Miss Simpson, said that they were not prepared to have him testify at that time, and offered to excuse him for the time being.

Maj. Lee declared that he would wait until he could testify as he believed the attorneys would summon him at some other equally inconvenient time. "If I leave now they will probably issue a subpena for me sometime when I am scheduled to make a speech."

The situation finally was clarified when it was agreed that Maj. Lee could leave some papers he had been subpenaed to bring and arrange to appear at the evening session next week.

Other Witnesses Called.

Witnesses beside Maj. Lee are Lamar H. Steuart, secretary of the State Roads Commission; Walter C. Hopkins, bridge engineer of the commission; H. R. Talcott, assistant chief engineer of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; Harry D. Williar, chief engineer of the road commission; Berry E. Clark, county commissioners' clerk; L. B. Ernest, former mayor of Kensington; E. Clinton Uhl, chairman of the State Roads Commission; W. L. Orme, of Chevy Chase; Parker L. Weller, of Beallsville, Md., and W. F. Walker, of Kensington.

The hearing is on a petition by counsel for the county commissioners, Capt. Joseph C. Cissel and the State Roads Commission, asking that an injunction barring construction of the Kensington overhead bridge be dissolved inasmuch as all matters complained of had been corrected.

Hearing on injunction proceedings is scheduled for October 27 before Judge Robert B. Peter in circuit court.

Schroeder Killing Trial To Open November 17

Indianapolis, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Trial of Harold H. Schroeder, of Mobile, Ala., on a first degree murder charge, was set today for November 17. Schroeder is alleged to have killed an unknown man whose burned body was found last May in the ruins of Schroeder's car near here.

The trial had been tentatively set for November 10. He has entered a plea of not guilty. He told authorities the man killed was a hitch-hiker he had picked up and that he met death when the car ran into a ditch. Fearing he might be accused of causing the man's death he decided to burn the body with the car, he said.

Rangoon, Burma, India, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, flying home to Australia from London to meet his fiancee and, if possible, to lower Bert Hinkler's 15½-day record over the route, arrived here this evening, four days ahead of Hinkler's time.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

IT has occurred to me that it might be smart to wade through the remainder of my bulky and scarcely transparent copy of "The Mind at Mischief" just to see if some reason won't suggest itself for the peculiar mobility, not to say vacillation, of the movie mogul mentality.

For long it was the cry of the industry, as represented by the exhibitor, that they be supplied with feature productions of such substance and potency at the ticket wicket as to justify extended runs—not always, of course, but now and then. When a house succeeded in corraling a subject that packed 'em in, it was the wont to let the picture "stand up" until it fell down from sheer force of gravity, or levity, as the case might be. All that seems to be changed now. That is to say, it seems to be changed at least one point of fire on the local front. The RKO-Keith Theater within the past few weeks has had at least three pictures which, under ordinary circumstances, would have been what the vernacular of the racket terms "holdovers."

The management, I think, will corroborate the statement that "Manslaughter" and "Half Shot at Sunrise," by the business attracted the first week, would have justified a continuance through a second. The same is proving true of "Her Man," the current attraction, in which there is enough action to win a war and in which Helen Twelvetrees and Phillips Holmes are more than making good all of their earlier promise, and Marjorie Rambeau is proving a slightly younger but no whit less explosively pie-eyed inebriate than Marie Dressler was in "Anna Christie"—whether it is a recognizable picture of any aspect of Cuban life or not. And that fight!

But what I started to say was that none of these is being allowed to prove how far it might have gone at the box-office if afforded adequate opportunity. The explanation, I gather, is that Radio Pictures is on fire to get to "Check and Double Check," the Amos 'n' Andy adventure in a new medium, at the earliest possible moment, without backing up a large amount of product that was made and booked to be distributed and projected upon some man's screen before it might become wholly outmoded.

It has already been announced here that "Check and Double Check" will be the first anniversary attraction at the RKO-Keith Theater beginning the week of October 25, but it was not divulged because it has only just now been decided upon that a special, reserved seat, midnight premiere of the radio stars' first celluloid vehicle would be given the night of the 24th. That, definitely, is the present plan.

And about these Amos 'n' Andy fellows, every indication reaching these precincts from the remote areas where "Check and Double Check" already has been previewed seems to be that they will be an even more conclusive smash on the screen than they have heretofore been over the air.

This unequivocally goes to prove that the theatergoers of an earlier generation who built up a tradition about and a constant and unswervable following for the burnt cork comicalities of McIntyre and Heath now have sons and daughters who lavish the same adulation upon the Messrs. Gosden and Correll, who today are merely doing what McIntyre and Heath would have done in their heydey had there been any such thing as radio wherewith to do it. The basis of their appeal is identical. And further than that, Freeman Gosden and Jim McIntyre could exchange dialects and nobody would ever know the difference.

And speaking of premieres, I am privately advised by those who preglimpsed it late Tuesday night, that "A Lady's Morals," to be projected for the first time upon a public screen at the Columbia Saturday, will disclose incidents of Jenny Lind's life that will come as a surprise—not to say shock—to many who cherish her memory.

Incidentally, a new oversize screen is to be hung in the Columbia immediately following the engagement of "A Lady's Morals," the first production to profit by the full-stage projection, such as is occasionally seen at the Palace, being "Billy, the Kid."

Since there seems to be no end to these gala "permeers," you might as well know, while we are at it, that "Up the River," next week's attraction at the Fox, will be accorded a public preview immediately following the final presentation of "Liliom" tonight, at no extra charge.

That is to say, if a patron is in attendance at the last showing of "Liliom," he may remain in his seat for the additional screening of "Up the River" for the single price of admission. This milkman's matinee will begin at approximately 11:15 o'clock. But the thing goes further than that.

For the benefit of those who may have seen "Liliom," but still would like to view the new offering at the midnight show, the box office will remain open continuously until the 11:15 extra performance has begun. In other words, a single admission to the Fox for the last regular performance tonight will entitle the purchaser to see either "Liliom" or "Up the River," or both—which would seem to be fair enough.

Una Merkle in "Eyes of the World" will not be next week's feature at the Rialto after all, but our statement that the producers are quick to take advantage of a "first time" success of a newcomer to the films still stands good. Rose Hobart, who made her debut in "Liliom," will occupy the screen in "A Lady Surrenders."

As long as we have gone this far, the complete bookings as announced for next week are as follows: Columbia, Grace Moore in "A Lady's Morals;" RKO-Keith's, Bert Lytell in "Brothers;" Palace, Clara Bow in "Her Wedding Night;" Earle, Winnie Lightner in "The Life of the Party;" Fox, William Collier, sr., and star cast in "Up the River;" Metropolitan, Jack Holt and Dorothy Revier in "The Squealer;" Rialto, Rose Hobart, Conrad Nagel and Basil Rathbone in "A Lady Surrenders."

After considerable discussion pro and con, it may interest you to know the Rialto has decided upon Saturday as the regular day of opening for its new bills, making the count five Saturday openings per week to two on Friday. The Fox and Metropolitan only adhere to Friday inaugurals, the Earle having reverted to Saturday upon the institution of vaudeville last week.

Those belligerent buddies, John Gilbert and Jim Tully, come to the Palace the week of October 25 in "Way for a Sailor," to celebrate the twelfth anniversary of the opening of the house, while the RKO-Keith management is observing its first. "Way for a Sailor" is said to go far toward rehabilitating Gilbert as a talking star.

Those showers we didn't have certainly made things no cooler quickly.

BALDWIN REQUESTS EMERGENCY TARIFF

Act Indicates Conservatives Will Use Issue as Basis of Election Battle.

TAX REDUCTION URGED

London, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—An advance showing of the Conservative party's probable platform for the impending general election was made today by Stanley Baldwin. The former premier issued what was termed a manifesto on the need of an emergency tariff in an open letter to Neville Chamberlain, chairman of the Conservative party.

Mr. Baldwin demanded immediate application of "an emergency tariff on manufactured goods which would preserve the home market" while the necessary investigations and negotiations are proceeding for a scientific tariff plan.

Observers gained the impression that because of his statement protective tariff would be the basis on which the conservatives would meet their enemies at the polls.

Other points in the manifesto were that the Conservative party stands for a strong policy of safeguarding "in order to protect our industries and workers against increasing foreign competition," and calling a halt to all plans involving additional national expenditures without definite return.

Tax reduction combined with rigorous economy and a drastic reform of the whole system of unemployment insurance—the dole—also were embodied in Mr. Baldwin's proposals.

A guaranteed wheat price for the British farmer and "concerted action with the dominions in order to promote the economic unity of the empire" were other planks in the Baldwin platform manifesto.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

JUST A RUSH.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: As you have helped others I hope you can help me. I always read your column and take your advice often. Here is my story.

I am almost 20 years of age. Up until this summer, I had been going with lots of boys, paying no special attention to any of them, just to have a good time. Without a care in the world.

Early this summer I met a boy, while on my vacation, and have been going with him ever since. We are now going steady. He tells me he has no desire to go with other girls, and I feel the same way.

When I am with him I love him, love him dearly, but when I am away from him I have a feeling that I don't care if I ever see him again, but if he happens to be 5 minutes late for a "date" I almost go crazy. Can real love be like that?

Several times he has spoken of marriage. He is from another State. I know nothing of his past life or family but what he tells me. He has met my family and knows all there is to know about them. Is this a risk, knowing so little about him?

I have faith in him and trust him. He is good to me and tries to satisfy all my desires. We have never quarreled. He is jealous of the boys that I have known. Often he speaks of them.

He is a very attractive boy, and I am envied wherever I go with him. So far I have always introduced him to all my girl friends with a feeling of security. Without jealously.

Do you believe in going steady in knowing him such a small time, and knowing so little about him. I hope you will be able to give me the advice I need, even if I have not told my story clearly. "WORRIED."

You do not love him, of course. You are attracted to him and might in time develop a considerable attachment. But at present you are merely in the throes of a "rush." Your feeling that you want to know more about his family before forming any ties, even preliminary, is common sense. And when he discusses marriage tell him that you have a long way to go before you reach that stage as you have not even met his people. If his intelligence matches yours he can have absolutely nothing to say against such reasoning. If his reaction indicates that his intelligence does not match yours the discovery would be a fortunate, if not a happy one.

People of any standing do not rush into marriage hit or miss with just any one who proposes the diversion, so have no hesitancy in expressing your views and expectations. A man who wishes to marry a girl should have sufficient intelligence to present his credentials to her parents when he happens to be a stranger to them. For him to fail to do so suggests that his background may not have been quite what you hope. Certainly, he should speedily know that you expect to know all about the family you annex in marriage.

As to the rest, time will tell. At present you are flushed at a more pointed devotion than usual. Nothing more. Any other man using the required technique could produce the same or even more pronounced response. Be not deceived. Just take your time and choose your man instead of letting some man choose you!

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Two Killed in Turkey During Election Riot

Istanbul, Turkey, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Two persons were killed and 30 seriously injured at Antalia today during the municipal election as partisans of Fethi Bey's new Liberal party and the People's party clashed.

Numerous fights brought out gendarmes and police, which so infuriated the crowds that the officers were fired upon and stoned. After a captain had been wounded the gendarmerie returned the fire. All of the leaders of Fethi Bey's party in Antalia were arrested.

TWO CAPITAL GIRLS BREAK THEIR TROTHS

Misses Drake and Childress Surprise Social Set by Announcement.

OF PROMINENT FAMILIES

The engagements of two of Washington's most attractive debutantes have been broken for unannounced reasons, it was learned yesterday. The young women, who are prominent members of the Junior League, are Miss Barrine Drake and Miss Charlotte Childress.

Society of the Capital and Eastern cities, where the debutantes were known, was surprised as the news spread yesterday. The weddings of both Miss Childress and Miss Drake had been anticipated as outstanding affairs of the fall and winter season.

Miss Drake was to have married Dr. Charles W. Bowers, of New York, this fall, though no date had been scheduled. The engagement was announced last June by Col. and Mrs. Charles B. Drake, of 1909 S street, parents of the young woman.

December 22 had been set as the date for the marriage of Miss Childress to Lieut. Chester Clark Wood, U. S. N., son of Mrs. Charles E. Langley, of Washington, and the late William R. C. Wood, noted Baltimore artist. Several prenuptial parties had been tendered to the bride-to-be and others were planned.

A gifted musician, Miss Drake is a graduate of the Holton Arms School and a former pupil at Miss Irwin's School in Philadelphia. She was popular in New York society as well as in Washington. Dr. Bowers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Petzlbauer, of Vienna and Moedling, Austria. He changed his name upon becoming an American citizen.

Miss Childress, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Childress, of 2200 Twentieth street, made her debut in 1925. She is also a graduate of Holton Arms School.

Lieut. Wood was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1924. He has been taking a post-graduate course at Harvard University after doing duty in the Orient.

While no official announcement was forthcoming, rumor was that Miss Childress and Lieut. Wood dissolved their engagement when they discovered that they were of opposing temperaments. The engagement in August was likewise a surprise in social circles.

American suspicion that we are a nation of braggarts and bullies."

It was understood Dr. Baron's suggestion that reference to Cuba be deleted from the film would be referred to the Department of Commerce. The motion picture division chief said the department held no mandatory power of the picture industry, but probably would inform the trade that the picture had been found objectionable. He said the usual recipient of such protests was Col. Frederick L. Herron, head of the foreign department of the Hays organization.

William and Mary College Honors Vergil With Pageant

Hundreds of Visitors See 200 Students Depict Aeneas' Trip as Told in Aeneid to Mark Bimillenium Oservance of Poet's Birth.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Before a background of green campus and huge oaks, 200 students of the College of William and Mary in a pageant tonight depicted the visit of Aeneas to hades as told in the sixth book of the great Latin poet Virgil's "Aeneid."

It was the contribution of America's oldest collegiate fraternity, Alpha Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa to the world-wide bimillennium observance of Virgil's birth and anniversary. The pageant was written by Dr. A. P. Wagener, of the faculty, based on John Dryden's English translation.

At times the college campus glowed with the red of the roaring inferno as Aeneas descended into hades, and at intervals became dark in the quiet of the dead as the pageant took an audience, including many distinguished linguists, through the scenes of the epic poem. Outstanding in the cast were Miss Jean Upsall, of Watseka, Ill., as Sibyl; Maurice Berkwitz, of Brookline, Mass., as Aeneas, and Patruchia Clarke, of New Rochelle, N. Y., as Queen Dido.

The pageant tonight came as a climax to a program that began early today with an address, "The Aeneid as a National Poem," by Dr. Charles Knapp, of the ancient languages department of Columbia University.

More than a thousand students and visitors heard Dr. Knapp explain the spiritual as well as intellectual fitness of Virgil for the work of writing the Aeneid.

"Living in the age of Augustus, the most glorified period of imperial Rome, and choosing as his hero Aeneas, the mythical ancestor of the Roman people, Virgil was adapted as the national poet of Rome," Dr. Knapp said. "He was a man born of his own day and generation, but in spirit Virgil lived some thousand years later.

The celebration at the College of William and Mary, the second oldest College in the United States, followed several held at other schools in Virginia. Oscar M. Voorhees, general secretary of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, wrote officers of Alpha Chapter that the William and Mary plans for the observance were the most elaborate coming to his attention.

Alpha Chapter of Phi Betta Kappa was founded here December 5, 1776.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia, charged yesterday that supporters of the Republican candidate for Congress from the Eleventh Georgia District, Henry J. Carswell, had violated Federal laws by soliciting campaign contributions from Federal employes.

Senator Harris called the attention of Attorney General Mitchell to the alleged violation. He said a letter sent by George L. Blossom from Macon soliciting contributions for Mr. Carswell's campaign fund had been addressed to postmasters, rural free delivery carriers and other Government employes. The law prohibits solicitation of contributions from Federal workers. Mr. Carswell is opposing a Democratic incumbent, Representative Lankford.

Pope Will Permit Boris' Marriage

Asks Written Promise That Children Will Be Reared as Roman Catholics.

Vatican City, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI today granted a dispensation permitting the marriage of King Boris III of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna of Italy on the written promise from Boris that any children born of the marriage, without exception, will be baptized and educated as Roman Catholics.

Boris is a member of the Greek Orthodox Church, the Bulgarian state religion, and the constitution of his country says that its king must be of that faith. The Princess Giovanna is known as a stanch and fervent Roman Catholic.

The wedding will take place in Assisi Cathedral October 25 in the lower chapel of the altar of the Madonna of Good Council, near the tomb of the infanta of Savoie, daughter of King Carlo Emmanuel. Mgr. Roncalli, apostolic visitor to Bulgaria, left secretly for Sofia today. It was stated here that Boris also had returned to Bulgaria.

Power Contract For Huge Dam Let

Total Cost for Colorado Project Is Estimated at $1,730,000.

(Associated Press.)

A contract for all the electrical power the Government will use in constructing the huge dam on the Colorado River, which will supply the world's largest reclamation project, has been let to the Southern Sierras Power Co., of Riverside, Calif.

Based on estimated power requirements for construction work, lighting the city to be built for the working forces, pumping water and all other needs, the total cost to the Government will aggregate about $1,730,000.

A transmission line which must be constructed to carry the power to the dam site near Las Vegas, Nev., from power lines at San Bernardino or Victorville, Calif., will be utilized after the project is completed to carry current generated at the dam to California. Its starting point depends on right-of-way.

Easy to look at

BEAUTIFUL and CHARMING! It's an added special quality that makes the beauty of a pretty girl. But she's a natural favorite to begin with. And for the same reason Camels are favorites with the modern crowd. Scientific principles govern their manufacture; but the mildness, the fragrance, the delicate flavor are natural qualities of the tobacco.

There's enjoyment in the smoking of a Camel. Camels go with happy faces . . . a lift of spirits with the opening of every fresh, fragrant pack. For Camel's delightful mildness holds all the natural goodness of choicest tobaccos. Don't confuse it with the flatness or insipidness of "over-treated" cigarettes.

COAST-TO-COAST AIR MAIL SERVICE BEGUN

Ships Take Off at Atlanta, Dallas and Los Angeles; Postal Chief in One.

19 HOURS FLYING TIME

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Giant trimotored transport ships took the air at Los Angeles, Dallas and Atlanta today in inauguration of the regularly scheduled coast to coast air mail and passenger service over the southern route. Four ships flew westward from Atlanta, eastern terminus of the Southern Air Fast Express Co., carrying, among others, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown. From Los Angeles, West Coast terminal of the route, another plane took off with Atlanta as its destination. At Dallas, Tex., the other planes took off in opposite directions, one for Los Angeles and the other for Atlanta. Each carried mail and passengers.

Dallas, lying approximately midway between Atlanta and Los Angeles, will serve as an overnight stop for both east and west bound planes until a portion of the route between Dallas and Los Angeles can be lighted for night flying.

The schedule from coast to coast is nineteen hours actual flying time. The Atlanta-Dallas hop, with intermediate stops, at Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Jackson, Miss.; Shreveport, La., and Fort Worth, Tex., requires seven hours, while the leg from Dallas to Los Angeles will be flown on a schedule of twelve hours. Stops between Dallas and the West Coast terminus are Fort Worth and El Paso, Tex., and Phoenix, Tucson and Douglas, Ariz.

Prominent men flew as passengers in ships from all three control points of the new air line. Passengers on the westward flight from Atlanta, in addition to Postmaster General Brown, included Assistant Postmaster General Glover, Maj. Clarence M. Young, assistant in charge of aviation; Hainer Hainshaw, vice president of the Southern Air Fast Express; Postmaster E. K. Large, of Atlanta; Graham B. Grosvenor, chairman of the board of the aviation corporation; Elinor Smith and Ruth Nichols, noted girl fliers; Thomas Doe, president of Eastern Air Transport, and newspaper men.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Two deputy sheriffs were indicted today on charges of first degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. Thelma Wooten, 24-year-old mother, fatally wounded as officers fired on an automobile they suspected of running liquor.

The deputies, T. H. Sullivan and C. C. Lane, have been held here without bond since the slaying August 28.

Lane surrendered after the shooting and said he fired into the ground as the automobile passed. Sullivan also surrendered, admitting shooting at the car, but declaring he believed it a liquor runner and that the driver tried to run over him. Mrs. Wooten died several days after the shooting.

MILLS ACT ON NIGHT WORK BY CHILDREN

MARCH 1 IS DATE SET

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Action was taken today virtually insuring elimination by March 1 next of night work for minors under 18 and for all women in most of the country's cotton textile mills.

Delegates to the fifth annual convention of the Cotton Textile Institute, which represents the majority of both Southern and Northern mills, today unanimously approved a document presented by the directors in which it was agreed to eliminate such night work provided a progressive acceptance of such a policy could be obtained in the industry as a whole.

As the institute already had approval of the plan from mills operating 20,000,000 spindles, it was the opinion of the delegates that there would be no serious opposition and the plan would go into effect on or before the date set.

The document, signed by the 125 delegates today, called for acceptance of the elimination policy by 75 per cent of the spindles in the whole industry the first year, 80 per cent the second year and 85 per cent the third year and thereafter.

The night employment of minors under 18 and of women of any age was referred to as a legacy from the emergency wartime period and it was unanimously agreed that the time had come to end it.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the institute after the convention proper was adjourned all officers were reelected, and Nathaniel F. Ayre, of Boston, and Donald Comer, of Birmingham, Ala., were added to the executive committee.

San Francisco, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Douglas Mac Arthur, recently designated Chief of Staff of the United States Army, arrived from the Philippine Islands today. Gen. MacArthur is en route to Washington, D. C., where he will succeed Gen. Charles P. Summerall, with the rank of full general.

SUPPORT OF SUGAR PROGRAM IS URGED

President Machado of Cuba Asks Growers to Aid Bonds' Issuance.

SAYS SITUATION ACUTE

Havana, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—In a proclamation to the sugar growers of Cuba, President Machado today asked full cooperation with the plan recently submitted by Thomas L. Chadbourne, chairman of the Cuban-American sugar committee. The plan provides fo rthe disposition of an estimated sugar surplus of 1,500,000 tons which will be carried over into next season.

It calls for the retirement from the market of this carry-over for five years, and the issuance of government bonds to cover purchase. The plan had previously received the private sanction of the president.

Stating that the present situation in sugar was "acute" and that "drastic action" was necessary, the executive declared his faith in the "patriotism of producers and the good will of foreign interests" to make the segregation of the carry-over possible.

Members of Committee.

The Cuban-American committee consists of Walter S. Bartlett, William C. Douglas, Charles Hayden, Jacinto Pedroso, Ricardo Cevera Falla, Jose M. Gomezbena, Jose M. Lopez Ona, John R. Simpton, with Mr. Chadbourne as chairman. It was organized to supervise consummation of the plan, and has received the official approval of the president.

This committee will seek to dispose of the segregated sugar "in an orderly manner" during the next five years. New markets and new uses for sugar will be sought during this time.

Concerning the financing of the plan, President Machado's proclamation said:

"In paymnet for the sugar contributed by present owners, the latter shall receive bonds which shall be issued by this government at the rate of $4 per bag, f. o. b.

Secured by Sugar Delivered.

"The bonds shall be guaranteed by the good faith of the government and secured by the sugar delivered as well as by a tax to be put upon future crops."

To sell the bonds at an advantageous price, the president set forth that the government may order the bonds to be deposited in a bank of international responsibility which shall hold them as fiduciary for a period of not exceeding one year.

During this period, if financial conditions permit, part or all of the bonds shall be placed on the market. Sugar contributors, in this event, shall receive deposit receipts which will entitle them at the end of the year to a prorated cash return from the funds received through the sale of the bonds.

Continuance Ordered In Shoplifting Charge

Continuance of the case for a week was ordered yesterday by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court, pending investigation of the story of a woman who gave her name as Anna Corkran, third street northwest, arresting by 63 years old, of O street near Thirty-Policewoman Cecelia Clarke at a downtown department store on a charge of shoplifting.

The woman is accused of taking several small articles but when arraigned before Judge McMahon and questioned as to her mode of living she is alleged to have said she lived "on the interest of her money." She was unable to state how much money she had, however. Authorities are checking the story and the woman is out on bond.

Well on Virginia Farm Yields Legal Gasoline

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 15.—Specimens of gasoline taken from a well on the farm of Lonnie Burwell, a Negro in Caswell County, were submitted to chemical tests in the city health office yesterday. Danville has an ordinance which requires all incoming gasoline to be tested for its purity through a distillization test.

The fluid taken from the well tested above the minimum requirements, or 96.50 pure. After the test had been made a specimen of a widely marketed refined gas was tested and showed 97 per cent.

INJUNCTION AGAINST STRIKERS SUSTAINED

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 15.—Under the Virginia bill of rights every one has the right to use his property as he sees fit. This was the kernel of a decision handed down today by Judge James L. McLemore, of Suffolk, sitting at Chatham, in sustaining the injunction issued two weeks ago by Judge Turner Clement preventing textile strike pickets from barring free entry to the cotton mills.

The decision came after counsel for the United Textile Workers had pressed a cross-bill to the injunction asking that it be dismissed. Many depositions were read before the court. M. K. Harris, appearing for the cotton mills, read more than a hundred affidavits by workers, who said they were forcibly prevented from entering the mills. H. T. Williams and Miss Ida Mandle, appearing for the textile workers, offered affidavits aiming to refute those of the cotton mills.

Judge McLemore said he was unable to understand why the union was seeking dissolution of the injunction.

Mass demonstrations of marked bitterness continued at the mill gates again today. Mill pickets have adopted a form of "yelping" in unison in addition to derogatory statements. One strikebreaker is reported to have kicked a girl picket who was taunting him as he entered a mill in North Danville. Lee Wagner, who went to work yesterday, reported to the police shortly before last midnight that rocks were being thrown at his house. The marauders disappeared when the police arrived.

It was estimated today that between 300 and 400 workers entered the mill gates today, the largest number since the strike began. Union checkers, who claim to have taken the names, said that 30 of them were union members.

Mrs. Roxie Dodson and Miss Jessie Montgomery, of the local union headquarters, left today for Philadelphia and New England towns to appeal for donations to the strike fund and to present the strike through union eyes.

Spain Will Seek To Bolster Peseta

Falling Exchange Rate Comes to Fore as Strikes Subside.

Madrid, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—With strikes apparently subsiding over the country, the government today turned its attention to solving the problem of the steady fall of the peseta, which is slowing up business generally. The peseta closed today at 10.42 to the dollar and 50.60 to the English pound. Normally it should run at a little more than 8 to the dollar.

A cabinet meeting will be held tomorrow and it is expected that the present situation will receive mush study. The banks meanwhile are folfort to prevent speculation.

The director of public safety stated today that the government regarded the strikes in Malaga, Seville, Murcia and Lalinea as virtually ended and viewed the entire labor situation optimistically.

Knights Templar Hold Field Day

Broening Addresses Members After Annual Drills at Rockville, Md.

Maryland Knights Templar of the Third Division yesterday held their fifth annual field day at Rockville, Md.

The day's events began with a parade of the beplumed and caparisoned knights from the Masonic Hall to Welsh Field, where a review and exhibition drills were held. Among the reviewers were Grand Commander Joseph H. Milans, of the District of Columbia, and Grand Commander Albert Naeny, of Maryland, and by Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore, Republican candidate for Governor of Maryland.

Following the drills, the knights were addressed by Mayor Broening. After a supper served by the Eastern Star, the division commanders' ball was held in the Rockville High School. Judge Robert B. Peter, of Rockville, made the address of welcome, and the two grand commanders addressed the gathering.

SLAYING CONFESSED BY FORMER CONVICT

Tells Police How He Choked Girl Lured From Home by Promise of Work.

INDICTED FOR MURDER

Kansas City, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Paul H. Kauffman, 31-year-old former convict, confessed to police today that he killed Avis Woolery, 17, in Swope Park here last August 17, after luring the girl from her home at Webb City, Mo., with a false promise to employ her as a nurse-maid.

Kauffman admitted he strangled her to death and buried the body in a pit from which a tree had been removed, where human bones with a pair of women's hose bound around the neck were found in a shallow grave last Sunday.

Kauffman, who was held in jail under a two-year sentence for seduction of another girl, 15 years old, said he met Miss Woolery at the union station when she arrived August 17 in response to newspaper advertisements and correspondence with him.

He said he was intoxicated and told her he had wrecked his motor car the previous night and that they would have to walk part of the way to the home of his mother.

Kauffman said he had informed the girl that she would be given a job caring for a young child at his mother's home.

They then went by street car to Swope Park, his confession continues, and stopped to rest near the park nursery, where the bones later were found.

As they sat on the grass, he said, she resisted his advances and he strangled the girl with his elbow pressed against her neck.

According to his confession, Kauffman then stripped off her clothing, knotted the girl's hose around her neck, buried the body and threw away her suitcase and clothing.

A county grand jury this afternoon indicted Kauffman for first degree murder. He said he desired to plead guilty. A hearing will be held tomorrow.

Rock Creek Park Trees Show Harmony in Color

Every one with an eye for color harmony is urged by the office of public parks and parkings not to fail to pay an early visit to Rock Creek Park.

Almost the entire range of the spectrum is represented in the turning foliage of the 50 or more varieties of trees in the park, from the palest gold of oaks and the silver of poplars, to the brilliant green of pines and the flaming red of maples.

so I. Miller dulls

shoes with monograining and water-marking

Dullness is the vogue. All femininity has declared for it. Every formal function requires it . . . But like every other vogue, there are correct and incorrect ways of affecting it

Dullness, true dullness — dullness with an intrigue — can only be enjoyed as I. Miller expresses it in his Black Silk array — with monograined and water-marked failles and moirés. All lustre is subdued in the weave — and the slipper complements the gown (be it crepe, lace, chiffon or lame) in heretofore unattainable exactness — in beauty, in grace, in charm.

Dullness? Fashion had no idea she could be taken so literally!

FRESHMEN TRAMPLE G. U. VARSITY, DIMMING HOPES

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Mr. W. W. Roper, the Princeton football coach, has disapproved football-by-lamplight on the ground that the game becomes hippodrome when it is played at night, but I am afraid it is several years too late to avoid hippodroming the "varsity contests," even by the light of day.

The time to have thought of that was when the big stadiums were building at schools which, in some cases, had no legitimate need of such arenas unless they were intending to go into the show business and appeal to the public for patronage, like the Garden Corporation and the major league baseball firms. Mr. Roper, who is one of the last of the romanticists in football, should have left his apprehensions at the time when the office of the graduate manager was changing from a casual, part-time job to that of a salesman, a bargain-hunter, a showman and a magnate, and he must realize that whether the games are played by day or by night the glamour is now waning in proportion to the increase in magnitude.

Big Games for All, Nowadays.

Where, a few years ago, a few schools met year after year in big games, which were developing some of the charm of antiquity, there are nowadays big games for all. The new big games have been produced by forced growth, and to force their growth the colleges concerned have resorted to familiar processes of ballyhoo, including canned newspaper copy, prepared by press agents and differing from the prize fight publicity sent out by the Garden Corporation only in its subject matter. The situation calls to mind the complaint of an acquaintance of mine who was a nut on the subject of Socialism, one time, as the world series was about to begin.

"Now under Socialism," said he with a smile of that sad pity which the nut Socialist bestows upon fellow slaves of the system who are blind because they will not see, "now, under Socialism, instead of there being just one world series there would be a world series in every town."

Football, except as to a few games, has become a competition for customers and, while this may be denied specifically, I don't think the graduate managers will deny that they generally try to book games years in advance with those opponents who will draw the most money on their big dates. Earlier in the season, of course, it is considered advisable to book games with opponents who are incapable of serious resistance so that the boys will get away with that victorious feeling and the customers will get into the habit of thinking of the team as a great scoring machine.

Amusement Industry Claims Game.

I would not contend that this is a deplorable thing because commercial success is highly esteemed and is a prerequisite of social success as will be readily perceived in Palm Beach and Newport. Even artists are judged by the amount of money they command for their performances, writings, paintings, yodelings and whatnot.

When gate receipts become a consideration in the conduct of "varsity football," the game automatically became a department of the amusement industry and many ingenious little affections have been devised to promote the customer interest in various teams. And it might be added that the customers have responded generously in good times and bad, indicating that they do not insist upon tradition or romance provided they be entertained with music, marching, excitement and football.

The players are made the objects of sympathy from time to time on the ground that the responsibility imposed by all this importance is disproportionate to their years and incompatible with the enjoyment of football as sport. But I believe the majority of the young men who go out for football do so at the prompting of the heroic urge. Acclaim is the coin that heroes are paid in, so the greater the crowd the better the wage for the youth who intercepts the pass to score the touchdown.

Tipping Service Latest Idea.

It will take a long time to show what the upshot of all this will be. I have lately received a letter from a gentleman in a Southern town who would like to subscribe to a tip service covering the major football games this season, the first time to my knowledge that the ancient and disreputable horse track business of touting or selecting possible winners has been proposed in connection with football. At first I thought the gentleman must be merely a fan and curious to know the consensus of the experts, but on second thought it occurs to me that he probably wishes to do some systematic betting on the game. Perhaps this, too, is bound to come.

Mr. Roper is a trifle late in discerning a tendency to hippodrome the game, which, of itself, does not command large interest as shown by the sparse and casual attendance at the numerous interclass games which are played at the colleges every season. But the hippodrome in football only suggests the nation's love of hippo-

Helen Hicks Brilliant in Tourney

Card 6 Under Par in Victory Over Miss Lee, 8 Up and 7.

2 Former National Champions Beaten; 8 Players Survive.

By RUSSEL J. NEWLAND.

LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB, Los Angeles, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Matching the rolling fairways and fast greens of this course with one of the most brilliant rounds ever stroked in feminine competition, Miss Helen Hicks, of Inwood, N. Y., claimed the spotlight in the second round of the women's amateur golf championship today. The round saw the elimination of two former title holders.

The 19-year-old star whose advance has been sensational, defeated Miss Barbara Lee, of Oakland, 8 and 7, and in doing so, toured the eleven holes necessary to win 6 under par. She posted a 36, 3 under women's par and 1 under standard figures for men on the first nine.

Six up at the turn, she won the tenth with a birdie 4 and annexed a sparkling an eagle 2 on the eleventh. The last hole finish furnished a fitting climax for the large gallery that thrilled to her long shots and keen putting from the first tee. As nonchalantly as though on a practice round, she stepped up to the tee and whaled the ball 222 yards, to within 3 feet of the pin. Her rival's birdie 3 was good, but not good enough.

Glenna Collett Off Her Game.

The defending champion, Glenna Collett, was off her game, but not enough to effect her status as a contender. She defeated Miss Helen Lawson, of Los Angeles, 5 and 3, after having held even on the first nine. Each made the turn in 43. The New York girl, seeking her fifth national title, stepped out to win the tenth with a birdie 4 and sent an eagle 2 whistling into the cup to win the eleventh. She had no trouble from then on.

Two former champions, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, and Miss Marion Hollins, of Santa Cruz, bowed to youthful opponents.

Mrs. Hurd was defeated by Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., 2 and 1. When Mrs. Hurd, then Dorothy Campbell, won her first title 21 years ago Miss Orcutt was 2 years old. Miss Orcutt was 4 up at the turn, shooting a 40 to Mrs. Hurd's 45.

Mrs. Hurd Stages Game Battle.

She went 5 up by winning the tenth, but Mrs. Hurd came back strong to capture three holes.

Miss Hollins, champion in 1921, lost to Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, 3 and 2. The Chicago miss had a battle for the first half of the match and was 1 up as they started the incoming stretch. She had a 40 to Miss Hollins' 41.

The medalist, Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, disposed of Mrs. Brent Potter, of San Jose, Calif., 4 and 3. She had a 40 to Mrs. Potter's 41 for the first nine, finishing it 1 up. Mrs. Potter faltered on the second nine while Mrs. Hill continued to add to her lead.

Taking the lead at the second hole, Mrs. Leona Pressler, of San Gabriel, Calif., runner-up in the national last year, was never pressed and easily removed Miss Hermione Wocker, of Burlingame, Calif., 5 and 4. Mrs. Pressler had a 39 for the outgoing trip and a 2 up lead over her opponent, who took a 42.

Mrs. Green Winner By 6 and 4.

Mrs. Roy Green, of Culver City, Calif., defeated Mrs. Gregg Lifur, of Los Angeles, former California champion, 6 and 4.

The eighth match saw Miss Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, N. Y., beat out Mrs. Harley Higbie, of Detroit, 3 and 2. Miss Hicks will oppose Mrs. Pressler in quarter-finals tomorrow, with the former favored on the strength of her play to date. Another outstanding match will pit Mrs. Hill against Miss Orcutt. The defending champion, Miss Collett, is not expected to find strong opposition in Miss Wattles, although the latter's game today was superior.

Tomorrow's quarter-final pairings:
Mrs. Hill vs. Miss Orcutt.
Miss Van Wie vs. Mrs. Green.
Miss Hicks vs. Mrs. Pressler.
Miss Collett v. Miss Wattles.

SECOND ROUND.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, defeated Mrs. Brent Potter, San Jose, Calif., 4 and 3.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., defeated Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, Philadelphia, 2 and 1.

Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, defeated Miss Marion Hollins, Santa Cruz, Calif., 3 and 2.

Mrs. Roy Green, Culver City, Calif., defeated Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Los Angeles, 6 and 4.

Miss Helen Hicks, Inwood, N. Y., defeated Miss Barbara Lee, Oakland, 8 and 7.

Mrs. Leona Pressler, San Gabriel, Calif., defeated Miss Hermione Wocker, Burlingame, Calif., 5 and 4.

Miss Glenna Collett, New York City, defeated Miss Helen Lawson, Los Angeles, 5 and 3.

Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, defeated Mrs. Harley Higbie, Detroit, 3 and 2.

ON EASTERN GRIDIRONS

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, told his marauding Maroons today they would encounter stiffer opposition from Michigan State at East Lansing Saturday than he expected in any other game of the schedule. Having said that, he immediately plunged them into an hour of defensive scrimmage against the Notre Dame shift plays used by the Spartans.

Dobie Has Praise For Cornell.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—"Gloomy Gil" Dobie unlimbered a few words of praise for the Cornell team today after its final scrimmage in preparation for the Princeton game.

"We have a fair Cornell team this year," he said. "We are regarding our game with Princeton as a tough assignment and we expect to put up a battle."

Army Given Drill With Wet Ball.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—A rainy afternoon gave Maj. Ralph Sasse an excellent opportunity to test the ability of the Army back field in handling a wet ball in the final scrimmage session before the Harvard game. Army's squad of 36 players will leave tomorrow for Newtonville, Mass.

Pitt Breaks Up Syracuse Plays.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Mike Milligan will take Hart Morris' place at guard next Saturday, when the University of Pittsburgh football team encounters Syracuse at Syracuse. Morris came out of the Western Reserve game with a bruised shoulder and will not be back in shape by the week-end. The team had a long drill today in breaking up Syracuse plays as run off by freshmen.

Carnegie Driven for Notre Dame Game.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The plaid squad of Carnegie Tech today ended its hard work for the Notre Dame game. The players were kept hard at work for more than two hours and the coaches plan just enough work tomorrow to maintain the fine edge to which they have brought the performers. John Karcis, burly full back, who has been weighing around 204, has been permitted to take on a little weight this week and will likely face the Irish at 209 or 210.

Syracuse Emphasizes Punting.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—An intensive drill aimed at improving the quality of the punting was the order of the day here as Syracuse's Orange football squad prepared for the Saturday game with Pitt. A snappy signal practice, with Pitt plays being used, formed the balance of the two-hour program.

Holy Cross Practices 2 Hours in Rain.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Holy Cross varsity football squad worked for more than two hours in a driving rain today as they continued their rush to complete preparations for Saturday's objective clash with Fordham's big and unbeaten eleven here. A rugged line scrimmage against Fordham plays and a snappy signal practice were the program.

Columbia Will Drill On Harvard Field.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Coach Lou Little gave his first and second Columbia teams a long drill against the freshman squad today in preparation for Dartmouth Saturday at Hanover, N. H. The Columbia squad will have a short drill on Harvard's field at Cambridge Friday morning. The field was wet today, but Little put his men through a long session of individual work, regardless.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Coach Jackson Cannell kept the Dartmouth football squad working throughout a drizzling rain today and did not release the members until it was too dark to see the ball. The varsity faced a picked group of players trained in Columbia plays.

Penn Coach Requests Grass Be Cut.

Philadelphia, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Coach Wray, head football coach at Pennsylvania, expressed gratification for two reasons today. His squad, which plays Wisconsin at Madison Saturday, worked out in snappy fashion, and word came that the long grass at Camp Randall Field would be cut before the battle.

A Penn scout returned from Madison this week with a sample of the grass and Wray immediately asked the Badger mentors in a polite way to get out the lawnmower. He prefers closely cropped turf for his speedy backs.

Stevens Experiments With Yale Backs.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 15 (A.P.). Coach Mal Stevens was forced to experiment with some new back field combinations today when it was announced that McLennan, starting quarter back on Yale's Varsity Football Team, will not be able to start against Brown next Saturday.

Lindenberg, regular left end, also will be unable to start against Brown. Both he and McLennan suffered twisted ankles in the Georgia game.

Muhlfield, injured in last Saturday's game returned today and was assigned to his regular berth as full back.

Night Games Brutal, Says Bill Roper

Permanent Injuries Likely, Princeton Coach Declares.

Spring Drills, Stars' Publicity Also Are Flayed as Evils.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—In the opinion of Bill Roper, Princeton's football coach, intercollegiate football should return to the status of a "boy's game played by boys in a boy's way."

"Overemphasis will kill the game in a few years," Roper said today in an address to sports writers of New York and Philadelphia. Three ways in which the Tiger mentor believes football is being overemphasized are spring practices, night games and publicity for individual stars, he went on to explain.

Roper pointed out that the decline in the interest in college baseball in recent years may be traced to spring football practice.

"Football should be a virile game played in the fall and not an all-year round business," he said.

Permanent Injuries Risked at Night.

"Night football is brutal and outrageous and is likely to result in serious permanent injuries to the players," Roper went on. "It puts them under serious eye-strain and revolutionizes their whole college program. It necessitates practice at night and this interferes with the players' meals and with their sleep at night."

The Princeton coach criticized the amount of publicity which is given individual stars, saying it was greater than that accorded to Mussolini or to United States senators.

"The result is to give the players a dwarfed perspective which handicaps them all through life," he said.

James, New Sensation, On 5 Kentucky Winners

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—In the most brilliant exhibition of reinsmanship of his short, but sensational turf career, Eugene James, 17-year-old Louisville boy, today rode five winners, four in succession, at Churchill Downs.

The five triumphs boosted his list for the year to 77, the first of which was registered July 11 at the Latonia, Ky., summer meeting. James tried desperately to sweep the card today, but failed in the second and seventh races. Here is the erstwhile Louisville newsboy's string of victories today with the price paid by each in the mutuels:

First race, Kenashaw, $24.24. Third, race, Overlay, $6.80. Fourth race, Fairy Ring, $4.40. Fifth race, Vera C., $19.34. Sixth race, Western Princess, $11.88.

Royalty Sees Ut Majeur Capture Cesarewitch

New Market, England, Oct. 15 (A.P.). The Aga Khan, who heads the list of winning owners this season, added another triumph to his long list today as Ut Majeur won the classic Cesarewitch Stakes in a canter from a field of 28 of the best thoroughbreds the English turf could muster.

With the king and queen, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George looking on the Aga Khan's great runner sped over the 2¼ miles in the fast time of 3:54 1-5. Back of the fast-stepping Ut Majeur trailed J. B. Joel's Friendship in second place, with Old Orkney, from J. J. Murphy's stable third.

The Cesarewitch, which carried a purse of $5,000 and extras to the winner, has ranked as the leading autumn feature of the English turf since 1839.

Loughran and Stribling In Bout November 3

Minneapolis, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, former world's light-heavyweight champion, has been matched to fight Young Stribling in Philadelphia November 3, Joe Smith, Loughran's manager, said today.

Philadelphia, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Pete Tyrell, matchmaker for the arena promoters here, said today that he had Tommy Loughran's consent to a bout with Young Stribling here November 3, but had not signed up Stribling. Tyrell said he expects to see Stribling in a few days.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Pa Stribling, father and manager of W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon boxer, announced here today that the ten-round bout between his son and Arthur Dekuh in Atlanta had been postponed from November 3 to the afternoon of November 11.

The bout will be held in Spiller Park, home of the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association. Stribling will meet K. O. Christner in Newark and Bud Gorman in St. Louis before the Dekuh bout here.

W. Maryland Plays Score 4 Goals

Yearlings Run Wild in Routing Regulars 3 Days Before Game.

Kamora, Guard, Is Hurt; Severe Blow to Mills' Line.

THREE days before the game with Western Maryland, things at Georgetown University are enveloped in a gloom that offers little prospect of victory.

As the afternoon wore on at Griffith Stadium yesterday, where Coach Tom Mills had his varsity out for a scrimmage against the Freshman Team equipped with Western Maryland plays, there was nothing to enthuse about and very much to deplore.

For the Freshmen, just a few months removed from prep and high school gridiron, romped through the haughty varsity team for four legitimate touchdowns, plowed through the varsity line, skirted the varsity end, blocked the varsity scoring attempts and completely outclassed the team that will carry Georgetown's hopes in Baltimore Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Kamora Carried From Field.

The Freshmen, in short, raised havoc with Georgetown's team, as well as its hopes for victory Saturday, for in the long scrimmage that was held the yearlings struck a paralyzing blow in the injury to Mike Kamora, the last-remaining right guard who was available for the game Saturday. Kamora was carried from the field with a badly wrenched knee that precludes every possibility of his appearance in the line-up Saturday.

Kamora is the third of Mills' right guards to be removed from the line-up by injury—Charley Brickman, the regular right guard, may be out for the season with a broken arm and Aurel Tremblay, his substitute, is idle with a badly sprained ankle and has not been on the field since the West Virginia Wesleyan game last Friday.

Faced with a scarcity of line material from the start of the season, the loss of Kamora adds heavily to Coach Mills' woes, and they were plenty last night as he recounted the disappointing showing of his team against the Freshmen. Mills vouchsafed only that Georgetown had a fighting chance to beat Western Maryland.

Bradley, at full back, and Gellis, left half, were the heroes of the Freshman Team that used the Western Maryland plays to such good advantage. Featuring the tail-back offense, the Freshmen backs were shaken loose for numerous long runs and twice were called back after touchdowns that proved illegal.

Although the back field that Mills sometimes classes as his regular quartet was in the game, five of his cast of ball carriers were missing from the scrimmage nursing injuries that threaten their absence from the game Saturday.

Emil Bozek, Leroy Bordeau, Phil Mooney, Ed Leary and Joe Alenty saw no action yesterday, and Bill Mazzees, a regular, suffered a cut lip that required two stitches.

Mills' pessimism, preminent since the start of the season, and occasioned chiefly by the lack of line material, was not affected by the 67-12 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan last Saturday. "We had men in there scoring touchdowns in the last half who hardly knew the

Two Capital Youths With St. John's Will Oppose Maryland U.

MacCartee Is Ace of Back Field; Cassassa Also Plays.

TWO Washington boys, Paul Cassassa, who used to cavort for Central, and Bob MacCartee, who formerly shone for Tech, are among the football stalwarts now at St. John's College of Annapolis which will try its durndest to upset Maryland at College Park Saturday.

MacCartee is the Albie Booth of the St. John's team. He doesn't get into the opening line-up but is saved until the rival players begin to tire and he can make the most of his great speed. He has proved a great asset to Coach Todie Riggs, of the Johnnies, in that role.

Cassassa May Not Start.

Cassassa may or may not start, but he, too, is sure to be seen in action some time during the contest. He is not as fast as MacCartee but is not slow by any means and is a good all-around performer.

Despite MacCartee's fleetness and cleverness, Maryland is not worrying so much about him as it is about St. John's passing attack, which threatened to net a score in the scoreless first half of the game with Western Maryland in Baltimore last Friday. St. John's has a great passer in Willis Lynch and plenty of boys who know how to catch the pigskin.

But while Maryland will have to be on the alert for the St. John's aerials, the Johnnies themselves will have to be pretty much on the job to stop the Chalmers-Berger combination and other pass receivers on the Old Line Eleven.

Byrd's Varsity Drills Light.

Coach Curley Byrd continued yesterday to let the second and third teams do the real toiling while he took the first varsity eleven in tow for polishing up purposes and that program will hold for today. All will get just a light drill Friday.

St. John's rooters figuring their team has a bright chance to beat the Old Liners, will flock to College Park Saturday. Maryland's backers also will be out in force, so that Byrd Stadium is expected to be well filled.

Rockne Sees Defeat By Nine Touchdowns

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—After watching his Notre Dame regulars vainly attempt to stop Carnegie Tech plays in scrimmage today, Knute Rockne tossed up his hands in despair and predicted the Tartars would win by "eight or nine touchdowns."

Rockne's original prediction was a Tartar victor by "two or three touchdowns."

Against the Tartar plays, the Notre Dame regulars looked pitifully weak today.

Former Northwestern, Notre Dame Stars Play

Chicago, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Notre Dame and Northwestern football stars of other years will meet on Soldier Field Thanksgiving Day, in a curtain-raiser contest to the Oregon State-West Virginia Shriners' hospital benefit game.

Tim Lowrey, Northwestern captain in 1925, has collected together Waldo Fisher, Hank Finkler, Bill Calderwood, Skeets Wieman, Rus Bergherm, Yatz Levison and Heinie Anderson, former Wildcat stars, for the game. Coach Knute Rockne will select an all-Notre Dame eleven.

Hoover Hopes to See Two Football Games

President Hoover may witness two football games, the ones between the Navy and Princeton, and Yale and Harvard. He wants to make these outings part of his deferred vacation. He likes football as a diversion, and believes that he would enjoy the contests at Princeton, October 25, and New Haven, November 22.

The President announced several days ago that he would not leave Washington any more soon unless he decided to attend the football games. He has made it quite definite that he will witness one of the games mentioned and hopes to see both of them.

Pixlee Juggles G.W. Back Field Line-Up; S. Dakota En Route

Bagranoff, 205-Pound Guard, Shifted to Full Back.

A long scrimmage session against the husky freshmen at Griffith Stadium yesterday put the Colonials in tip-top shape. Coach Pixlee was gratified with the showing of his men, particularly with the development of Bert "Buggs" Bagranoff at full back. The latter is a made-over-guard with a displacement of 205 pounds.

Bagranoff took to his new job like a leaf to the ground in the fall. Possessed of tremendous leg drive, he is the ideal type of driving back. If there isn't a hole there he makes one with his vicious charge. Fearing that Bagranoff might be only an offensive threat, Coach Pixlee then substituted him as the backer-up on defense. And his work in this department shone even brighter than in the other. He appears to size up plays quickly and hits his man quickly, square and hard.

Kriemelmeyer Shifted To Half Back.

Bagranoff's work justified his position as a sure starter tomorrow night, but his sudden elevation to full back does not mean that Otts Kriemelmeyer, Tech High's All-High full back in 1928 and the star in

HITCHCOCK'S ACTOR WINNER OF CHASE AT LAUREL

Adams Pilots 3 Winners On Card

Jockey Scores With Baboo, Erin Queen, Make Believe.

Cawvoge Leads Chase for Mile; Ivory II Runs Second.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15.—Thomas Hitchcock's Actor won the Chevy Chase Steeplechase Handicap today in the last few strides, when he gained enough ground to overcome the lead of Stephen Sanford's Ivory II, which held the place safe from Gracie, by a wide margin. Beelzebub was fourth. Lauf Junge ran through the beacon in the stretch, but E. Christian, who has passed through many spills, was uninjured. Actor paid $9.70. The value to the winner was $5,825.

The racing today was featured by the riding of the young apprentice, Albert Adams, who repeated his stunt of last week by again piloting three winners. Adams began his winning streak on Baboo in the second race. He led all the way. Next he brought home Erin Queen, in front throughout. In his next start he rode Make Believe to victory, beating the favorite, and in the sixth race he was second, due to superior riding in the stretch, with Emplette, a long shot.

The Chevy Chase filled the club house with the fashionable devotees of the sport and the result was well received for Riggan McKinney rode the winner and Thomas Hitchcock, the owner, also is very popular. The race was won by superior horsemanship. Ivory II appeared to be a sure winner when McKinney caught A. Pikon napping at the last hedge and passed him.

An English horse, Cawvoge, with much early speed, at 40-to-1, led for more than a mile, when Indigo and Actor caught him and won by 3½ lengths. Ivory II trailed for the first mile, but on the last round of the course, he forged to the front and went into a long lead. The time was nine seconds off the record. Nine horses started. Indigo ran a good race. Gracie closed much ground in the stretch.

Peach Basket Surprises In Maiden Race.

Peach Basket, a fine-looking daughter of My Play and Stepdaughter II, bore the colors of A. C. Schwartz to an easy victory in the first race for 2-year-old maiden fillies. P. H. Fauleoner's Sandals was second and D. C. Sands' Play Bird third. Peach Basket, trained by Max Hirsch and well-ridden by R. Tilden, was overlooked in the betting and paid $22.80 for $2 win. Sandals was $10.20 to place and Play Bird $8.60 to show, and the sharpshooters had a picnic.

Peach Basket broke in front and temporarily lost the lead to Traufey, the second choice, but soon regained command and won by a length and a half. A head separated the second and third horses. Sweet Air ran well Time, 1:13 3-5.

Maryland-bred 2-year-olds made up the field of the second race. The field was fractious, and Baboo, the favorite, delayed the start, but led all the way, A. Adams up, to win by three lengths. A. G. Weston's Dancing Mack was second and Scotch Lass third, four lengths farther back. The time was 1:13 2-5. The winner paid $5.40.

Adams seems to be one of the few jockeys who can make the turn into the stretch when in the lead without going wide. He skimmed the corners on Baboo without losing a yard and was never in danger.

Adams Brings in Make Believe.

Jockey Adams won his third race today when he scored in the fifth with the Lemar Stock Farm's Make Believe, overhauling the favorite, Yankee Doodle, at the sixteenth and drawing away at the end. My Scoop was third.

The longest price of the Laurel meeting was registered today in the seventh race when Caroler, the 6-year-old gelding owned and trained by L. Leith, led from the break and paid a $90.10 mutuel for $2 straight tickets. The winner was $39.80 to place and $19.50 to show. Fair Thorn was second, beaten by a length, and The Whip, a field horse, third.

Breaking fast, Caroler, with Wolverton astride, outran his field to the first turn and drew out to a two-length lead in the back stretch of the mile and one-sixteenth journey. Fair Thorn was always closest in contention and with The Whip, made a three-horse race out of the running, but Caroler always held the latter two safe, although tiring at the finish. Yosan, the favorite, was never a contender.

VIRGINIA ELEVEN KEYED UP FOR V. M. I. SATURDAY

Coaches Look To Motley To Star

Cavaliers Perfecting Attack for Battle at Lexington.

Abell's Players Aim to Sweep Remaining Games Booked.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 15.—Earl Abell, Virginia's head coach, won't need to give the Cavaliers any sort of fight talk before the game with Virginia Military Institute this coming Saturday at Lexington. They are already keyed up for the contest.

Practices this week on Lambeth Field have been spirited affairs. There is a fire of enthusiasm buring within the players. They are out to defeat V. M. I. and Kentucky and all the other teams they play, including North Carolina on Thanksgiving Day. That's just the way they feel. They may not win, but they will give all they have.

The Cavaliers have entirely snapped out of the slump they were in against Duke. Two easy victories had given them a grossly exaggerated notion of their strength and it took a bitter dose to make them realize it. The Pennsylvania game was just what they needed to put them back on their feet.

Motley Saved in Early Drills.

The play of Capt. Motley is having a great deal to do with the revival of gridiron spirit. The coaches saved Motley in early practices and he was not keyed up to do his best against Duke. Motley's performance on Franklin Field last Saturday was so fine as to win a great deal of praise. One sports critic referred to it as "a gripping epic of never say die spirit." The captain was an inspiration to his mates as well as to those who saw him in action.

The Cavaliers are looking forward to the V. M. I. game with the hope that in it they may be able to redeem their reputation. They know it is going to be difficult to defeat the Cadets and for that reason they are not sparing themselves in practice.

Perfection in attack has been stressed in the drills so far, and during the last afternoon the coaches will give attention to defensive play against the Cadets.

V. M. I. Freshmen Work For Charlottesville Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 15.—While the Virginia Military Institute and University of Virginia varsities are drilling for their home-coming day battle on Alumni field here Saturday, four other elevens are getting in trim for curtain raising games. On Friday the Cadet and Cavalier Freshmen will meet at Charlottesville in the first game of the season for both teams, and on Alumni field Saturday morning there will be a preliminary game between Shenandoah Valley Academy, of Winchester, and Virginia Episcopal School, of Lynchburg. The prep school clash will be called at 10:30 a. m., with the varsity game scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

Coaches Sam Heflin and Virgil Grow, of the V. M. I. Freshmen, expect their charges to put up a stout defensive game against the Cavalier yearlings, but are uncertain as to what kind of offense the "rats" will show. In scrimmages against the varsity and scrub teams the Cadet youngsters have proved to be fast charging and aggressive on the defensive, but have been unable to keep their attack working smoothly long enough to score on the old cadets.

Hunters in Star Roles In Maryland Tourney

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 15.—J. Monro Hunter, sr., professional at the Indian Spring Golf Club, hammered his way around the Rolling Road course in one under par today to steal the spotlight at the fifth State handicap tournament of the Maryland State Golf Association.

Hunter began his attack on par with a series of accurate strokes that gave him a 31 at the turn. He bagged birdies on the first, second, sixth and ninth holes, and had par figures for the others. On the second nine he relented a trifle, and was over par on three holes, to finish with a 38.

Not only did he finish first in the pro sweepstakes, but he led all the Class A amateurs in gross scoring, and shared with his son, J. Monro Hunter, jr., the victory in the Am-pro division, tying with Dave Crook and Carroll T. MacMaster, home pair, in 68.

SCORES OF WASHINGTONIANS.

AMATEUR-PRO SWEEPSTAKES—A. T. Utz and George Diffenbaugh (Indian Spring), 76; Charles Mackall and Gene Larkin (Chevy Chase), 74; J. Monro Hunter, jr., and J. Monro Hunter, sr. (Indian Spring), 68; J. V. Brownell (Indian Spring) and Kenneth Allen (unattached), 76.

PRO-SWEEPSTAKES — George Diffenbaugh (Indian Spring), 78; J. Monro Hunter, sr. (Indian Spring), 68; Gene Larkin (Chevy Chase), no card.

V. P. I. Shifts Offensive For Clash With Indians

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 15.—V. P. I.'s eleven is getting ready to spring new offensive stunts on William and Mary in the game at Richmond Saturday.

The Gobblers have a new array of passes all ready for use and are working on new back field formations recently hatched by Coach Orville Neal and his assistants just for the Indian encounter. The scrimmages Tuesday and today tested the new plays and the coaches are confident that Tech's team can click off considerable yardage totals with their new weapons.

The cadets, who come out every afternoon to watch the Gobbler eleven go through its paces, are seeing what they have never seen before—a double shift formation at V. P. I. This formation was the big thing in the scrimmages and was practiced over and over, for the Tech team is sure to use it Saturday. Fith their pass plays, which were all ready for Vanderbilt, but seldom used, the Gobblers now have in hand the most versatile assortment of grondgainers ever dealt out to a Tech eleven on the eve of a game with William and Mary.

NORTHERN PREPS IN DRILL.

The Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road gridiron will be the scene of a Northern Prep practice session scheduled for tonight. Coach Wondrack asks all players to be on hand by 7:30 o'clock.

AIR ATTACK POLISHED BY MIDDIES

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 15.—This afternoon was aviation day for the Naval Academy Football Team. The varsity players who stood the strain of the battle against Notre Dame at South Bend on Saturday have had three days of rest and they were out at practice today with another zip that was highly pleasing to the head Coach Navy Bill Ingram.

As it was, the varsity backs decided that the world has gone "air" crazy. Their long defensive scrimmage was against forward passes and by the same token they were directed to heave aerials while on the offensive. The team did splendidly both on attack and defense and Coach Ingram frequently remarked, "That's much better." The one disappointment angle of today's rather lengthy drill, for the players got upon the field before 4 o'clock and stayed until nearly 6:30 was an injury to Johnson, the guard who was the line star of the conflict with the Irish. It was said that Johnson's injury is not expected to prove serious, however. Davis, a quarter back of promise, who broke his left hand early in the season, was back in togs after a long seige in the hospital although his hand is still in a cast.

Underwood and Gray In Guards.

After Johnson's injury, Underwood and Gray were the guards who took part in a defensive scrimmage against the "B" squad which used Duke plays. The North Carolina "Blue Devils" are not being considered lightly. Bryan and Bowstrom were the tackles, and Black at center. Substitute Ends Steffanides and Greathouse got the call on the flanks, while the regular pair, Byng and Smith, got some demonstrative points from End Coach Paul Moret and Line Coach Rip Miller.

The back field was composed of Dale Bauer at quarter; Tchirgi and Tom Hurley at the halves, and Antrim at full back. This was a shake-up combination.

However, the other varsity backs—namely, Kirn, Gannon, Hagberg, Denny, Toth, Campbell, Major, Konrad, and Binns—were given light skeleton drill under Assistant Mentor Tom Hamilton. Campbell, last year plebe, who passes and runs well, was especially featured in the skeleton workout. It is known that the coaches have begun to cast their gaze at this youngster.

Toth, a fine ball toter, but lacking in defensive ability, has shown improvement this season and may figure prominently in the late games. Gannon, president of the senior class, did some brilliant, accurate passing this afternoon. Navy plans to take to the air in many of its games, and Gannon is expected to prove the field general in such an offensive.

Heavyweight Wrestlers At Stadium Tonight

An all-heavyweight wrestling show will be staged at Griffith Stadium tonight by Joe Turner, local promoter and matchmaker, with a former champion of the world and several other wrestlers of note displaying their wares before District fans. The bouts will get under way at 8:15 o'clock sharp.

The feature attraction of the card will bring together Dick Shikat, of Philadelphia, former world's champion, and Jack Taylor, king of Canadian heavies. The semiwindup will find Mike Romano, Italian, pitting his skill against Chief White Feather, the full-blood Sioux Indian with the deadly chin lock.

Tiny Roebuck, a local favorite, meets Tom Larkoff; Jim McMullen grapples Frank Brunowitz, and Dr. Frank Little will wrestle Oscar Negers in the remaining bouts on the program.

W. & L. SQUAD HOPEFUL OF VICTORY

Generals End Drills Today for Kentucky Fray Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 15.—Tomorrow on Wilson Field here, the Washington and Lee Generals go through their last training maneuver before they entrain in the afternoon for their first Southern Conference grid tilt with the University of Kentucky's Wildcats in Lexington, Ky., this Saturday.

All week, Coach Eugene Oberst and his assistants, W. E. "Bus" Malone, back field coach, and W. E. Hoffman, line coach, have been driving their charges working out the rough spots, polishing the defense and in general getting the attack in perfect trim for the Wildcats. The tackles and guards have had a hard time of it, for the coaches have spent long hours with the linesmen pointing out individual faults spotted in the Mountaineer game. The machine and tackling dummy were brought into use, and improvement was apparent in the scrimmage held yesterday.

Flying Start Aim Of Generals.

Washington and Lee hopes to get away to a flying start against the Wildcats, but even the most optimistic of rooters couldn't help but see the Kentucky has the decided edge in Saturday's game, since the forward wall outweighs that of the Generals and the reserve material of the Kentucky Eleven is far better and more plentiful than that of Washington and Lee. No matter the winner, the losing team will know that they've played a hard game of football Saturday afternoon, if training stunts at both camps are to be considered.

The Skinner Bros. Eagles' baseball season ended officially last night when the players were tendered a banquet at the home of Manager Clipper. Benjamin Skinner congratulated the team on its season's record of 45 victories and 14 defeats.

Wesley McDonald was unanimously elected manager of next year's nine. H. E. Clipper was again elected business manager.

The last and longest young bird race of the National Capital Concourse Association was flown yesterday from Cleveland, Tenn., a distance of 506 miles. "Bad News," carrying the leg band of M. J. Fitzgerald, led the pack home.

Twenty-six lofts entered, but only five birds finished.

The speed in yards per minute of the five finishing pigeons was as follows: Fitzgerald, 707.16; Lyons, 678.11; Woodside loft, 665.86; Foster, 564.17; Turowski, 486.99.

NATIVITYS CANCEL.

The Nativity Hornets are forced to cancel their game with the Whirlwinds scheduled for this afternoon.

ST. STEPHEN'S WORK.

The St. Stephen's will practice tonight at Seventeenth and B streets northwest at 8 o'clock in preparation for their Sunday game against the Brookland A. C.

CLEVER BACK RETURNS TO AMERICAN

"Red" Olsen Will Be in Action Against High Point.

GEORGE "RED" OLSEN, high-stepping firebrand of the American University back field, will return to action Saturday as a starting half back when the Eagles engage High Point College at High Point, N. C.

Olsen has been on the sidelines for four weeks with a broken right hand and his experience as well as his fighting spirit has been missed in the Eagle ball-toting crew. He will take the place left vacant by Fred Johnson, who suffered injuries last Saturday in the Gallaudet game that will keep him on the shelf for the balance of the season. Johnson received a fracture of the ankle and a shoulder dislocation.

Olsen's Return Adds Speed to Attack.

The return of Olsen adds some much-needed speed in the American attack. Lack of speed was noticeable when the Eagles lost to Gallaudet. With the backs slow afoot, the blocking linemen saw their work nullified on several occasions, for the holes they opened in the Blue forward wall were closed up before their own backs could reach them.

Coach Walter Young has received little information about High Point's strength, but he is not worrying unduly and expects his players to make a creditable showing in their first invasion of the South.

The American squad will depart tomorrow morning.

R. J. Walter Appointed ColumbusU.Sports Head

As the first step in their plan to inaugurate basket ball, bowling, rifle, tennis, golf, swimming and other sports for both men and women on a scale hitherto unattempted at Columbus University, officials of the Massachusetts avenue school yesterday named Raymond J. Walter to be the new director of athletics. Walter is the first man ever to hold such a position at Columbus.

Walter is a graduate of Business High School where he was an outstanding star in football, basket ball and baseball. He was also a member of Columbus University basket ball teams for the past several seasons, and has been identified prominently with District sandlot athletics for a number of years, as player, manager and coach.

Walter's first official act in his new capacity was to appoint Tommy Connor, former Business High and Columbus University athlete, to coach the cage team at the university this season.

District Tennis Body Lists Banquet Oct. 21

The fourth annual banquet of the Washington Tennis Association will be held Tuesday evening, October 21, at 7:30. The Columbia Country Club has again been selected as the scene of festivities.

Rankings of the local players will be announced and trophies presented to tournament winners. An informal dance is scheduled after the dinner and speeches.

As in former years the revenue will be $2.50 per plate. An attempt is being made to secure the speaking services of an official of the U. S. L. T. A.

President Winfree Johnson has assigned the following to serve on various committees: Herbert Shepard, chairman; John Ladd, tickets; Lawrence Baker, Louis T. Doyle, Abner Y. Leech, Thomas J. Mangan, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Best, and Miss Margaret Ryan.

Reservations must be made by October 18. Tickets may be purchased at Spaldings or through John Ladd, 4422 Lowell street northwest.

C. U. DRILLING FOR LOYOLA AT NIGHT

Guarnieri Supplants Bertoni at Quarter; Passes Loom.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S FOOTBALL TEAM joins the growing list of those attracted by lighted gridirons when it engages Loyola of Baltimore under the floodlights in Griffith Stadium Saturday night. The Cardinal eleven will be the third local team to play at night, Georgetown and George Washington having preceded it.

In order to accustom his players to night playing conditions as much as possible, Head Coach Dutch Bergman will send them through a two-hour practice session in the stadium tonight. This will be their only workout of such nature prior to meeting Loyola.

The Cards engaged in an offensive scrimmage at Brookland yesterday afternoon with Bergman keeping his hand on the throttle to prevent the action from growing too strenuous. His squad is small and numbers several players with injuries, so he seeks to avoid further weakening of its strength through practice activities.

Loyola Quarter Back Clever Passer.

Loyola, it is reported, has a clever passing attack this season and boasts in Dellaire, quarter back, an expert on the tossing end of its aerials. If this is true, then plenty of passing will be witnessed Saturday night, for Catholic has a fine passer in Johnny Oliver, its half back star.

The Baltimore eleven is the first of its own class that Catholic has faced to date. Boston College, Franklin and Marshall and Holy Cross, all of which have scalped the local club, enjoy a higher ranking.

One change is contemplated in the Catholic U. line-up which affects the quarter back position where Lou Bertoni has been holding forth. Fred Guarnieri, who performed occasionally at full back last year, probably will handle the quarter back duties against Loyola.

Students of Capital Guests of C. U.

In inaugurating what has been declared an annual policy, Catholic University has invited all of the students of local public and private high schools to attend Saturday night's contest as its guests. Presentation at the gates of their school athletic association cards is the only requirement for admission.

Shepherd College Plays Night Game Friday

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Shepherd College's football Team will be given its initial opportunity to perform at night on Friday of this week, it was announced today by Coach John Newcome, who stated that he had transferred the Shepherd-Fairmont Normal game, which was to have been played in Martinsburg on Saturday, to the Blue Ridge League Baseball Park at Hagerstown, Md. The transfer was made to avoid confliction with the Keyser-Martinsburg game, which will have an important bearing on the scholastic championship of the Eastern Panhandle.

Equipoise, Workman Up, Kentucky Stake Favorite

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The eleventh running of the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes for 2-year-olds, which usually determines the winter favorite for the Kentucky Derby of the following year, will be contested at Churchill Downs here tomorrow, and promises to be a race in which the East will vie with the West for honors.

The East seems to hold the strongest bid, with Harry Payne Whitney's Equipoise and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, while the West will rely on R. W. Collins' Don Leon; Back Log, owned by Gallaher & Coombs, and Charmer, from the Rancocas Stable. The stake is over the mile route, $15,000 added.

R. Workman will have the leg up on the favorite, Equipoise, while Carl Kurtzinger, a Louisville boy, will ride Twenty Grand. Elmo Shropshire, of Lexington, Ky., will be in the pilot house on Don Leon, and Eugene James, Louisville newsboy who has been the sensation of Illinois and Kentucky tracks this fall, will ride Back Log.

COLONIALS' LINE-UP SHIFTED BY PIXLEE

George Washington's victory over Delaware last Saturday, will not start. Being versatile, Kriemelmeyer was easily shifted to one of the half-back posts. While the position is new to him, Otts conducted himself like a veteran. He blocked well, carried the ball with all of his old effectiveness and punted exceptionally well.

With this sudden shift in the backfield looming as a certainty, Coach Pixlee has declared he will use Joe Carter at quarter instead of Billy Wells, and keep Lee Carlin at the other half back. Because of his extraordinary ability to pass well, Wells, however, likely will see plenty of action.

Another proposed shift in the Colonial line-up over that of last Saturday is the transferring of Bob Galloway back from end to his old position at right tackle because Lyle Sturdevant has looked so good in the last two scrimmages that he appears to have regained his old position as regular left end. Sturdevant is a fine offensive end and Galloway is more at home at tackle than at end, too.

Hale and Galloway At Tackles.

Barney ("Sheriff") Hale will pair off with Galloway at the other tackle, while Fred Mulvey will be Sturdevant's end mate. The guards will be Zachary Demas and the husky Laz Sommers. The latter replaces Wallace Wilson, who is suffering from a slight Charley horse. The latter is expected to be in shape to play part of tomorrow's game. So is Larry ("Obie") O'Brien, the 230-pound giant tackle. Wayne Chambers will hold down his regular post at center.

The Coyotes, from South Dakota, will average about 190 in the line and 182 in the back field. The Colonials will average about the same in the line, but will be slightly lighter in the back field. The visitors are to arrive tomorrow morning. They will stay at the Willard Hotel and are to visit the President at noon tomorrow. In the afternoon they will hold a final signal drill at the ball park.

Tickets for the game are on sale today downtown at Spalding's and French's sports goods stores and at the ball park. General admission is $1; reserved seats, $1.50.

St. Stephen's, Undaunted, Has High Hopes for Title

Capital City League Champions of 1929 Confident Despite Defeat in Debut; Team Hit by Death of Two.

(The following is the second of a series of articles dealing with the sixteen sandlot elevens entered in The Post's 1930 Capital City League.)

By JOHN V. HINKEL.

IN spite of their 6—0 defeat at the hands of the Marions last Sunday St. Stephen players who last year won the championship in the 150-pound section of the Capital City Football League, are confident yet that they can capture the unlimited class title of the 1930 circuit. Enthusiasm is still at a high pitch among the Churchmen. And Saint followers, which are legion all over Georgetown, see in this enthusiasm an encouraging sign that their favorites are far from being dispirited, and are very much in the running for this season's coveted title.

Manager James Malarkey, after the Marion contest, voiced the sentiment of the whole St. Stephen squad, when he remarked that it will take more than one defeat to put a team out of the pennant race this fall.

The Saints have been represented in Washington sandlot football competition for the last ten years. Back in 1920 Wee Wee Niland, Holly Girton, "Cakey" Cleary, Frank Shore, Johnny Reddington, Charley Warring, Santy Zumbo, Buddie Flanagan, and a number of others got together and organized the St. Stephen's Pee Wees. The same players literally grew up with the club, each year entering a higher weight class until today they are competing in the unlimited division.

Club Reached Peak Last Season.

After finishing second in the same circuit in 1928, the Saints reached their highest peak last season when they won the pennant in the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City Football League. During the 1929 league campaign the Georgetown outfit triumphed over the Marions, Mercurys, Friendships, Brooklands, and Seat Pleasants, and were held to a 0-0 tie by the Mohawk Preps. An outstanding feature of the season's play was the fact that the Seat Pleasant eleven was the only club able to score on St. Stephen's, and that was on a safety.

Several unfortunate "breaks" especially have proved damaging to the Saint cause this year. Billy Garrison, star guard, who was awarded a first-string berth on The Post's 1929 All-Sandlot Team, died of appendicitis last winter. And Jimmy Flanagan, stellar half back from the same championship eleven, was killed in an automobile accident not long ago. Both of these players had been depended on to be the mainstays of this fall's club.

Then Joe Bush, the pilot who coached St. Stephen's to its 1929 title, was forced to resign this fall because he signed to play with the Apaches. And to complete the Churchmen's tale of woe, "Tuck" Dalgish, one of the hardest-running backs in District sandlot football ranks last year, when he starred with the Saints, together with Claggett, another 1929 dependable, have affiliated with other clubs this season.

With Bush's resignation, St. Stephen's was left without a coach until "Tex" Crouch, former Texas A. and M. and Georgetown Freshman luminary, who played with the Churchmen for the first time last year, was prevailed upon to assume the burden. Already in his short association with the club as pilot, Crouch has done a great deal toward molding a creditable team. In this work he has had the whole-hearted cooperation of every man on the squad. So highly is he regarded, that he is one of the main reasons why the Saints still are highly confident that they can repeat their 1929 championshin this year in the heavier division.

Join Forces With National Preps.

Shortly before last season's campaign got under way, the old National Preps and the Saints joined forces. A number of the Preps are performing for the Georgetown team this year, notably Johnny Parrott, Charley Parrott and "Dopey" McMahon, wingmen; Hunner, tackle; and Eddie Nealon and Dick Jones, backs. Cakey Cleary, who held forth with the 1928 Saints, also has returned to resume his old position at tackle.

Four newcomers on the St. Stephen's squad this year are Irving Hutchins, end, and Paul Joray, back, both of the 1929 Aztecs; Pfleiger, who played with the Atlantic Fleet Eleven last season, and Ghilardi.

The following players will represent the Saints in league play this fall: Ends, Johnny Simmonds, "Dopey" McMahon, Charlie Parrott and Irving Hutchins; tackles, "Wee Wee" Niland, "Tex" Crouch, Hummer and Pfleiger; guards, Holly Girton, Cakey Cleary, Frank Shore and Ghilardi; centers, Johnny Reddington and Bee Morse; backs, Charlie Warring, Santo Zumbo, Eddie Nealon, Bumps Walsh, Buddie Flannigan, Dick Jones and Paul Joray.

If fighting spirit means anything toward winning a championship, then the Saints, in spite of their setback last Sunday, are still an important factor to be reckoned with when the 1930 unlimited title finally is decided.

CAPITAL CITY GRID GAMES LISTED

Fields and Officials Named for Program on Sunday.

WITH opening games already played, second round contests in both sections of The Post's 1930 Capital City Football League will be staged next Sunday. Playing fields and officials for these battles were selected last night.

In the unlimited division, Seat Pleasant will journey to Alexandria to play the Alpha Delta Omega Team on Huxton Field; Brookland will clash with St. Stephen's at Boyer Stadium, Seat Pleasant, and the Mercurys will meet the Quentins on the Silver Spring field. Each of these engagements will get under way at 3 o'clock.

Four games in the 150-pound class wil find the Centennials opposing the Wolverines and the Marquettes battling the Del Rays on the Mount Rainier field; the Petworth Pennants staking up against the Columbias on the Silver Spring field, and the Brentwood Hawks meeting Palace-D. G. S. at Boyer Stadium, Seat Pleasant.

Games Scheduled At 1 o'Clock.

With the exception of the Mardfelt-Del Ray contest, which will begin at 3 o'clock, all games in this section will have 1 o'clock kick-offs.

Ed McClure (Georgetown), and Max Farington (George Washington), will officiate at the Brookland-St. Stephen's Brentwood Hawks-Palace D. G. S. encounters, while Ray Stevens (Maryland) and Preston (Alexandria), will have charge of the battle between Seat Pleasant and the Alpha Delta Omega Fraternity. The Mercury-Quentin attraction will have Ray Du-Four (Catholic University), and McDonald (St. Mary's Celtics), as officials, with the former also taking care of the Petworth Pennant-Columbia setto. Ed Stevens (Georgetown) will officiate at the Mardfeldt-Del Ray and Centennial-Wolverine clashes.

All officials are asked to communicate immediately with William Fiester at French's Sport Store, Metropolitan 6764.

Georgia to Play Yale October 10, Next Year

Athens, Ga., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The University of Georgia announced today its football team would play Yale University in New Haven, Conn., on October 10, next year, but would not engage Yale in 1932.

No game was arranged for 1932, it was explained, so that Yale could meet the University of Chicago. The Yale-Georgia series will be resumed in 1933.

Georgia defeated Yale this year to take the third game of the last four played.

G. P. O. COURT TEAMS.

Six basket ball teams from the Government Printing Office will practice tonight at Central High gym, in preparation for the G. P. O. league.

SOCCER PLAY IN SCHOOLS OPENS

Playgrounds Conduct 30 Leagues; Start Games Today.

WASHINGTON'S oldest soccer organization, the Municipal Playground Elementary School League, will start its nineteenth season this week. Interschool and interclass leagues for both junior and senior teams will start play today and tomorrow.

The interschool circuits are divided into seven divisions with junior and senior leagues in each. The divisions are Georgetown, Bloomingdale, Iowa Avenue, Rosedale, Virginia Avenue, Garfield, and New York Avenue. The leagues average about eight teams and, including the interclass games, about 30 circuits are to be operated.

Interclass leagues in the following schools already have been organized: John Burroughs, E. V. Brown, Park View, Tenley, Slater, and H. D. Cooke. Each has at least two leagues and within a few weeks playground officials intend to organize interclass competition in several other buildings.

League Champions Meet in Play-Off.

In the interschool games, champions of each league are selectd first and then the title holders are pitted in city championship tourneys, one for the juniors and one for the seniors. Last year Peabody and Gage Schools battled to a five-game draw, and finally the Playground Department awarded dual championships, as the teams appeared hopelessly deadlocked.

One new school has entered the games this year. It is the John Quincy Adams; and judging from the ability shown in practice sessions, the new club will offer stiff opposition to any of the teams in the senior league at Georgetown, where it will play. George Youngblood is coaching the Adams youngsters.

Playground officials stated yesterday that the loss of the Plaza Field would not in any way interfere with the formation of the Recreation League, as the games would be played on Rosedale, Iowa Avenue, and Takoma Playgrounds. The league is scheduled to start on Saturday, October 25.

Stone Martin Winner In Hawthorne Feature

Chicago, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—R. C. Caldwell's Stone Martin was an easy winner of the Woodridge Handicap, the feature attraction at Hawthorne track today. Kamalli, from El Galivan Rancho Stable, was second, and Don Alvaro, the favorite, from A. A. Baroni's string, was third.

The race was a sprint of 6 furlongs for 2-year-olds and was worth $1,000 to the winner, which ran the distance in 1:13 flat. Stone Martin rewarded his backers at $18.14 to $2 in the mutuels payoff.

Away last, Stone Martin, after improving his position, came very fast through the stretch, and passing the leaders, was up to win easily by two lengths. Kamalli, never far back of the leaders, held on well to take the place money by a length and a half from Don Alvaro. The latter went into a long lead nearing the home turn, but tired in the last furlong, to take third money by a length and a half from Maid of Honor.

ALCORAS TO MEET.

Manager Charles Deuterman, of the Alcora Motor Co. Eleven, has called a meeting for his charges for tonight. The session will be held at the Arlington Fire Department and will start at 7.

WESTERN 32-0 VICTOR OVER WOODWARD

Lynham Runs Sixty Yards; 2 Fumbles Mar First Period.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

EXCEPTING a fumbling start, Western High's 1930 football team was impressive yesterday in its second game of the season when it trampled over Woodward School's eleven, 32 to 0. The free scoring fracas was played on No. 3 gridiron at Potomac Park before about 500 fans.

The Georgetown school was scoreless in the first period, two fumbles in the shadow of the goal posts paving the way, rather than the defensive work of the eventual losers.

Western's backs, Amidon, Cochran, Lynham and Webb, warmed up to their chores shortly after the second period began and treated spectators to a good display of ball carrying. A blocked kick on Woodward's 8-yard line served as an open sesame to the first tally. Webb battered his way across the chalk mark. A moment later he tossed well to Amidon for the extra point.

March Down Field Nets Second Tally.

Amidon, Lynham and Cochran carried the ball from midfield for Western's second touchdown, with Amidon hitting center for the tally. Amidon rushed for the extra point. Cochran's 40-yard gallop and Webb's fine toss to Buscher, adventing Amidon's plunge, accounted for Western's third mark. Woodward was definitely out of the running.

Jackie Lynham, who is fast developing into a brilliant broken field runner, stepped 60 yards to Woodward's 8-yard mark late in the third quarter. Webb hit the line for five yards and Lynham put it across.

Western's last marker was contributed by a 20-yard pass from Webb to Buscher. Webb's passing shone throughout the game.

signals," he said. "The opposition was weak."

Mills ventured the guess that Scalzi would be at quarter back against Western Maryland, Macnes and Daniels at half back, and Gillis at full back, with Johnny Bosek and Dick King, the only two of his other backs in best condition to play.

Bates, Ekaitis Reliances Of West. Maryland Team

Special to The Washington Post.

Westminster, Md., Oct. 15.—With the biggest game of the season only three days off, the Western Maryland College Green Terrors went through the most exhaustive drills today that Dick Harlow has been able to devise. Harlow is priming his heaviest artillery for the fray with Georgetown at Baltimore.

Western Maryland will use everything they have in an effort to stop Georgetown's crack eleven, but the Terrors are probably placing their greatest faith in Capt. Paul Bates and in George Ekaitis, their quarter back. Bates is one of the best ends in the country, having been placed on the all-Eastern eleven and on the all-American second team last year, while George Ekaitis, captain of last year's boxing team, has proven himself one of the best field generals in the State. These two veterans are the bulwarks of the Terror team, and, while younger boys have shown promise this season, Western Maryland is staking its chances for victory next Saturday on such Terrors as these two.

The American temperament enjoys ballyhoo and excitement, and the "varsity football" games even now are still more decorous and spiritual affairs than the uproarious farce of a sermon by the most successful preacher of the generation, the Rev. Billy Sunday, or a presidential nomination at a party convention. Some of the college yells are quite silly, reflecting no credit upon the literary talent of many generations of students whose ultimate in rousing poetic composition consists of "Fight, fight, with all your might" and even such baby-talk tocsins as "Skinny wow-wow." But have you ever listened to a gathering of delegates, alternates and lay-members of one of the great parties performing the solemn duty of selecting the people's choice?

STOCK PRICES MOVE HIGHER IN QUIET DAY

Several Shares Again Loan at Premiums, Causing Wide Discussions.

U. S. STEEL UP 4 POINTS

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Stocks moved quietly today. Tape followers who had believed that yesterday's loaning rates forecast the flight of the shorts were disappointed, for there was no stampede to buy and in only a few instances, notably United States Steel and Westinghouse, did the net gains exceed 3 points. The average rise was about 2.

When the market closed there was again an active borrowing demand and once more a sizable list of stocks, including Steel Common, loaned at premiums. This unusual situation, coming at a time when the pros and cons of short selling are being widely discussed and just after the exchange president's visit at the White House, was itnerpreted in some quararters as meaning that brokerage houses which normally lend stocks had withdrawn them during the excitement last week. In these circles it was pointed out that the scarcity of shares for loaning purposes was probably due to such a cause rather than to a concerted attempt to curtail selling.

The consensus in brokerage house circles was that the current advance in prices represented a technical recovery and that sustained improvement was hardly to be expected until the business skies show further signs of brightening. Considerable encouragement has been derived from the investment demand for prominent shares, however, especially at the recent lows, although there has been no inclination to reach for stocks.

Business News Reassuring.

Business news was moderately reassuring. Steel operations declined—one trade review estimated the decrease at 3 per cent—but the peak of the seasonal demand has passed. The surveys noted that buyers had assumed a cautious attitude, that interest in forward buying had waned and that inventories were again being reduced. The Iron Age composite price for pig iron, heavy melting scrap and finished steel eased to new lows, although the publication Steel asserted that producers were making "The most positive effort in months" to firm quotations.

A gain of 22,111 cars in freight loadings for the week ended October 4, was the largest increase since the last of August; the total was the lowest for the same week since 1922, but represented a loss of 17.6 per cent from the corresponding week of 1929 against the 21 per cent drop shown in the previous report. Larger coal shipments accounted for a substantial part of the improvement.

The expansion in September foreign trade over August was moderate and less than seasonal. Exports were up 6 per cent, while imports rose nearly 5 per cent, due to purchases of raw materials. Not since 1926 had September imports gained over the preceding month.

Reaction Soon Develops.

The stock market's course was somewhat similar to yesterday's, except that there was no violent break at the opening; instead, initial quotations were higher. A reaction from the highs followed promptly, and the market was irregular throughout the earlier hours, swinging into the gradual upturn when the afternoon trading got under way. United States steel closed at its best price, 152¾, up 3⅞ net. Westinghouse, at the final price of 117¾, was up 4¼, and Vanadium gained 4½ on covering stimulated by announcement that the extra dividend had been omitted.

Net advances in other active shares ranged generally from 1 to nearly 3 points. Rails, particularly Atchison, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific and New York Central, firmed. Among the industrials and specialties there were gains of a point or two in Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Case, Gillette, Woolworth and Union Carbide. American Telephone and International Telephone closed more than 2 higher, while General Electric, Montgomery Ward and National Biscuit were up fractionally. General Motors was heavy. Total sales were 2,377,490 shares, about 1,000,000 less than on Tuesday.

Wheat rallied, after early weakness, and closed virtually unchanged on reports of large exports and storms in Canada. Corn eased, losing 1 or 2 cents on the bearish Government weather forecast. Cotton was quiet, 3 to 8 points net higher.

The German mark held steady in a mixed foreign exchange market. Sterling firmed a trifle.

210,000,000 Bushels France's Wheat Crop

Paris, Oct. 15 (A.P.)—The ministry of agriculture today estimated the 1930 wheat crop in France at 210,000,000 bushels as against 315,000,000 bushels for last year.

The department estimates, however, that with the surplus carried over from the preceding crop, added to the 10 per cent which may be imported from foreign markets and the quantity expected from North Africa, France will have sufficient wheat to carry her to the harvest of 1931.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Only a moderate volume of business was reported in cotton here today, but prices were generally higher on relatively steady Liverpool cables, rather larger domestic consumption figures than anticipated and reports of a better tone in the stock market.

After selling at 10.55, early new December contracts reacted to 10.47 and advanced to 10.58 in the later trading, or 13 points net higher. They closed at 10.48, or about 10 points off from the best under realizing and some Southern selling, with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 3 to 8 points.

The opening was steady, 3 to 7 points higher, in response to the steadiness of Liverpool, while there also may have been some buying on the report of the Census Bureau placing domestic consumption for September at 394,321 bales, comparing with 352,335 in August and 545,834 in September last year. These figures were somewhat above expectations, but not sufficiently so apparently to stimulate much buying, and after showing net advances of about 7 to 10 points right after the call, prices eased off under near-month liquidation and realizing.

New October was relatively easy, selling off to 10.23, or 1 point net lower, as if influenced by notices for about 2,000 bales, and other months worked back within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotation. Offerings were absorbed at the decline and the market steadied up during the middle of the day on covering and trade buying in the later months. New October advanced to 10.39 and March to 10.93, making net gains of about 13 to 17 points on this buying, but ran into increased offerings late in the afternoon which seemed to come partly from the South. Closing quotations showed reactions of 6 to 12 points from the best.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau was considered about a standoff and came in for comparatively little comment, but there may have been some buying on apprehensions that the forecast for cooler weather in northwestern sections of the belt might prove the forerunner of a frost threat. Port receipts today, 55,306; U. S. port stocks, 3,166,417. Exports, 40,108, making 1,664,894 so far this season.

SOUTH AMERICANS HEAD BOND RALLY

Several of Group's Issues Rise 2 to 4 Points in Improved Day.

DOMESTIC LIST CLIMBS

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—South American bonds made a substantial rally today. Showing a definite reversal of the trend of the past few weeks, a wide list of issues registered advances and imparted better tone to the entire foreign group.

Domestic bonds moved higher, although modest gains were the rule. Some of the larger advances were in stock privilege issues that move in sympathy with the share market, and bonds that have been depressed by unsettling developments.

The disappearance of liquidation in foreign bonds and the strong upturn of stocks were the principal influences in the marked improvement displayed by the market. The averages showed an advance of one-tenth of a point, the first upward revision in two weeks.

A large offering expected tomorrow is a $30,000,000 note issue of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston, which plans to retire an equal amount of 4½ per cent notes due November 1. The new notes being offered at interest rates that will provide a distinct saving to the company.

Bolivia 7s Rise 10 Points.

The rise in some South American issues in an active market was as sharp as some recent declines. Bolivia 7s of 1969 soared 10 points, Chile 6s of May, 1963, advanced 9¾, and many issues gained 2 to 4 points. Minas Geraes 6½s were about the only active Brazilian issue that failed to advance. Brazil 6½s of 1927-57 gained 7½ points and the 6½s of 1926-57 moved 3½ higher. Sao Paulo state bonds were 4 points higher on an average, and Rio Grande do Sul 8s and 6s gained several points.

The demand for Chilean government's and Mortgage Bank issues was particularly strong, and every active issue scored a vigorous advance. Argentine, Colombian, Peruvian and Uruguayan issues all showed improvement. The rest of the foreign list was firmer. German Governments were steady. Poland 7s were weak, dropping 7 points to 70, a new low, and the 8s yielded 12 points on a few sales.

International Phone Gains.

A sharp upturn in American and Foreign Power 5s and International Telephone and Telegraph bonds, both having extensive interests in South America, was attributed to the strong recovery of Latin American issues. The domestic utility group was generally firm. American Telephone 5s were very active and up ½.

A better inquiry for high grade railroad issues resulted in many small advances. Convertible rails were very active and a majority followed the strong trend of stocks. Chicago and Northwestern 4¾s, A convertible, sold off 3¼ points, and other bonds of the road were weak. Big Four 4½s, Colorado and Southern 4½s A, New York Central 3½s, Erie 5s of 1967 and 1975, and Pennsylvania 4½s were strong.

United States Governments were steady. Most of the activity centered in the Liberty 3½s, which were a shade lower.

The Goofus Mocking Bird

By E. R. Massie, Jr., Clifton Forge, Va.

The Mocking Bird with polka dot hips
Makes her own patterns for princess slips.

She cuts 'em and sews 'em tight at the knees
To save wear and tear in the Goofus trees.

All Goofus Birds sport them with greatest delight
When keeping their dates on a Saturday night,

Though over fat birds have been heard to complain
That the rather tight fit causes them pain!

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The weekly Steel Review reported today that operations had declined during the past week, although they varied as to the extent of the decrease. Iron Age estimated the ratio at 55 per cent of rated capacity, a drop of 3 per cent. Steel placed the average at 52 per cent, a 2 per cent decrease, while Dow, Jones & Co. said production for the week ended Monday was at 55 per cent, a decline of 1½ per cent from its last estimate.

Cotton goods were steady today, with a little more business offering in finished lines. Rayon yarns were being bought more freely by silk and cotton weavers for use in rayon crepes for spring. Spring dress goods and coatings were opened for the new season on a price basis from 5 cents to 15 cents a yard below last season. Silks were quiet and raw silk slightly easier in the local market.

Raw silk futures closed firm; sales, 830 bales; December, 223; March, 228; May, 223. Open market quotations (60-day basis), Shanghai steam extra B, 200. Canton double extra A, 14-16s, 170. Japanese crack double extra, 255.

Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., said today that there are plenty of evidences that the "steel industry is looking up." "We have passed through many months of depression, but that is all behind us," he said. "Stiffening of prices shows that many consumers have nearly exhausted their supplies. Industries consuming steel are increasing activities."

Ellery W. Mann, president of Zonite Products Corporation, said that sales for September exceeded the same month last year and that October sales to date are 15 per cent ahead of the peak period of 1929. There has been no falling off in demand, he said, and added that the corporation will spend more than $2,000,000 in advertising this year.

The better showing made by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad in September in comparison with a year ago, "reflects the better control of expenses," Henry A. Scandrett, president, said today. He said the management feels that the net will continue to make a more favorable comparison with last year in the final months of this year, but added that "no significant change is discernible in Northwest business."

The Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston has sold to a banking syndicate $10,000,000 1-year 3¾ per cent coupon notes and $20,000,000 2-year 4 per cent coupon notes, all to be dated November 1, 1930. The new financing has been arranged to retire $30,000,000 4½ per cent notes due November 1 next.

The Seagrave Corporation today reported September quarter net profit of $45,127 before Federal taxes, compared with $94,221, or 68 cents a common share, in the like quarter last year.

The Artloom Corporation reported for the September quarter net profit of $8,329, as compared with $176,909 for the corresponding period of 1929. Profit for the third quarter this year reduced the total net loss for the first nine months to $34,920, compared with a net profit of $327,380 for the first nine months last year.

New life insurance production in September was relatively better than in August, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents' Compilation forwarded to the United States Department of Commerce shows. The report combines the records of new life insurance production, exclusive of revivals, increases and divided additions, of 44 member companies having 82 per cent of the total life insurance in all United States legal reserve companies. The aggregate of all classes of new insurance for September was $894,396,000, a decrease of 1.2 per cent from $905,026,000 for September last year. The decline in August was 8.7 per cent. The total written for the first nine months this year was $9,572,987,000. An increase of 0.2 per cent over $9,556,527,000 for the like period last year.

The daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York today showed imports of $575,000 from Argentina. There was no gold withdrawn for export, but gold earmarked for foreign account increased $4,000,000.

THURSDAY MORNING — The Washington Post. — OCTOBER 16, 1930

BORLAND LAW LEVY ACTION UNDECIDED BY DISTRICT HEADS

Decision Will Affect Between 20,000 and 30,000 Owners of Property.

THOSE WHO HAVE PAID MAY CLAIM REFUNDS

Commissioners Today Will Hear Recommendation of Bride on Question.

Between 20,000 and 30,000 owners of something like 50,000 pieces of property in the District will be affected by the decision of the District Commissioners on their future course of procedure under the crippled Borland law, William P. Richards, District assessor, estimated yesterday.

The exact number of property owners who will be affected and the exact number of pieces of property has not been ascertained, Mr. Richards said. Considerable time and work would be required to ascertain the exact number of property owners involved, he said.

Although public interest in the subject continued high yesterday, no formal action was taken to settle the many questions involved.

One thing became increasingly apparent, however, and that was that every property owner who has paid a special assessment for street improvements within the last three years should file with the District Commissioners a formal request in writing for a refund of whatever amounts they have paid in the last three years.

Refunds Are Not Certain.

It is not certain that the District Commissioners will decide to approve refunding of all improper assessments which have been paid by property owners in the belief that they were legally assessed. The commissioners still are to determine what course they will pursue. But the filing of a formal demand for return of payments made voluntarily may save the property owner the amount paid.

If the commissioners decide to waive the effective, if unjust and inequitable defense of voluntary payment, then such demands for refunds will protect the persons who have paid within the last three years. The three-year limit dates from the date of the payment and is not governed by the date the payment was claimed as due by the District government. For example, if the District levied on assessment against a piece of property eight years ago, or longer, and the owner did not pay that assessment until some date within the last three years the date the payment was made governs the expiration of the three years. Any payment made since October 16, 1927, is today within the period; tomorrow the limit will be October 17 and so on.

Property Owners Must Decide.

Although the District Commissioners may, as a matter of public policy, decide to enforce whatever provisions of the Borland law are left effective by adverse court decisions in the past, even the most optimistic of District officials foresee difficulties in the way of making such a course effective.

Informally they admit that those who have refused to pay assessments levied against their property should, for the time being at least, continue in their refusal to pay, certainly until such a time as all questions about the law are settled.

This was not given as general advice to property owners, each of whom, officials said, must decide their own course and stand by the results of their decision.

William W. Bride, corporation counsel, and his several assistants who are most familiar with the Borland law, were busy yesterday conferring on the situation. There is to be another conference this morning and Mr. Bride is expected to prepare his report and recommendations to the District Commissioners some time tomorrow morning in time for their consideration at the regular meeting of the Board of Commissioners to be held tomorrow afternoon.

Bride to Make Recommendations.

It is reported that Mr. Bride will recommend that all efforts to enforce the Borland law be abandoned before its application to those whose property has not been excluded by decisions already made. Also, it is said, he will recommend that the District waive the defense of voluntary payment and refund improperly collected assessments paid within three years.

But at the same time the report of the corporation counsel is expected to point out the possibilities of other courses of action.

It might be wise, it probably will be pointed out, to exhaust every legal possibility of enforcing what is left of the Borland law for the benefit of Congress when the Commissioners propose some new law to take the place of the Borland law.

One of the most important decisions against the District was taken directly to the United States Supreme Court from the District Supreme Court. The Court of Appeals of the District did not pass on the question, and after the United States Supreme Court refused to review the case the District Supreme Court decision was let stand.

May Enhance Law's Effectiveness.

Decision may be reached to take this case to the Court of Appeals, and if this is done and the Court of Appeals reverses the District Supreme Court then the effectiveness of the law will be materially enhanced. The last case which the United States Supreme Court refused to review last Monday was taken through the Court of Appeals, which sustained the District Supreme Court.

District officials yesterday were unable to say exactly how much money was involved. Mr. Richards said that the total assessments under the Borland law amounted to something like $4,500,000, only about half of which has been paid.

The percentage of the assessments which has been paid has decreased each year since attacks were begun on the law. In 1928 the assessments for roadways was $477,717.23, of which $151,248.93 was paid; the assessment in 1929 was $704,819.75, of which only $175,238.93 was paid, while the assessment for 1930 was $221,297.42, of which $110,894.45 has been paid. Certain alley, sidewalk and curb and gutter assessments also are affected by some of the adverse court decisions.

Fined for Cigarette Sale.

Isadore Kline, proprietor of a grocery store on H street near Second street northwest, was fined $10 yesterday for selling cigarettes to a minor by Judge John P. McMahan in Police Court.

SOME PARK ROADS MUST BE REPLACED

Older Highways in Rock Creek Held Not Suited to Modern Traffic.

WEATHER WEARS, TOO

Rock Creek Park is to be modernized to meet the requirements of scientific progress, as represented by the automobile.

Built originally in the almost forgotten equine era, the park roads are not solid enough to stand against the ever-increasing flow of automobile traffic, it was revealed by the office of public parks and parkings yesterday.

It is not planned to ask for funds to replace the present roads in the immediate future, but officials of the parks office predict that the time is not far distant when it will be necessary to reconstruct all of the older roads in the park.

Roads in the newer parts of the park and in the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkways now under construction are being constructed to meet present requirements.

Most of the old roads are of gravel, resurfaced until now they have a bituminous crust 1½ to 2 inches deep. They are too narrow, and in addition are built with high curved crowns which makes them unsuited for automobile traffic. Water seeps through the thin bituminous surface, freezes in the winter, and tears the roads to pieces, because they have no adequate drainage facilities.

Mrs. Ida H. Grant Leaves $373,000

Will of Mother of Parks Superintendent Is Filed for Probate.

An estate valued at $373,000 was left by Mrs. Ida Honore Grant, widow of Maj. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, and mother of Col. U. S. Grant 3d., superintendent of public buildings and public parks. This was revealed yesterday when the petition for the probate of the will was filled. Mrs. Grant died September 5.

According to the will, which was filed through Attorneys Peele, Ogilby and Lesh, on September 8, Col. Grant and Princess Julia Grant Cantacuzene, of Sarasota, Fla., are to have the life use of the estate while at their death it is to be divided among their children.

The estate consists of real estate assessed at $162,374.25 and personal property estimated at $211,404.63.

U. S. Artist Loses $80 to Footpads

William Watts Is Overpowered in Alley and Badly Beaten Up.

William Watts, 54-year-old artist employed at the Capitol, was beaten and robbed of about $80 yesterday afternoon while he was walking through an alley in a block between K and L, Fourth and Fifth streets northwest.

According to police, the man, who lives at 817 Fifth street northwest, was suddenly confronted by two white men, who held him down and went through his pockets.

He was found shortly afterward by persons passing nearby, and hurried to Casualty Hospital, where it was found that he was severely bruised about the head, the result, physicians say, of kicks administered while the man lay helpless in the street. He is also suffering from shock. Dr. L. J. Green, who is attending him, said last night.

Prisoner Is Released On Habeas Corpus Writ

Thomas Le Page, who was arrested here more than a week ago and held at the Seventh Precinct Station without being booked on any specific charge, was released from custody yesterday by order of Justice Peyton Gordon, of District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The action of the justice came after hearing a petition for writ of habeas corpus filed on behalf of the prisoner by Attorneys John P. Mullen and James B. Archer. The Government sought to have the court dismiss the writ claiming that the man was wanted in New York in connection with a homicide charge, but failed to supply information in support of that contention.

DRY HELPS POLICE ARREST BROTHER

Dr. F. Scott McBride's Kin Held on Charge of Passing Worthless Check.

EXTRADITION IS STARTED

Emmet McBride, brother of F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, is being held here for police of Steubenville, Ohio, on information which local authorities say was obtained from the dry leader.

Authorities say that the dry leader informed police on Monday that his brother was wanted for passing an allegedly worthless $35 check in the Ohio city. Information which he gave, they said, resulted in his arrest.

Plans for the extradition of the man are under way between the two police jurisdictions. The prisoner was booked for investigation at the Sixth Precinct Station on the complaint of Detective Clarence Talley. Early yesterday he was removed to the Fifth Precinct Station.

Dr. McBride in a statement issued yesterday said that his brother is mentally irresponsible as a result of an injury received several years ago. "He has been irregular in money matters, referring to bills and checks for which he has obligated himself without any funds to back up the same," Dr. McBride said.

The dry leader further said that his brother has been under care recently in institutions for mentally defective patients. Dr. McBride also declared that he would attempt to assist his brother out of the difficulties.

At the police station the prisoner was booked as a teacher and his home at Steubenville, Ohio. He gave his age as 50 years.

Directed Verdict Frees Man on Holdup Charge

At the direction of Justice Oscar R. Luhring, a District Supreme Court jury yesterday acquitted Harry Mills, 25 years old, of Bryant street northwest near First street, of charges of robbery in connection with the alleged holdup of the manager of the Lord Baltimore filling station at Sixth and K streets northwest.

The indictment on which he was tried charged that he had held up the place on May 30 last and stolen $79. Mills was largely instrumental in gaining his own freedom, for, when placed on the stand by Attorney Cedric F. Johnson, he established an alibi which was backed up by other witnesses.

Pratt Announces Shifts In Detective Bureau

Several changes in the personnel of the Detective Bureau were announced yesterday by Maj. Henry G. Pratt which will become effective this morning at 9 o'clock. They were the result of the promotion of Capt. Edward J. Kelly to assistant to the bureau chief, Inspector William S. Shelby.

Lieut. C. P. Cox, also recently promoted, will assist Desk Lieuts. C. J. P. Weber and W. O. Embry in their duties, and Detective Sergt. John Flaherty will assume duties as head of the homicide squad, which yesterday greeted two new members, Detective Sergts. J. C. Collins and C. E. Hansfield, who have been on the general assignment squad.

Sinclair Reindicted In Embezzlement

New Yorker Charged With Misuse of $42,000 of Estate Funds.

George Burnley Sinclair, of New York, was reindicted by the District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday on an embezzlement charge in connection with management of the estate of his uncle, Cephas Hempstone Sinclair. The indictment charges embezzlements totaling $42,000.

The defendant was first indicted March 15, 1923, but was not apprehended until last December, when he was arrested in New York. He fought extradition, but was removed and posted $10,000 cash bond. Recently his attorneys attacked the indictment by demurrer and when it was revealed that the points involved were serious the case was presented anew.

Sinclair, as administrator, is said to have obtained funds of his uncle's estate on September 16, 1921. He is alleged to have disappeared a year later and was removed. Then discrepencies in accounts were noted and the original indictment resulted.

VIRGIL EXERCISES FEATURE PROGRAM AT GEORGETOWN U.

Formal Opening of College of Arts and Sciences Also Observed.

DR. NEVILS PRESIDES AND PAYS POET TRIBUTE

Italian Embassy Counselor Namem Chancelor of New Academy.

Georgetown University celebrated jointly the bi-millenial anniversary of the birth of Virgil and the formal opening of its college of arts and sciences yesterday by inaugurating at special scholastic exercises in Gaston Hall a Virgilian academy in commemoration of a poet whose works have been studied more by the Jesuits than those of any other single writer.

Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, led the exercises, a holiday having been declared for the student body, and the Rev. R. Rush Rankin, S. J., dean of the college, read the list and citations of honor students. President Nevils presented the medals.

Announcement was made by Dr. Nevils that Count Marchette, counsellor of the Italian embassy, had been named chancellor of the newly established Virgilian academy at Georgetown. Count Marchetti was reared in the very section of Italy where Virgil was born. An introductory talk was made by E. Coyne Maloney, of New York, president of the Yard.

Panegyric on Poet.

Dr. Nevils, who made the principal address, delivered a panegyric on the poet. "No pagan author had such a fore knowledge of Christianity as did this man," he said.

"He was recognized by St. Paul and the early fathers of the church as a gifted writer with almost prophetic vision. It was similarity of ideals with Christ's own teachings that has caused Virgil's works to live on through the ages, although his own span of life was perfected in a few years. His prophetic vision and the beauty of his poetry have made his poems live in history. St. Paul himself, upon visiting Virgil's tomb, exclaimed, 'O, could I have met you alive, what a Christian I would have made of you!'"

The first roster of students named to the Virgilian Academy because of their excellence in the study of his works during the last term was announced at the exercises. ITLAY AMBASSADOR SPEAKER AT G.W.U. FALL CONVOCATION

Nobile Giacomo de Martino Hails Virgil's Influence on Life of Americans.

CONVOCATION GREETINGS COME FROM MUSSOLINI

Degrees Given 104 Students at Ceremony Attended by Large Crowd.

The United States was portrayed as a "living example of that combination of force and virtue first proclaimed by Virgil" and this age was compared with that of the famous Latin poet last night by the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, at the fall convocation of George Washington University in Memorial Continental Hall.

The celebration, attended by an audience that packed the auditorium, marked the graduation of 104 students fro mthe university as well as the bimillenial anniversary of the birth of the chief Roman man of letters.

Premier Mussolini sent his greetings through the Italian Ambassador and "to all scholars of the American Nation."

Traces Life of Virgil.

"I appreciate, Mr. President, the occasion offered to turn my thoughts to your university, illustrious for fame of rigorous discipline in studies and for the glorious name of George Washington," he said.

The ambassador, as the principal speaker, traced briefly the life and the influence of Virgil, who, he said, "has done more than any other to give modern thought, however indirectly, its logic and its permanence."

Virgil's work, "though primarily done for Rome, was really done for mankind," he continued. "His work is not yet finished. I tell you, ladies and gentlemen, the influence of Virgil, the noble and beneficent idealism which begins faintly in the Ecalogues of pastoral poems, glows in the Georgios, and reaches the full splendor of its fire in the Aeneid, can not attain its climax until the thing all honest men are hoping for becomes solidly established, I mean world peace; a world peace established on mutual understanding and human love.

"Truly is Virgil still a living inspiration, a potent guide toward what, only a few years since, all men regarded as chimerical, Utopian.

Leader of Democracy.

"The United States is a living example of that combination of force and virtue first proclaimed by Virgil. I have not the slightest doubt—on the authority of American scholars—that if your 'Conscript Fathers,' who framed the Constitution and decided the destinies of your country, knowing full well the dangers they incurred, had not been brought up on Virgil and the other classics, your Government, more, your whole conception of government and of the rights of your people would have taken a different form."

The Ambassador's address followed a charge by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington, the theme of which likewise was the Roman poet.

Portraying the United States as a leader in the interpretation of democracy, Dr. Marvin said that the "decadence of the old and varying forms of autocracy does not prove them corrupt, but rather that there is a general consciousness of their futility in representing the new feelings and aspirations among men."

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes. A musical program was offered.

ELMER TWITCHELL'S DAILY EDITORIAL NO. 7.

FOOTBALL is one of the most popular outdoor sports in autumn and early winter. Thousands of people crowd the stadia of the country every Saturday afternoon. As the games get better the crowds get larger.

The earlier contests are relatively unimportant, but as the season progresses the teams become more evenly matched and public interest rises to great heights. This is only natural under a democratic form of government. Our forefathers would not like to see it otherwise.

When the so-called big college teams meet in a few weeks millions of persons will be unable to get tickets. This is because there are more people anxious to see the games than there are seats for them. This condition will have been remedied only when there are more seats than there are people to occupy them. This will probably take some time.

GIVE THIS LITTLE GIRL A HAND.

Or horses at the track,
But I can get a bigger thrill
Finessing to a jack.

I like a hot world series game
When both the teams are troubled,
But that's mild by comparison
To six no-trump, redoubled!

CHAMBER SECURES 300 NEW MEMBERS

Darr Is Confident Goal of 500 Will Be reached by Tomorrow.

More than 300 new members have been enlisted in the ranks of the Washington Chamber of Commerce in the membership drive which started last week, it was announced yesterday at a luncheon of team workers at the Washington Hotel.

The exact number of new members reported at the luncheon was 304. Hope is high in the organization that new memberships will exceed 400 when the last report is made tomorrow. When the plural membership teams complete their work the new memberships will be more than 500, Charles W. Darr, president of the chamber, is confident.

President Darr presided at the luncheon yesterday and addressed the team workers, offering them encouragement in the final spurt of the membership drive. J. K. Livingston, vice president of the American Express Co., was a guest at the luncheon. A brief talk was also made by Nicholas J. Whelan, publisher of the Washington Times and Herald. The reports were compiled and announced by Col. Bliss.

The divisions, led by majors, are divided into teams. The standing of the divisions follows: Maj. H. A. Brooks, 80 members; Maj. Ernest J. Spitzer, 44 members; Maj. George E. Kenelpp, 42 members, and Maj. Darrell P. Aub, 21 members.

Mabel C. Redfield, of McLean, Va., filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court seeking to recover $5,000 from the Capital Traction Co.

The woman alleges that she was boarding a street car at Pennsylvania avenue and Seventh street northwest when the car was started suddenly and she was heavily thrown. She says she suffered serious injuries. Attorneys Frank F. Nesbit and Charles E. Pledger, jr., appear for the woman.

Mystery Surrounds Stabbing of Car Rider

Mystery surrounds the stabbing yesterday afternoon of William Bell, 24-year-old Negro, who was assaulted by two other colored men as he was descending from a street car at Fourth street and Maryland avenue southwest.

Bell was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was treated for a stab in the arm. He refused to discuss the stabbing with Detective Sergt. Harry Cole, of the homicide squad, who is investigating the case. Because of his refusal to talk, he was taken to the Fourth Precinct and detained for investigation.

Speaker Predicts U.S. Trade to Grow

World Progress Depends on Our Development, Rotary Told.

A prediction that American trade would grow despite serious difficulties confronting it was made by Edward L. Bacher, manager of the deparment of foreign commerce of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in an address yesterday before the Rotary Club.

"World-wide economic development during the last 30 years," he said, "have so linked themselves with American progress that the future growth of our export and import business is not only assured but an actual necessity, if the world is to go ahead. Temporary setbacks have occurred and will occur, but the general upward trend of our foreign trade appears to be beyond question," he said.

"Further advances in civilization, improvements in the world's standards of living must be tied up with the great economic forces which have been revolutionizing the world since 1900. These processes have found their highest expression in the United States and it is to the United States that the nations of the world are looking most expectantly for perfection of machine, application of inventive genius to industry, and refinement of manufacturing and distributing systems. As surely as the world goes ahead our exports will increase. As surely as we go ahead, our import purchases will grow."

Monument Garden Survey Will Go On

100-Foot Drill Holes Fail to Disclose Rock Base for Foundation.

There is no rock on the north side of the Washington Monument at a depth of 100 feet, the National Capital Park & Planning Commission has found after reaching that depth with drills yesterday.

This fact, however, does not necessarily have any direct bearing upon plans for creating sunken gardens at the base of the monument, it was stated by officials of the commission. It is only one of many factors.

Several more holes are to be drilled within the next few days, and upon the consensus of results shown by these drillings will depend the course of future action regarding the gardens.

If a reasonable uniformity of substrata is found, it is probable that further steps toward building the gardens will be taken, but on the other hand, if it is found, for example, that there is no uniformity; that there is soil at one point to a great depth, an excess of sand or gravel at another, and rock near the surface at another, then it is probable that it would be deemed unsafe to undertake any excavations at the base of the monument.

$6,500 Verdict Awarded In Suit Four Years Old

A suit filed more than four years ago was settled in District of Columbia Supreme Court when a jury before Justice Wendell P. Stafford returned a verdict of $6,500 in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant, the District of Columbia. The plaintiff, Mrs. Mary Bowen, started her action in April, 1926, alleging that she had fallen over a barrier. Later, she substituted attorneys, and the case was calendared for trial.

Yesterday after hearing, Attorneys William B. O'Connell and Harry Whelan, drew from witnesses the admission that lights on a barricade on a street under repairs were out. The District attempted to prove that the lights had been extinguished by the wind. Mrs. Brown lives at 1204 Monroe street northwest and in her suit alleged that the accident occurred in front of 1209 Fairmont street.

Detective May Be Hailed Before Police Trial Board

After viewing a Treasury Department truck which the defendant was driving, Judge John P. McMahon, in Police Court yesterday ruled that it was a physical impossibility for Ellsworth Grooms, Negro employe of the Treasury Department to have kicked Detective A. D. Mansfield, of the First Precinct, on the shins. Judge McMahon therefore dismissed an assault charge against Grooms brought by the policeman.

Detective Mansfield he stestified the previous day that he was forced to use his blackjack on Grooms trying to get him from the cab of the truck because the latter kicked him on the shins. Judge McMahon continued the case a day until he could see the truck. Grooms' truck and another car had collided when Detective Mansfield made the arrest.

A report of the case will be forwarded to Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner, by the Treasury Department today in which there will be a recommendation that Detective Mansfield be brought before the police trial board for his part in the affair.

WEBSTER SCHOOL PROBLEMS GIVEN BOARD FOR STUDY

McCoy Says Kindergarten Unit There Needed as Americanization Aid.

AGE LIMIT REGULATION IS UP FOR DISCUSSION

Foreign-Born Mothers Place Children in Class While Studying Citizenship.

The problem of keeping open the kindergarten at the Webster Americanization School involves a question of adult education and the children are a by-product problem, the Board of Education was told by former Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, of the District Supreme Court, yesterday afternoon.

Judge McCoy led a delegation which addressed the board on the Webster School kindergarten. No action on the kindergarten was taken by the board, it being announced at the outset of the meeting that no decisions would be reached until a later date.

Judge McCoy expressed belief that the Americanization School should be treated as a separate unit from other schools and that special rules should be made for this school. The chief argument of Judge McCoy and that of the other speakers was that without the kindergarten, foreign-born women who are mothers would be unable to become Americanized at the Webster School because they would have no place to put their children while attending classes.

Students Enrolled.

It was shown that the enrollment of the kindergarten at the Americanization School is 31 and that the majority of the pupils are children of mothers in the adult Americanization classes. The kindergarten, it was also shown, is used by American children in the neighborhood who have no other school and recreational facilities.

The importance of giving all foreign born residents of Washington the opportunity to become Americanized was stressed by Judge McCoy and the other speakers who were: Mrs. E. C. Rittue, representing the daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, past president of the District of Columbia Parent-Teacher Association, Herbert S. Wood, president of the District of Columbia Public School Association, Mrs. Anna E. Murray, representing the District of Columbia Federation of Colored Women's Clubs and A. J. Driscoll, president of the Midcity Citizens Association.

Dr. H. B. Learned, vice president of the board who presided in the absence of the president, Charles F. Carusi, told the delegation that the board was striving to solve the problem to the benefit of all concerned and added that in deliberating over the problem the board members would be influenced by the arguments presented at the meeting.

Some Pupils Under Age Limit.

The kindergarten at the Webster Americanization School is the only one permitting children under 5 years. Until the beginning of this school year there were a number of these under-age kindergartens in the school system, open to children under 5 years of age. Reorganization plans for the kindergartens, made by school officials in agreement with House and Senate conferees, called for the elimination of all these schools. All have been eliminated except the one at th Webster school around which the present agitation is centered.

Discussion of the entire kindergarten reorganization, involving the regular kindergartens, also went over to a later date. Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou submitted a tabular report to the board which shows how many kindergarten teachers have been transferred from the kindergartens to the grades; how many reinstatements there have been in the elementary schools and a detailed tabulation of all the kindergarten classes in the District, showing how many pupils there are to a teacher in the various schools.

This information will be carefully studied by the board members, and is expected to help them in their final decision as to what should be done with the kindergarten organization. Until last week the board was prepared to discontinue all kindergarten classes that did not maintain a daily average of 25 pupils. This is no longer necessary, since Representative Robert G. Simmons, of the House District subcommittee on appropriations, has informed the board that the conferees did not intend this to be done.

Reclassifications Are Cited.

Superintendent Ballou's report, based on compilations of the statistician's office, shows that nine teachers in divisions I to IX have been transferred from kindergartens to the grades. Fourteen teachers have been reinstated from leaves of absence in the elementary schools in divisions I to IX, and ten in divisions X to XIII, the report showed.

Appointment was approved by the board of Mrs. Mildred Hutchison Gropp for the position of chief examiner to succeed Harry English who recently retired. She received her education at Smith College, Johns Hopkins University, George Washington University and Harvard University. She has taught at Madrid, Spain; Northampton, Mass.; Baltimore, Md.; Buffalo, N. Y., and in local high schools.

Data on the cost of nonresident tuition were returned to the board by the District Commissioners with the suggestion that the additional cost of building repairs should be included in making the compilation of how much tuition nonresidents should pay. This would bring the nonresident fees up to $266 per annum in the teachers colleges; $167.90 in the senior high schools, $137 in the junior high and $86.87 in the elementary schools.

Marine, Woman Freed In Fatal Motor Crash

Luther C. Proffitt, a marine, and Hiawatha Summers, occupants of an automobile which last June 20 caused the death of Edward Bellman, 60 years old, at Twelfth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest, were exonerated by the grand jury yesterday. Both had been held for grand jury action on homicide charges immediately after the accident.

Charges against six other persons were also ignored as follows: James Ezell, carnal knowledge; Charles L. Lewis, grand larceny; Joseph Diggs, grand larceny; James V. Williams, embezzlement; Will D. Herron, embezzlement, and Otis W. Hamlett, receiving stolen property.
